President Tells of Humorous Haste of Packers

WHEN INSPECTION STARTED.

Washington, June 8.—In response to a request from the House Committee on Agriculture, President Roosevelt today forwarded to Representative Wadsworth, the chairman of that committee, the report made to him by a committee of the Department of Agriculture regarding conditions in the Chicago meat-packing houses. Accompanying the report was a letter from the President, in which he points out that there is no conflict in substance between the Neill-Reynolds report and that of the Agricultural Department experts. It is said in the latest report that the packing-house proprietors are manifesting almost "a humorous haste to clean up, repave and attempt to plan for future changes." New toilet rooms are being provided, with additional dressing rooms and clean towels. The report says that "the haste toward reform would have been amusing if it were not so nearly tragic."

The President says his investigations have not been completed, but that "enough has been developed, in my judgment, to call for immediate, thoroughgoing and radical enlargement of the powers of the Government in inspecting all meats which enter into interstate and foreign commerce."

* * *

The President's Letter.

Following is the text of the letter of the President to Chairman Wadsworth:

The White House, Washington, D. C., June 8, 1906—My Dear Mr. Wadsworth: In accordance with your request, I send you herewith the two reports of inspection by the committee appointed by the Department of Agriculture of April 5 and 13. This committee had already been appointed when I notified the Secretary that I desired that such a commission should be appointed in order to make the investigation. Subsequent complaints already made showed that the charges were not only against the packing houses, but also to a certain extent reflected upon the action of the Government inspectors, and I came to the conclusion that it was best to have an investigation by outside individuals who could not be charged with being in any way interested in the matter.

Accordingly before the completion of the investigation by the Department of Agriculture, I directed Mr. Neill and Mr. Reynolds to make an investigation, the first report of which has been laid before Congress. Much testimony has been offered to us, which has not been considered in this report, for Messrs. Neill and Reynolds in this report confine themselves to stating in more or less summary way the facts as to which they had been eye witnesses; and what they have said cannot be successfully controverted. Some of the ground traversed by Messrs. Neill and Reynolds is not touched upon in the report of the committee of the Agriculture Department. As to the ground covered in common by the reports of the two investigating committees, there is no conflict in substance as to the important matters, although there is a marked difference in emphasis, this being partially due to the greater length and detail of the report of the committee of the Department of Agriculture. In my judgment the emphasis of the report of Messrs. Neill and Reynolds is abundantly justified by the facts.

Immediate Results.

To show the immediate and extraordinary change for the better which the mere fact of the investigation is already bringing about in the condition of the packing houses in Chicago, it is only necessary to instance the following portions of a letter received from a most competent and trustworthy witness in Chicago, whose name I will give the committee if it so desires:

"Chicago, Friday, June 1—On Monday I began a tour of all the great packing houses, going first to Libby's, then to Swift's.

"Tuesday all the morning discussed changes that ought to be made and caught a glimpse of the awakening at Armour's. In the afternoon visited the plant with the superintendent.

"Wednesday I rested and contemplated the 'awakening of packing town.' It is miraculous.

"Thursday did Nelson Morris' with the superintendent. Nelson Morris has done much to make things better. By the time the next inspecting party arrives they will have still more new lavatories, toilet-rooms, dressing-rooms, cuspidors everywhere and signs prohibiting spitting. In most, the awakening seemed to come by force from without. There was the slightest indication that the 'still, small voice' was at work also.

"At Armour's, at my suggestion—I made no pretense of making an investigation—but frankly announced my desire to see things for myself and to get a fresh impression of conditions, as I had not seen the plants since before the strike. On every hand there was indication of almost humorous haste to clean up, repave and even to plan for future changes. Brand-new toilet rooms, new dressing rooms, new towels, etc., etc. Swift's and Armour's were both so cleaned up that I was compelled to cheer them on their way, by expressing my pleasure at the changes. The sausage girls were moved upstairs where they could get sun and light; they, too, have dressing rooms, etc. I asked for showers and lockers for the fasting workers at Armour's, and got a promise that they would put them in. The canning and stuffing room, chip beef and beef extract at Armour's seemed really quite good. In all these rooms the girls work. At Libby's the girls are to be put in a blue calico uniform, which they will buy at half price. They are putting in toilet rooms, which they say are temporary, and thought when the building is remodeled they will have these put in a better place. The haste toward reform would have been amusing if it were not so nearly tragic.

Plea For Help.

"They tried to win my help on the ground that loss of foreign trade would mean hardship for the workers in my neighborhood, and I must say I do share this fear, but I cannot see the wisdom of my coming out publicly and saying that I saw indications of an awakening, for I want the changes to be radical and permanent, even though we all have to suffer for the present."

I wish to repeat that my investigations are not yet through. I am not prepared to make a final statement, either as to so much of the complaints as concern the management of the Bureau of Animal Industry or as to certain of the graver changes in connection with the adulteration of meat products as well as other matters. But enough has been developed in my judgment to call for immediate, thorough-going and radical enlargement of the powers of the Government in inspecting all meats which enter into interstate and foreign commerce. Unfortunately, the misdeeds of those who are responsible for the abuses we design to cure will bring discredit and damage not only upon them, but on the innocent stock growers, the ranchmen and farmers of the country. The only way permanently to protect and benefit these innocent stock growers, the farmers and ranchmen, is to secure by law the thorough and adequate inspection for which I have asked. Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The Hon. James W. Wadsworth, Chairman Committee on Agriculture, House of Representatives.

A Lengthy Report.

The report consists of 143 type-written pages. The committee began its work at Chicago, March 12 last, and continued the work until March 22. All abattoirs in Chicago having Government inspection, and two others, were inspected.

The report deals with eight subjects: The ante-mortem meat inspection service, the Federal post-mortem inspection, including microscopic inspection; the meat inspection service maintained at Chicago; the meat inspection service maintained by the city of Chicago; the Government supervision of canned products; the sanitary conditions of each establishment; the legal phase of the question, and the conclusions and recommendations of the committee.

The report begins with the Union stockyards at Chicago, containing 500 acres, all but fifty acres of which is paved.

"The drainage is good," the report says, "and the pens are kept as clean as the character of their use would permit."

The ante-mortem inspection is described and the statement made that rejected animals are required to be removed by their owners from the pens and are disposed of in accordance with law; that is, afterward slaughtered at an official abattoir under the supervision of Federal, State and city officials. In twenty-two establishments in Chicago post-mortem inspection is made, and in these the entire meat product is inspected.

The committee visited every room in the institutions mentioned in making their inquiry regarding sanitation. The report says the sanitary conditions in some of the abattoirs is good; in some it is fair, and others bad.

* * *

An Instance Cited.

"The danger of misunderstanding an episode for a practice is illustrated by an incident which the committee observed on March 12, in the course of inspection of abattoir No. 1. In the cooler of this plant two rats were observed consuming the meat of a condemned hog carcass. They had partaken of a considerable portion of the trichinilous meat. In no other abattoir or portions thereof were any rats or rat excrement seen, although the committee visited every room and cellar of each abattoir. In many cases, cats were observed which were maintained in the abattoirs for the purpose of exterminating rats, and other means of preventing the depredations of rats were observed."

The report states it is impossible to make a generalization of sanitary conditions, and, continuing the comment on this same abattoir, the report says: "The walls and woodwork of the killing room are painted to the height of ten feet, and present a clean appearance. Above the paint, the woodwork is whitewashed, but not recently. The timbers were wet, probably the result of the condensation of steam. There were considerable accumulations of dirt on overhead rafters and beams. The windows of this room were dirty. The natural light and ventilation were good. The visit of the committee was unannounced, and it was observed that workmen were engaged in cleaning the floor, benches and various portions of the machinery. The ordor of chloride of lime was noticed."

REYNOLDS REITERATES STATEMENTS IN DETAIL.

Witnesses Encounter Rough Treatment From Republican Committee Members.

Washington, June 8.—James P. Reynolds, the co-author with Mr. Neill of the beef report, was on the stand today by the House Committee on Agriculture, in continuation of its beef inspection hearings.

Mr. Reynolds was asked his previous experience to qualify him to make the meat report.

"I have no official position now," he replied, and then stated he had had eight years' experience in university settlement work in New York, had been two years secretary to the Mayor of New York and in the past few years had been traveling. His profession was that of a lawyer.

FARMER ALMOST DIES ALONG WITH THE BUGS

STAYS INSIDE TO PREVENT FIRE SPREADING.

UNCONSCIOUS ON FLOOR.

Danville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Lee Owens, one of the wealthiest farmers of Boyle county, had a narrow escape from a sulphurous death to-day. He is a large poultry raiser and recently he has had great trouble from the ravages of insects upon his fowls. He read in a poultry journal that all insects could be driven away by the burning of sulphur in the chicken houses. He bought a bushel of sulphur and arranged it in his largest house and set fire to it, staying inside to prevent the fire from reaching the building. He remained inside so long that members of his family became exercised over his safety and upon opening the door found him lying prostrated upon the floor, overcome by the sulphurous smoke. A physician was hastily summoned and worked with the patient several hour before he was thoroughly revived. It is now believed that he will recover without serious injury.

HINES ENTERS AUDITOR'S RACE

Officially Announces His Candidacy For Place.

First To Declare For Position On Ticket.

Trimble Formally Announces For Lieutenant Governor.

IN DISPATCH FROM CAPITAL.

Frankfort, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Judge Henry B. Hines, of Bowling Green, authorizes the official announcement of his candidacy for the office of Auditor of Public Accounts. In speaking of the matter to-day Judge Hines said:

Since receiving the unanimous indorsement of my home district, the Third congressional district, in convention assembled at Greenville, Ky., May 22, 1906, for Auditor of Public Accounts, I have looked over the political field as carefully and as best I could in the time allotted, and have decided to announce my candidacy for that office.

Prefers Convention.

If I should consult my interest alone, I should greatly prefer a convention to a State primary election. But having become convinced that it means the redemption of the Ninth congressional district, and makes absolutely certain Democratic success in all the other districts of the State, except the Eleventh, I shall do all in my power to secure a State primary election for the nomination of a United States Senator and for the nomination of all candidates for State offices, to be held on the regular election day in November of the present year. However, that is a matter entirely with the State Executive Committee and I shall gladly and cheerfully acquiesce in whatever conclusion the members of that body may arrive at.

For more than six years I have been State Inspector and Examiner, an appointee of Gov. J. C. W. Beckham. In that position I have been in close touch with the present State Administration, and a confidential member of Gov. Beckham's official family. As an officer, and as a trusted friend of the Governor, I know that I have proven faithful and trust that I have proven efficient. As to the latter, it is for a discriminating public to judge.

Support From Fellow Workers.

In this campaign I shall hope and expect to receive a full measure of support from those persons with whom I have been most intimately associated all these years; I shall hope and expect to receive from the men for whom and with whom I have labored all the support and assistance that they can give. With few exceptions I believe that they will be glad to accord me the same character of support that I have given to their ambitions in the past, and that they will support me as loyally and as cheerfully as I supported them.

I have been an earnest supporter of the present Democratic State administration, and have always fought in the open and above board. I do not believe there is a man in Kentucky, however strongly he may have opposed the men and measures of the present administration, who will claim that I have ever flinched from the firing line or attempted to take an unfair advantage of an adversary.

In politics, as in business matters, I have tried to make my word stand always at par, and if any charge of a broken promise or of double-dealing has ever been brought against me, it has not yet reached my ears.

Having fully decided to make this race there shall be no shadow of turning; I shall at once enter upon the campaign with all of the intelligence at my command and with all the energy of my nature. If given this nomination I promise the Democratic party that I will carry without murmuring my full proportions of the burdens of the campaign to follow, and if elected pledge to the people of Kentucky a fair, honest and capable administration of the affairs of the office.

SUGGESTS W. R. EMBRY

As Candidate For Railroad Commissioner.

Danville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The Boyle County Herald, a local newspaper, will say to-morrow morning:

The friends of W. Reed Embry are making strong appeals to him, seeking his entrance into the race for Railroad Commissioner in opposition to C. C. McChord, incumbent, and the prospective candidate, J. H. Newman, of Versailles. Mr. Embry is the present Representative of Boyle county in the General Assembly, and during the last term, by his fine ability and straightforward course, won for himself an enviable reputation. He is a lawyer of ability and an orator of great polish and force, and would, we believe, devote his energies in behalf of the people in the same satisfactory manner that he guarded our interests at Frankfort last winter. Danville is centrally located in this railroad district and should have the next Commissioner, and we know of no better man than Mr. Embry to fill the exalted position.

TRIMBLE ANNOUNCES.

Will Make Race For Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky.

Washington, June 8.—[Special.]—Congressman South Trimble to-day formally announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor of Kentucky, and said he would make the race on his own merits to the end. It has been known in Kentucky for several weeks that Mr. Trimble probably would be a candidate for the place, and it is said he has strong support.

Mr. Trimble has served three terms in Congress from the famous Ashland district. He is a member of the Agricultural Committee, which is now hearing the beef packing houses investigation.

APPOINTS JUDGE LEWIS TO TRY HARGIS CASE.

Jackson, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Circuit Clerk W. D. Bach this afternoon received a telegram from Gov. Beckham notifying him that Judge T. G. Lewis, of Hyden, has been appointed Special Judge to try the case of the Commonwealth against Judge James Hargis, indicted for the murder of B. B. Cox. Judge Lewis was recently appointed Circuit Judge in the new Thirty-third district.

FATHER OF FIFTEEN DIES FROM THE HEAT.

First Death of Season From High Temperature At Cynthiana.

Cynthiana, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—T. J. Franklin, a tobacco buyer, died suddenly this morning from heat prostration while working around a sawmill on a farm near here. Mr. Franklin was about fifty years of age and was probably known by every tobacco man on the breaks in Louisville and Cincinnati. He was the father of fifteen children.

AFTER EIGHT YEARS OF ENTIRE MYSTERY

JIM FISHER ACCUSED OF MURDER OF WITNESS.

BROTHER WAS DEFENDANT.

London, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—A general interest is felt all over Clay county over the returning of an indictment at Manchester to-day against Jim Fisher, charging him with the willful murder of Hattie Deaton, who mysteriously disappeared about eight years ago and has never been seen since. Shortly before the girl disappeared Alex. Fisher, a brother of Jim Fisher, killed James Collins near the head of Pigeon Roost creek, and the Deaton girl was claimed to be an important witness in the case.

When she was seen, so it is alleged, she was with Alex. Fisher. On the night after she was last seen, an old outhouse was burned in the neighborhood, and human bones were found in the ashes. The jaw bones and teeth of the victim have for several years been in the possession of Dr. George F. Lucas, a dentist of this city. An alleged basis for the indictment is that the teeth have been identified as those of the Deaton girl.

The indictment against Fisher is said to have been caused by some of the Philpots, who are old enemies of the Fishers.

Fisher was at home when notified that he had been indicted, and it is claimed he said that no officer need attempt to arrest him, but that if they would wait until he gets ready he will go to Manchester and surrender.

Danville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—James W. McGinnis, accompanied by his attorney, Emmett Puryear, left this afternoon for Lexington, where he will file suit against the Campbell-Hagerman Female College for $5,000 damages because the college refused to grant a diploma to Miss Sadie McGinnis, his daughter. The diploma was withheld on the grounds that she attended a dance while a student at the college. She attended a hop given by the college boys in Lexington last week and on graduation day was refused her diploma. The suit will be bitterly prosecuted. This is the only suit of the kind that has ever been filed in this part of the State.

CITY WILL GET OVER $100,000

Continental Tobacco Company Must Pay Taxes.

Court of Appeals Refuses To Allow Exemption.

Not New Business Within Meaning of Law.

CASE IN COURT TWO YEARS.

Frankfort, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Under a judgment of the Jefferson Common Pleas Court, First division, upheld by the Court of Appeals at today's session, the Continental Tobacco Company must pay the city of Louisville taxes and penalties aggregating $100,000 due for the years from 1900 to 1904, both inclusive, on the Finzer and American Tobacco Company's plants, located in that city. The opinion of the court here was delivered by Judge Paynter.

The action was by the city of Louisville to recover the taxes for the years mentioned above, which the Continental Company refused to pay, claiming exemptions under an ordinance of the city, enacted in 1898, which provides that new enterprises shall be entitled to exemption from taxation for a period of five years after locating in the city. The Continental took over the John Finzer and American Tobacco Company factories and enlarged their capacity under the new corporation, and made claim to be a new enterprise within the meaning of the ordinance. The decision of the court here is of much importance. In reviewing the case, and after affirming the judgment of the court below, the court here today says:

* * *

Opinion By Court.

"The appellant is a New Jersey corporation and was organized for the purpose of acquiring large tobacco factories in the country. John Finzer & Brother and the American Tobacco Company, corporations, owned large establishments in the city of Louisville, manufacturing plug and smoking tobacco. The consideration for the sale to the Continental Tobacco Company was cash, and common and preferred stock which was issued to them in the Continental Company. This company was a new corporation, distinct from the corporations whose property it purchased, although some of the persons who held stock and were officers of the selling companies became officers and stockholders in the new concern. This is an action to recover taxes for the years 1900 to 1904, both inclusive, aggregating more than $100,000.

"Appellant claims that it is exempt from the payment of these taxes to the city of Louisville by reason of the ordinance which was passed by the General Council of the city of Louisville on July 29, 1898, which provides that in order to induce the location of more manufacturing establishments within the city limits any person, firm or corporation, which shall, after the passage of the act of the legislature authorizing the ordinance, permanently locate and conduct manufacturing establishments within the city limits, shall be exempt from taxation for the period of five years after such location and commencement of the business.

Not New Enterprises.

"The Finzer Company and the American Tobacco Company were going concerns at the time they were purchased, and at the time the Continental Company began to operate them in Louisville. No purpose seems to have ever existed to abandon these manufacturing establishments, therefore Louisville did not get new enterprises, new manufacturing establishments, but simply another corporation which continued to operate the old ones. If the appellant is not required to pay taxes under the facts of this case, it is possible for manufacturing establishments which are not new enterprises to escape taxation for an indefinite period."

CASE LONG FOUGHT.

In Courts For Two Years and Much Involved.

Judge A. E. Richards, City Attorney, received a telegram late yesterday afternoon informing him of the Court of Appeal's decision.

"For almost two years the case has been in court," said Judge Richards yesterday afternoon. "The suit was originally instituted against the Continental Tobacco Company, which concern is now known as the American Tobacco Company. The $100,000 represents the amount due the city for taxes from the company for the last five years. The American Tobacco Company is what is known as a trust, it having bought up all the smaller concerns that were operating in Louisville. The refusal of the company to pay taxes for five years was because of the stand taken that the company was entitled to a five years' exemption from taxes, it being a new concern. This claim was denied by the city, however, as it was held that in reality the consolidation of several companies that had been in business in Louisville for years did not constitute a new concern that was entitled to five years' exemption from taxes."

Not Prepared To Talk.

C. C. Vogt, resident manager of the American Tobacco Company, which has its main office in New York City, said yesterday afternoon that he was in no position to state what steps would now be taken by the company. He said that the Continental Tobacco Company was not now in existence, but admitted that the American Tobacco Company had taken over the property of the Continental Tobacco Company.

Judge Richards said yesterday afternoon that the decision of the Court of Appeals was final, and that the money would now have to be paid into the treasury of the city.

Great Importance In Louisville.

The decision handed down yesterday by the Court of Appeals is of far more importance to Louisville than from a mere monetary standpoint in that one case. The decision has been anxiously awaited for some time by a number of small manufacturing concerns in Louisville, unwilling to pay their taxes until the decision in the American Tobacco Company case was made.

Daniel Murphy, former City Attorney, said last night that the case was almost parallel to that decided by the Court of Appeals about four years ago in favor of those at the head of the Mengel box factory. "The points of difference in the two cases are very fine," he said, "and on first thought it would seem that the Court of Appeals had reversed itself.

Different For Mengel Case.

"In the case of the Mengel box factory, Mr. Mengel had announced his intention of moving his plant to St. Louis. In fact, he had gone to St. Louis, and had almost perfected arrangements for the erection of a plant there. He had ceased his operations in Louisville, and was on the eve of shaking the dust of the city from his feet, when, according to Mr. Mengel, he received a letter from Henry Stone, then City Attorney, informing him that if he would change his mind, change the location of his plant, which was then at Eleventh and Kentucky streets, to some other place in the city, he would be entitled to operate for five years under the law exempting new concerns from the payment of taxes.

Col. Stone Fought Case.

"Despite the fact that Mr. Mengel claimed to have received this letter from Mr. Stone, the latter fought him when the case was taken to the Court of Appeals. It was shown to the satisfaction of the court that preparations had al lbeen completed for the removal of the plant to St. Louis; that the Mengel Box Company had actually ceased to operate its Louisville plant, and that after reconsidering the matter the company had erected a new plant at Twelfth street and Ormsby avenue. On this account the Court of Appeals decided against the city and allowed the company to operate for five years without the payment of city taxes.

"With the American Tobacco Company the case is different in that the plant has the same location as it had when it was operating under the name of the Continental Tobacco Company. The plant never did cease operation, and the only change made, as I understand it, was in the name. The company did not build a new plant, but continued to operate that which had been in operation years previous."

Not a Reversal.

Judge A. E. Richards, when asked last night whether the Court of Appeals, in its decision yesterday, had reversed itself, said that it had not. His attention was called to the decision in the case of the Mengal box factory, and he stated that the grounds for action were totally different.

"I couldn't go into the cases tonight," he said, "but the Court of Appeals most certainly did not reverse itself in the two decisions."

Had the decision of the Coourt of Appeals been in favor of the American Tobacco Company, it is said that many manufacturing concerns in Louisville would have adopted measures to avoid the payment of taxes for the next five years. It would have been an easy matter, it is said, for a concern to have charged to the name under which it is now operating to some other name and call itself a new company. The decision, it is said, will cause those corporations which have been holding back the payment of their taxes to come forward and settle their obligations to the city without further delay.

CABINET CHANGES SEEM IMMINENT

MORE RUMORS OF SHAKE-UP IN ST. PETERSBURG.

EMPEROR THINKS SERIOUSLY OF BOWING TO STORM.

PROSPECT OF CONCESSIONS.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—The popular expectation that a change of ministry is imminent is fostered by the simultaneous departure of Premier Goremykin, several leading members of the Council of the Empire and other trusted advisers of Emperor Nicholas for a conference at Peterhof this afternoon. The Cabinet as a whole was not summoned and the results have not transpired; but Ministers, with whom the Associated Press correspondent talked this evening, again asserted that they did not expect immediate developments.

The Associated Press learns that it is true that the Government is seriously considering bowing to the storm so far as to adopt to a limited extent the principle of expropriations. In this programme forced appropriation will be granted only in exceptional cases; for example when land necessary to consolidate scattered peasant holdings is otherwise unobtainable. This slight concession is a first definite step towards rapproachment; but it is doubtful if the conservative leaders of the conservative Democratic party, however, desirous of finding a common ground of meeting, dare abandon a single iota of the programme drafted at the last congress of the party.

Gen. Skallon, Governor General of Warsaw, and Gen. Kaulbars, Governor General of Odessa, are also said to be about to quit their posts.

MEN IN CONGRESS ARE FOR BRYAN

Recent Events Accentuate Their Sentiments.

First To Beat Hearst and Then Roosevelt.

THE VACANCY IN MARYLAND.

Washington, June 8.—[Special.]—Nearly all the Democrats in Congress appear to be in favor of Mr. Bryan for President in 1908. The action of the Indiana Democratic State Convention yesterday and the editorial indorsement of Mr. Henry Watterson, which was reprinted here to-day, has added fresh enthusiasm to the Bryan feeling. The Democrats are not only certain of the nomination of the famous Nebraskan, but are certain of his election. They know, what some of them never knew before, and that is that the Republicans have been buying their candidates in for the last ten years, and the feeling is strong that the recent exposures and enactment of new laws will in the future prevent such wholesale fraud and debauchery of the elective franchise. The cry here among Democrats is Bryan, in order to defeat Hearst at the convention, and Bryan to defeat Roosevelt at the polls. That's the ticket.

Will Not Aid Machine.

The Lincoln Republicans of Pennsylvania are not going to withdraw their ticket and fuse with Penrose and his machine nominees. The decent Republicans of the Keystone State have had all they want of machine politics and bosses, and propose hereafter to stand or fall for pure politics and good government. Their resolute position may not defeat the machine ticket in November, but it will at least defeat ten or twelve machine stand-patters running for Congress.

The Maryland Vacancy.

There is lively interest here as to who will succeed the late Senator Gorman to his seat in the Senate. There are a large number of good, strong Democrats in Maryland. Gov. Warfield can hardly make a mistake in selecting a good man. Among those who have an excellent chance of being appointed are ex-Gov. Whyte, ex-Gov. Jackson, ex-Gov. Smith, L. Victor Baughman, Attorney General W. S. Bryan and Joseph N. Miles. Whyte, Baughman and Miles appear to have the best show. The appointment may be made to-morrow, otherwise on Monday, as Gov. Warfield stated to-day that he intended to fill the place promptly.

Judge Dearing In Washington.

Judge W. G. Dearing, Surveyor of the Port of Louisville, arrived in Washington to-day. He is en route to Annapolis to see his son, who is a midshipman in the Naval Academy. The sudden arrival of the Surveyor caused considerable speculation among the Kentucky Republicans. The charges filed by him against Mrs. N. A. Cardwell, a clerk in his office, are thought to have a bearing upon his visit. It is probable that he will see the Secretary before his return to Kentucky and make a personal explanation to that official of the conditions in his office. Judge Dearing says there is nothing in the report that he is willing to resign the surveyorship if he can receive the appointment to the District Attorneyship at Louisville. Judge Dearing was originally a candidate for the District Attorneyship of the Eastern district to succeed Judge Tinsley. The fact that he is a lawyer has brought his name to the front in the speculation over the District Attorneyship to succeed the late incumbent. Representative Bennett, of the Ninth Kentucky district, came from Kentucky with Judge Dearing. He says he has reached no conclusion upon the District Attorneyship, and for the present will make no indorsement.

Effort To Make Trouble.

The Republican press, always ready to inaugurate a row among the Democrats, have long stories to-day to the effect that the selection of Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, for the Senate minority leadership is a turn-down for Senator Bailey, of Texas. It is needless to say that there is nothing in such reports. Senator Bailey himself, as has heretofore been told in the Courier-Journal, was among the first to suggest that Senator Blackburn be made the minority leader. Senator Bailey and Senator Blackburn are the warmest of friends. The Kentucky Senator would not accept the place to-morrow if he thought his colleague from Texas was in any sense a candidate. Senator Bailey believes the long and creditable service rendered by the Kentucky Senator entitles him to the place, and at the Democratic caucus to-morrow he will so state and place his name in nomination. When Senator Blackburn's time expires Senator Bailey will be elected to the Senate minority leadership with the same unanimity with which Blackburn now succeeds. Between the Kentuckian and the Texan there is no rivalry.

Mr. Williams Denies Report.

The report that Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, the Democratic leader, is to accept the chair of Economics and Political History at the University of Virginia meets with prompt denial from Mr. Williams. He has not even been offered the chair, and in case it is tendered him by the board he will decline it. Mr. Williams is a candidate for the senatorship to succeed Senator Money. In the meantime, he has great hopes of being the Speaker of the House. If the Democrats win next November he will be elected Speaker with probably no position. Senator Money's term expires in March, 1911, and Mr. Williams will offer for his place whether he is Speaker or minority leader. The House Democrats have never been more capably led than at the present time, and the Mississippi Democrats are thought to appreciate Mr. Williams' service to the extent of electing him to the Senate.

Mr. Sherley's Good Work.

By an amendment placed upon the Sundry Civil Bill to-day Representative Sherley saved the Marine Hospital at Louisville and those throughout the country from being abolished by the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Shaw has had the intention of abolishing the Louisville hospital and several others. The testimony showed that it would be no saving to the Government to take this course, and Representative Sherley has stoutly resented it, especially as only last year he got an appropriation of $6,000 for improvements at the Louisville hospital. When Mr. Sherley offered his amendment to-day a point of order was made against it by Representative Tawney, but the House sustained Mr. Sherley and the amendment was placed in the bill.

Two Set Speeches In Senate.

Washington, June 8.—The Senate to-day listened to two set speeches, one by Senator Morgan, in support of his resolution providing for an investigation by a Senate committee of the affairs of the Isle of Pines, and the other by Senator Hopkins, in opposition to the Sea-level Panama Canal Bill. Neither measure was acted upon. Some time was also spent in considering the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill.

Sundry Civil Bill In House.

Washington, June 8.—With the exception of an hour spent on pension legislation, in which time 357 bills for the relief of soldiers in the Civil and Spanish wars were passed, the House labored to-day on the Sundry Civil Bill, making much headway toward final passage.

CANADIAN POINTS

BEYOND COMMUNICATION BECAUSE OF SEVERE STORM.

Detroit, Too, a Great Sufferer—Exact Damage Not Definitely Fixed.

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—Eastern Ontario was swept by a terrific wind and rainstorm this afternoon, and as a result all wire communication between this city and Canadian points east of Chatham, about sixty miles from here, was cut off. Chatham suffered severe property loss from the storm, which unroofed houses, blew down trees, felled wires and filled the streets with debris; but no loss of life resulted and no one was seriously hurt. Considerable property damage is reported from small towns and farms between here and Chatham.

A torrential rainstorm, accompanied by a forty-mile wind, swept Detroit just before 6 o'clock this evening. The rainfall in less than an hour measured 1.36 inches, and the wind in five minutes sprang from a gentle six-mile breeze to forty miles an hour. Trees were felled all over the city, causing severe damage to wires and putting several hundred telephones out of commission. Several street car lines were held up by broken trolley wires for a time during the busiest hour of the evening. Unconfirmed reports of loss of life on the river were current to-night. One of these reports was that eight lives were lost on the river near Wolfs, a resort on the Canadian shore, a mile above the head of the Belle Isle; another was that a child had been picked up by the wind and swept off the Belle Isle bridge.

Both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies were making desperate but unsuccessful efforts early in the night to reach interior Canadian points.

Reports from the eastern part of the State tell of a severe storm with considerable property damage, but no loss of life.

STRIKE IN INDIANA COAL FIELDS ENDED.

Miners and Operators Agree On Increase of 5.55 Per Cent—Renew Work At Once.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 8.—The strike in the Indiana coal field ended officially to-day when the joint convention of operators and miners voted unanimously to adopt the report of the Joint Scale Committee. Work will be resumed at once. The agreement is for two years, and embodies the main points in the 1903 agreement, with a few changes in conditions governing mining. The important changes in the joint agreement include an increase in wages of 5.55 per cent., providing for the elimination of petty strikes, changing the division of wages between machine runners and loaders and the elimination of the rule requiring cars at certain mines at 8 o'clock the night before work is expected. Local differences now will be settled without closing down mines.

$3,000 IN GOLD AS BRIDAL PRESENT.

Miss Ruby Gatliff and Dr. A. Archer Married At Williamsburg.

Williamsburg, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Miss Ruby Gatliff and Dr. Ancil Archer, of Jellico, were married at the home of the bride's parents yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. J. N. Prestridge, editor of the Baptist Argus, of Louisville, assisted by the Rev. H. H. Hibbs, pastor of the Baptist church here, performed the ceremony. Mrs. Archer is the eldest daughter of Dr. A. Gatliff, one of the most prominent coal operators in this section. Dr. Archer has for several years been one of the leading dentists in this section. Among the many handsome presents was $3,000 in gold from the bride's father. The house was beautifully decorated in ferns and daisies. Dr. and Mrs. Archer left at once for the East, where they will spend several weeks.

FARMERS TO SEEK MUTUAL BENEFITS.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 8.—A farmers' convention to organize a marketing association for all fruits, potatoes, vegetables, poultry, eggs, etc., will meet at the Great Northern Hotel in Chicago June 12 and 13.

MAY LOSE SCHOOL

URGENT APPEAL ISSUED TO CITIZENS.

STATE WANTS DEED TO PROPERTY AT ONCE.

OTHER CITIES SEEK LOCATION.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—It begins to look like Bowling Green may have to give up hopes of securing the State Normal School for the Western district of Kentucky. The whole thing hinges on the mere matter of dollars and cents. The State is demanding a deed almost immediately to the property Bowling Green tendered for school purposes, but many have been unable to meet the obligation, it being generally understood the money would not be called for until September. Under their signatures this afternoon J. Whit Potter, one of the regents; Max B. Nahm, a wealthy man, and C. U. McElroy, one of the foremost lawyers in the State, issued the following statement in regard to the Normal School fund:

"We feel that a statement ought to be made of the facts regarding the prospective location in the city of Bowling Green of one of the State Normal Schools. Enough money has been subscribed by the citizens to secure the school and a very large portion of it has been collected, yet there is a considerable amount still unpaid. Mr. Dickey tells us that the people are responding very liberally in the payment of their subscriptions and he hopes in a short while to collect every dollar of it. In the meantime the State has gotten impatient with us over the long delay in making the deeds for the property to the State. The members of the Board of Regents are writing urgent letters to us trying to impress on us the fact if we are to have a Normal School in Bowling Green we ought not to delay the matter one day longer. There are other places in Kentucky anxiously waiting for us to decide whether or not we are to secure this school. If the subscribers to this fund who have not paid their subscription could know the situation just as it is we believe they would make such sacrifice as is necessary to pay their subscription now.

"After having gone this far it does not seem to us that we could afford to lose the school, yet we are sure to do that unless these subscriptions are paid at once.

"Arrangements for the opening of the school in September cannot be completed until the deeds to the property are made.

"We feel like this frank statement from us should be sufficient to induce everyone to pay his subscription without any further delay."

PROMINENT MAN DEAD.

Aaron W. Mason Dies After Long Illness In Morganfield.

Morganfield, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Aaron Waller Mason died at his home in this city this morning at 1:30 o'clock, after an illness extending through two years. He had been confined to his bed six months.

He was one of the best-known and most-honored business men of this section. He was actively engaged in the grain and tobacco business. He was prominent in the work of the Methodist church, and had been a steward and treasurer for several years.

He was broad-minded and conservative in all his views and dealings. He was married to Miss Allen Chapman, and to them four children were born—Chapman, of Henderson; Gordon, Mary Lide and Lucien Carr Mason. Mr. Mason was the son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Waller) Mason, of this county, and was fifty-six years of age.

THIRTEEN GRADUATES.

Hopkinsville Class Not Disturbed By Hoodoo.

APPOINTS G. C. MOORE.

London Man Lands Deputy United States Clerkship.

London, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—After a spirited and complicated contest by several applicants, Geo. C. Moore, of this city was appointed Deputy Clerk of the United States Circuit and District Courts at this place. The appointment was made by Joseph C. Finnell, United States Clerk for the Eastern district of Kentucky. Mr. Finnell has been here several days, having come here to consider the several applications and make the appointment which was the result of the efforts of Congressman D. C. Edwards.

The position pays $600 per year and the work is not heavy.

AUTOMOBILE BURNED.

Lighted Match Ignites Leaking Gasoline.

Paducah, Ky., June 8.—Mr. Henry Arenez, a prominent stock broker, suffered the loss of his fine double-seated automobile last night at Sharpe, Marshall county, near Paducah and had to walk home in company with a young lady. He started to light a cigarette and the match ignited leaking gasoline. The spokes in the wheel, bed of the machine and every piece not metal were burned. The machine cost $2,000, and only the engine was saved.

Ten Receive Diplomas.

Nicholasville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of the High School were held this morning. Three from the High School and seven from the Grammar School received diplomas. Prof. R. G. Lowrey, principal of the school, addressed the class, and Dr. T. R. Welch, president of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas. The Grammar School graduates were: Misses Iva Stone, Lela Barber, Evelyn Cooper, Cecil Adcock, Wickliffe Boggs, Elijah Grant and John Deering. The High School graduates were: Miss Georgia Anderson, Irvine Horine and Willie O'Hare. They received also certificates which entitle them to enter the freshman class of State College without examination. Miss Anderson was awarded the scholarship to State College.

Diplomas For Many.

Lawrenceburg, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—A large crowd attended the commencement exercises of the City High School at the Christian church here this evening at 8 o'clock. The class address was delivered by Rev. H. D. C. Maclachlan, of Shelbyville. Prof. H. V. Bell presented diplomas to the following graduates: Miss Margaret Lillard, Miss Roberta Bond, Miss Wallace Utterback, Miss Fannie Searcy, Miss Mary Searcy, Miss Elizabeth McBrayer, Miss Bertha Hansel, Miss Juliet Johnson Miss Ethel Griffey, Miss Ethel Warren, Miss Sue Paxton, John Irvine Carpenter, Art Bond, W. Bertibus Paynter, Charles E. Griffey, E. Riley Leathers, Joe Champion and Stanley Trent.

Raise County Assessments.

Frankfort, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The State Board of Equalization to-day took final action as to the assessment of property in the counties of Campbell, Robertson, Bracken, Boone, Fleming and Carter. The local assessment in the three last-named counties was accepted. Town lots in Campbell county were ordered raised 5 per cent.; farm land and personalty in Robertson raised 8 per cent., and town lots 10 per cent., and Braken county raised 10 per cent. on farm land and personalty, and 5 per cent. on town lots.

Four Read Essays.

Versailles, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The annual commencement of the Versailles graded school took place at the Presbyterian church to-night. There were four graduates, who read essays as follows: "Trials of a School Girl," Miss Ethel Shaw; "What is Worth While," Miss Lena Kessler; "The Spectacles We Wear," Miss Neet Meimiller; "Whats' the Use?" Miss Marietta Cassady. The address to the class was delivered by the Rev. H. C. Garrison, of Danville, and J. L. Amsden presented the diplomas.

Stands Fine Examination.

Springfield, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Steve Fulton, son of John A. Fulton, of Bardstown, was examined this afternoon for license to practice law. Judge I. H. Thurman appointed C. M. McChord and W. F. Neikirk as examiners. Mr. Fulton stood an excellent examination, answering 98 per cent of all the questions propounded by Judge Thurman and the examiners. Mr. Fulton was sworn in as an attorney to practice in the Washington Circuit Court.

Will Represent Woodford.

Versailles, Ky., June 8.—Mr. W. O. Davis, commissioner for Woodford county at the Kentucky Home-coming at Louisville, has appointed Mr. Richard Godson, of Midway, vice commissioner, and Mrs. Paul Lansing, of this city, hostess for Woodford county. Mrs. Lansing selected Miss Carolyn Steele, of Midway, as her maid of honor. The Woodford delegation will be at The Seelbach.

I. O. O. F. Give Banquet.

Versailles, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—A handsome banquet was given to-night by the members of McKee Lodge, I. O. O. F., at the Odd Fellows' Hall. Field McLeod presided as toastmaster, and among the speakers were R. G. Elliott, of Lexington, grand secretary of the I. O. O. F. of Kentucky; R. B. Franklin, of Frankfort; Judge R. L. Stout, W. O. Davis and H. A. Schoberth.

Killed By Falling Slate.

Barbourville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—At the mines of the Blue Gem Coal Company, in Whitley county, Cicero Blye, a miner, was instantly killed by falling slate. George Heatherly was caught under the slate, but was rescued without injury. The men had been drawing entry stumps and probably had left the slate unsupported.

Circuit Judge Accommodating.

Williamsburg, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The fine showers which fell in Grant county at the opening of Circuit Court inspired Judge Lassing as much as the farmers, and he granted the jurors as much time as necessary to set tobacco. He also arranged the business of the court to enable him to be in Louisville during Home-coming Week.

Awarded $2,500.

Lancaster, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Leslie D. Herndon, who was injured in a mail car near Harrodsburg some time ago, was given a verdict for $2,500 in the Mercer Circuit Court. The plaintiff brought suit for $20,000.

DANIEL BOONE'S KNIFE FOUND IN TRIGG COUNTY.

Will Be Sent To Louisville and Displayed At County Headquarters Next Week.

Cadiz, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—A. C. Burnett, commissioner from Trigg county to Home-coming in Louisville next week, has just gotten a pocketknife for Trigg county's headquarters which is quite a curiosity. It was found in an old Indian burying ground about a mile from here, about four years ago, by W. H. Phillips. The knife is about seven inches long, blade and all. The blade is about three inches long and about an inch wide at the broadest point, and on one side of the blade is the date "1773" and on the other side the letters "D. B." The sides of the handle have all decayed and gone, only the metal part being left. Whether this is one of Daniel Boone's instruments is a question, but it is known that he camped through this country on his way to the Mississippi.

COMPELS TOBACCO MEN TO ANSWER QUESTIONS.

Federal Grand Jury In Investigating Forced To Seek Justice's Aid.

New York, June 8.—The Federal grand jury, which is investigating matters affecting the American Tobacco Company, to-day called on Justice Lacombe, of the United States Circuit Court, to compel recalcitrant witnesses to give evidence before the grand jury. William H. McAllister, Secretary of the American Tobacco Company; William E. Ransom, Secretary of the McAndrews & Forbes Company, of this city, and John S. Young, of the firm of J. S. Young & Co., of Baltimore, were presented before the Justice for refusing to produce certain books and papers and to answer questions. The Justice ordered them to produce the books and answer the questions.

Tour to Europe Ballot.

This Ballot Will Count One (1) Vote

For ....

Dist. No......... Address..............................

County ....State..............................

When fully filled out and received at Courier-Journal office, by mail or otherwise, on or before expiration date shown above. Not good after that date. Void if name voted for has not been properly nominated. No ballot will be altered in any way, or transferred, after received by the Courier-Journal.

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS ON TOUR TO EUROPE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The last special ballot will be issued on subscription orders received by or before noon, Saturday, June 23.

The last single ballot will be printed in the Courier-Journal of Saturday, June 23.

No ballot will be received to be counted under any circumstances after Monday, July 2, at 12 o'clock noon.

The standing of candidates will be printed in the Courier-Journal of Sunday, June 24, for the last time, until the final result is announced in the paper Tuesday, July 3. Any candidate may come or send a representative to the Courier-Journal office to look over her own ballots between June 25 and July 2.

Contestants and their friends and all Courier-Journal agents are urged to use the regular Tour subscription blanks, and to fill these blanks out carefully and fully. The Courier-Journal will not be responsible for errors in orders, and will not undertake to correct such errors in the last days of the contest.

Special ballots will not be issued under any circumstances unless the full subscription price is sent with the original subscription order. See subscription rates in Tour News.

No person will be permitted to subscribe for more than one paper, to go to the same address, and no ballots will be issued on that portion of a subscription that may extend beyond December 31, 1907.

The successful Tourists will leave Louisville Thursday, July 12; sail from New York on steamship Columbia at noon, Saturday, July 14. Return to New York August 27; return to Louisville, Wednesday, August 29.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS

Many changes are made in the vote this morning, numerous candidates adding to their totals. Single ballots cut from the paper are being watched with more care, the time being near when even a few singles may change the result in some district. Every vote counts. Miss Bessie Cox, of District No. 12, is the only contestant to send in more than 1,000, Miss Cox adding 4,100 to her total.

The Courier-Journal must again caution all candidates and their friends to be extremely careful in making out orders and to send the exact amount of money necessary with each order. It is now impossible to stop and wait for corrections of this kind, and ballots will not be issued on any order whatever unless the order is correct. It would be an awful disappointment for some worthy contestant to lose the trip because of carelessness in sending in orders on which ballots would have been issued had the order been correct. Use the regular subscription blank, fill it out in every detail, and there can be no mistake.

Bear in mind that the subscription price must come with the subscription order. The Courier-Journal will not accept an order by telephone or telegraph and issue ballots on such order.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

Contestants and their friends and readers generally will save themselves worry and loss of time and the Courier-Journal much trouble and needless correspondence if they will observe the subscription rates set forth below. In every case subscriptions must be paid in advance, in full, or no ballots will be issued. This is imperative, no matter how the subscription is sent in.

PATRICIAN Shoe for Women

The Perfect Union.

"PATRICIAN" merit is the result of devotion to skill and material—begetting an ideal woman's shoe.

In design it never oversteps the boundary of good form—its worth in service is quickly detected by thoughtful women. After the bride has gone examine those old shoes thrown for luck. "Some have no more shape than a mitten," you say; but examine those shapely ones which, though worn out, retain their original form and style. What label do they bear? Why, "PATRICIAN," of course—the same label that assures the bride that her dainty shoes will not only wear well, but will retain their shapeliness to the end.

PICK AT SACRED LOGS.

ROUSTABOUTS TRY TO GET SOUVENIRS OF CABIN.

Historic Structure Center of Attraction Before Leaving New York For Kentucky.

New York, June 8.—Rescued from a Jersey City storehouse, the logs of the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born are on their way back to Kentucky, says the New York Sun. Yesterday before starting on their journey they lay in state all the afternoon in the Pennsylvania railroad yards at Thirty-seventh street and the North river. They were on a flat car, in full view, save for decorations of bunting. A militia guard of four attended the relics, commanded by Capt. Neville S. Bullitt, of the First Kentucky, Louisville.

The roustabouts with their freight hooks picked at the timbers when the militiamen were not looking, and sometimes when they were looking, to pry off fragments for souvenirs.

After a while thirty-eight little girls from one of the public schools arrived following a teacher. They expected to find a house all set up, complete, with a frontiersman's rifle hanging over the rough stone fireplace, so they were rather silent when they viewed the heap of dusty logs. From the modest looks of the house they thought that the Lincoln family must have lived on the first floor, anyway. "Where's the roof?" asked one little girl. "It looks as if President Lincoln used to get wet when it rained."

The amateur photographers snapped the logs in every conceivable position—sidewise, endwise and topwise, too, from the roofs of nearby box cars. There was some skirmishing between the thirty-eight little girls and the wharf-rats for front places in the picture. Teacher helped. The wharf-rats were too many for her, though, or were lacking in respect for teachers, being more accustomed to the direct methods of freight yard watchmen with laths. After a while things came around sufficiently for the photographers to take rapid snapshots, which when developed will look like a crowd of children cheering and waving their arms in a burst of patriotic enthusiasm.

The little girls were perfectly pleased with souvenirs found around the car. They picked up little chips and billets and felt "just as sure" that they must have dropped off the cabin when it was loaded on to the car.

Capt. Bullitt says that the cabin will be taken to Louisville for the week of June 13, which out there is "Home-coming Week." Later on it will be re-erected in the original spot and there preserved. The logs, mouldered though they are on the surface, are sound within, and as the souvenir vandals found, seasoned nearly as hard as iron. The fine broadaxe clefts still show here and there along the axe-smoothed lengths of timber. In the ends are the nicks where the logs dovetail.

City Beautiful Committee Appeals To the Public.

AN APPEAL TO THE CITIZENS OF LOUISVILLE:

The City Beautiful Committee of the Commercial Club wishes to make a last appeal to the citizens of Louisville, before our guests come to see us, to aid the city authorities as much as possible by having their streets cleaned, pavements swept, all dirt and filth removed from their gutters, the grass in their yards and weeds and grass on vacant lots cut, and all trash removed from them. Louisville can be made beautiful and attractive to visitors by each one doing all he possibly can in his own locality to see that this good work is done.

The City Beautiful Committee wishes to appeal especially to the children of the city to aid in this work, knowing that each child can do something for a cleaner and better Louisville.

The committee wishes to call attention to a recently-passed ordinance of the City Council requiring the removal of weeds from all vacant lots and from unoccupied property. The following is the ordinance in full, which was approved May 2, 1906:

"Be it ordained by the General Council of the city of Louisville:

"Section 1—That hereafter it shall be unlawful for the owner, agent or occupant of a lot whereon a building of any kind may exist, or the owner or agent in charge of any vacant lot within the corporate limits of the city of Louisville to permit any growth of weeds, which are, or may become a menace to the public health, or collection of garbage or filth of any description to remain on the lot aforesaid for a longer period than three days after notice to remove same has been given by the Health Department of the city of Louisville, to the owner, agent or occupant thus offending.

"Sec. 2—For any violation of the provisions of this ordinance, by the owner, agent or occupant of the property, the person guilty thereof shall be fined not less than $5.00 nor more than $20.000 for each offense, and each and every day of said violation shall constitute a separate offense, and be punishable as such.

"Sec. 3—That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

We trust that we will not be compelled to request the city authorities to put into execution the above ordinance. Very respectfully,

BOOKS AND THEIR WRITERS.

THE SECRET LIFE.

Wonderful Little Book By An Anonymous Writer.

Life must be lived in the Little Room is the theme of these frankly expressed, but altogether charming essays that a "heretic" has collected for the delectation of the reader. In diary form are her "private naughty views," those heresies that one has to be cautious how one airs in public for fear of being snubbed or mentally slapped.

Everybody, she thinks, has some little room wherein the heart can speak truth as to some perfect friend in whose indulgent ear all the real opinions and thoughts may be poured without fear punishment or scandal. Her own private views she considers so heretical that she would tremble to whisper them even into the dull, cold ear of night, lest she should cause it to turn pink, so she has eased her overcharged mind in an anonymous volume.

The book is one of unalloyed delight. The form is the essay pure and simple—not the degraded, slouchy composition so miscalled, but the spontaneous flow of words that proves the ease of art after it is thoroughly mastered. So light is the heretic's touch, so gay her humor that she allures the reader down roads that would be shunned as tedious bores in nine books out of ten.

That the heretic is a Southerner is plain; that she is a native of New Orleans may be inferred; that she has an accurate knowledge of numerous subjects and imparts it in a wholly original, defiantly graceful way will be conceded by all. Her confessions are never shocking. Her clean mind has never harbored the unclean, so that all she has assimilated is pure. Hers is more of a protest against conventionality. She says our lives are so draped, our bodies so forced to speak the words and perform the actions expected of them that they are driven to diaries, to the "need somehow to speak the truth in a world of conformable lies."

From almost the day of birth each of us has his secret life. Her own the author discloses in a variety of opinions on various subjects. For instance:

Amiel makes her half impatient, but is more agreeable than Marie Bashkirtseff's disingenuous posings or Rousseau's vulgar, insulting confidences. Books, people, politics and places and nations come in for a clever handling and criticism, making one of the most fascinating volumes that have recently tempted the reader with a capacity for enjoying exquisite mental feasts. In style it is well-nigh flawless. It dances from topic to topic, never jading, always piquing, pervaded throughout by a sound if not always comfortable philosophy. She says:

"As time cools our cocksureness, more and more is one willing to let the world go its own gait and retire into one's secret life; and there comes at last one day a revelation of the meaning of it all, and this revelation brings peace and poise."

The anonymous author is evidently familiar with this city and its inhabitants; for she quotes one of our old citizens, Dr. David Yandell, as saying: "I'm for the Yandells against the whole world, but if it's between the Yandells and Dave, then I'm for Dave."

England's Appreciation of American Fiction.

Word comes from London of the hearty welcome accorded "The Lady of the Decoration" on foreign shores. It has already reached three editions in London, far exceeding its publishers' rosy expectations. "Punch" calls it:

"A row of pearls slung on a silken cord of bright narrative and description, especially vivid in observation, evidently by an eye-witness, of life in Japan throughout the war with Russia."

The Illustrated London News says:

"Smiles and tears jostle each other in "The Lady of the Decoration," and the April charms of the 'Lady's' letters permeates every page of this attractive, pathetic love story."

The publisher's note says that the author, Frances Little, is a fascinating Kentucky widow, so that the book's success is one more bay leaf in our literary crown.

Leo Tolstoi.

The material for this life of Tolstio, translated from the Russian, has been collected from autobiographical memoirs, letters and biographical data. Leo Tolstoi has revised it. Paul Birukoff, who compiles the book, compares Tolstoi's life to a pyramid with its top downward, the breadth and range being greater as it rises. The biographical material is distributed in a corresponding proportion. There is not much made of his childhood, but the interest is more widely engaged in his early manhood. In this portion of Tolstoi's life, as presented largely by his own words, quotations from his diaries, etc., some of his characteristic later traits stand out saliently.

Waiving the accounts of his dissipations, which grievously mar the interesting story, the reader will select as significant such early manifestations of the older man as were heralded in his very early youth by his extraordinary capacity for being carried away by whatever came within his sphere—school teaching, farming, hunting, music, whatsoever. He seems to have had a similar passionate ardor in his search for truth. Also of arresting interest, perhaps greatest of all, are those obstinate questionings that seem to have beset Tolstoi as a very young man. His diary shows dissatisfaction with himself, with unjust conditions in Russia, which later were to find such passionate expression in his novels. Aside from the data about Tolstoi there are many interesting paragraphs about the literary circles of which he soon became a member, Turgeneff being one of the prominent figures thereof.

LEO TOLSTOI. By Paul Birukoff. Vol. I. Publishers, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

In Quest of Light.

A collection of letters contributed to the Sun by Prof. Smith from 1888 to 1905, the subject of the letters being pertinent religious questions of the day. The idea of immortality staggers Prof. Smith as the idea of space did Herbert Spencer. Yet life after death the former postulates as the only justification and compensation for the incomplete existence we now lead. While professing his open-mindedness to all the revelations of science, he has small patience with the ultra-materialists. The theory of mere physical evolution is constantly being pressed too far. Physical phenomena are emphasized too much to the exclusion of psychical and spiritual realities. He insists upon an earnest and close examination of these.

After Higher Criticism has finished its task, Goldwin Smith finds enough left in the Bible for inspiration. The character of Christ stands forth, says he, for the inspiration and emulation of humanity. The fatherhood of the brotherhood of man are frequently recurring formulas. Christianity is defended from the ignominy attributed to it because of the failure of some of its expositors to live up to its spirit. Truth is not less truth because it falls upon barren ground, and back of all inquisitions, intolerance in institution and individual stand the indisputable basic facts upon which the founder of Christianity insisted—love of God and of one's neighbor. The papers are all brief, yet sometimes the final paragraph takes the reader away from the subject with which the letter began. On the whole the letters are fairly logical, sincere and faithful to high spiritual ideals.

The Fortune Hunter.

This splendid novel is written in a clear-cut, bold fashion, offering entertainment and reflection from first to last. While the action is always rapid, the main theme is not one of swashbuckling adventure but of the love, honest and otherwise, of loyal or wicked hearts.

The scene of the story is laid among the well-to-do Germans of the East Side in New York. The fathers of daughters are workingmen who with their families obtain substantial delight from both their labor and their recreations. The good, simple lives of these middle-class people are lives of but few ideals, to be sure, but genuine lives of honest aspirations.

Into the schemes of two sets of parents comes one Carl Feurstein, an unsuccessful actor and deadbeat, of whom the author says "One had only to glance at him to know that he was offensive to many men and fascinating to many women."

Carl is at his rope's end. He has tried everything except work when he meets the lovely young Hilda. She was the only daughter of the rich Brauners who drew rentals from three apartment houses and kept a delicatessen shop. Carl sees his chance to try his arts upon the innocent maiden who has never met any of his kind before and who is seized forthwith in the clutches of one of those headlong, unreasoning passions that afflict extreme youth who know nothing of love or men or women. The efforts of the fortune-hunter seem to be entirely successful when he meets a richer girl and makes a false step. What this is must be left to the reader to find out.

The story is a careful portrayal of a numerous class of our adopted citizens who bring honest thrift and good hearts from their fatherland, even though they may not contribute much material for the higher life as some of our scholars know it. Their aspirations may be sordid, but they make honest efforts in realizing them and they form one of the most prosperous classes of the nation. The life-like portrayal of their homes, manners and hearts should find a wide audience.

THE FORTUNE HUNTER. By David Graham Phillips; Published by Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

Vanity Square.

It is hard to reach a just estimate of this story of "Fifth Avenue Life," because of its unexpectedness. It is not, as its title would indicate, a story of the smart set and its well-known vagaries. The hero, to be sure, has never done any harder work than cutting coupons, and Satan leads him into that mischief that he keeps ever ready for idle hands. Uxhill and his wife are insanely in love with each other, an original situation for dwellers in Fifth avenue, yet it begets as much trouble as the opposite.

Each character is as distinct as a cameo and each has his own peculiar obsession, some of them rather impossible for our modern life and ideas. It goes without saying that the story is brilliant. That it is entirely entertaining is also a foregone conclusion; indeed, it has so much of the entertaining quality that it has to be reread in order to appreciate the many points, overlooked in the onrush of the plot development. It justifies its author in many particulars, as where he says that the world is full of delightful people whom few of us meet. "There is food for every hunger, drink for every thirst * * * But of all things that the gods can bring—and take—love is best. In its ambrosia is a sense of Olympus."

Much of this delight is found in this story of love's misunderstandings which is so freshly told that even some of the improbable things that people do and think seem perfectly real and true. The people themselves actually fret one in the way they make mistakes and go wrong.

VANITY SQUARE. By Edgar Saltus. Published by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

The Picture of Dorian Gray.

This has long been considered its author's masterpiece. In the light of subsequent events it is perhaps the most self-revealing book that Wilde ever wrote. It has all the inequalities that his various moods made inevitable, but it has also some of the finest and most impressive psychological studies that he has ever given the world. A new and enlarged American edition is timely.

It is well, though not widely, known that the story had its inception in a portrait which Wilde saw in the studio of a friend. The subject was a young man of such rare beauty that he was nicknamed "The Radiant Youth." Wilde watched the portrait grow from day to day, and after the last sitting, when the subject had left, he remarked to the artist it was pity such a glorious creature should ever grow old. His friend replied:

"Yes, it is, indeed. How delightful it would be if 'Dorian' could remain exactly as he is while the portrait aged and withered in his stead. I wish it might be so!"

This was all that was said, but years after the artist saw the carelessly sown seed expanded into a brilliant novel, though he says that the real "Radiant Youth" was the very opposite of Wilde's bad hero.

Impossible as the book is on the face of it, it conveys a sound lesson. The ever-young man sins greatly, his irresistible beauty furnishes him immunity from all punishment; he goes through life violating its most sacred laws, yet seeing a smooth path always before him.

But in a dark room is the portrait, and while the original keeps his marvelous looks, every sin committed is expressed on the canvas. It has a fascination for Dorian, who, though tempted, never destroys it. He alone visits the locked chamber where it hangs. At last he commits the crime of crimes; he takes human life; the life of a trusting friend, and finds blood on the portrait's hands, sees his life in all its hideousness, and in a frenzy rips up the canvas. He is found by his servants, aged, wrinkled and loathsome of visage, with a knife in his heart, while on the wall hangs a splendid portrait of their former master in the youthful beauty as they had last seen him.

Apart from its keen interest as fiction, the book fascinates by its psychology. It depicts in a marvelous way the death resulting from sin, a death sure to come, even when the world knows neither sin nor sinner, and the law has taken no cognizance of his crimes.

The Cambridge Modern History.

The ninth volume of the Cambridge Modern History, which bids fair to be a great monument to Lord Acton, has for its central figure Napoleon. The authors primarily view Napoleon in his relation to his century and to Europe. If the Nineteenth century felt the action of a phase of unprecedented world-politics, Napoleon is said to have been the cause. The forces engendered by the French revolution he gathered up and set them into action. If the ideas potent in Nineteenth century Europe sprang into being in revolutionary France, to the dominance of his overwhelming personality is due their cohesion, unity and diffusion.

After some of the proofs stamping these facts are announced, the reader, amused, will doubtless decide that Napoleon's influence was somewhat paradoxical. It is a rather doubtful tribute to his honor, and not at all the positive one, perhaps, his biographers claim, that the opposition he aroused, rather than a harmonious connivance at his schemes, achieved so much more for other European countries than France. For instance the struggle of England with Napoleon which sowed seeds of political reform and national survival, saving Europe, as is customarily said, while saving England, is held responsible for the aggrandizement of England, the increase of her power beyond the seas, and it was of course responsible, but it was scarcely the result of any deliberate beneficence on Napoleon's part, as might appear from the bare statement of his influence.

Napoleon's influence over the French Government of to-day is indicated. To his resolution and energy is ascribed the rapid completion of the codes. But again, his economic legislation is criticised, and his attempt to control all sources of intellect, spiritual matters, and almost every other phase of life in France, was a task, say his historians, beyond the compass of any man or any Government.

George Parisset, A. T. Walker, H. A. Wilson, Anton Guilland, A. H. Fisher, Holland Rose, Professors Hutton and Egerton are among the contributors to the present volume. The names of all are earnest of their scholarly work.

The Man and His Kingdom, One of the Best Recent Novels.

A beautiful woman with a mystery, admittedly the most dangerous of all menaces to an unattached young man, is the moving spirit of this graphic romance, the scene of which is laid in a certain far-away South American San Martina. Mr. Dene was not a woman's man, but an honest-hearted Englishman with ideas as to his duty toward his fellow men. So when the two principal characters meet on a slow-going transport and are together for six weeks, she of irreproachable deportment, simple in garb and speech, he with his sympathy for a woman going to the land that he knows only too well, the trouble begins.

San Martina was lawless and orderless. Its ruler was corrupt and placed no value upon human life. Among eight thousand inhabitants there was not one English family, so when the young woman refused to explain why she should risk everything in a visit, Dene was filled with forebodings. For he belonged to a class who think that one's life work consists rather in the betterment of visible men than in the empty worship of an unknown God. Starvation and great wealth have no business side by side. In other words Dene was a Socialist in the best sense. He had tried being a member of Parliament, had written books, had spoken speeches, but had added nought to the sum of human happiness. Now he was trying practical, personal life, bringing several hundred of his followers into the land of Beau Desir, where he had founded a commercial settlement in which agriculture and stock raising form a large industry from which the profits are distributed in a fair proportion.

As with all of this author's novels the preservation of jeopardized lives and souls is the main theme. In this it is so well managed, the human interest so well set in its background of adventure, that it is all but impossible not to con the three hundred pages at a sitting.

Heaven and Its Wonders and Hell.

Under this caption a new translation brings that interesting and curious old writer within the reach of a larger field. Full of vagaries, as he was, in the opinion of many insane, the impartial modern mind alert for knowledge must rank Swedenborg among the world's great thinkers. The "visions" that he saw are most of them visible to-day if one will look; far from being an evidence of lunacy they show to what extent the student of Biblical symbolism may become spiritualized.

Swedenborg became so enamored with his subject that it amounted to an obsession, but while he went to extremes in trying to express divine symbols by material objects, much real truth may be found in all his utterances. He states plainly many times that it is thinking about Divinity that makes a man divine, that by means of such thoughts he is communicating with the angels of heaven—as a man thinketh in his heart so is he. If a man thinks honesty and justice he is honest and just; that God has so made man that when he strives for the good he sees more clearly and can better distinguish between the good and the bad. What a man wills he intends, and what he intends he thinks.

All this is in strict accordance with Scripture of which Swedenborg is an ecstatic interpreter. Texts re-enforce every assertion he makes.

The relation between heaven and hell is one of equilibrium. God rules both, "for unless the same Lord restrained the uprisings from the hells and checked the insanities there the equilibrium would perish and everything with it." When the force of two objects is neutralized, the force of a third has full effect. Such is the equilibrium between heaven and hell. He further says that it is the spiritual equilibrium that gives man freedom of will. The Lord never casts a spirit into hell; this is done by the spirit itself.

Swedenborg considered himself divinely appointed to interpret the Bible and in his visions he uses much literal description for interviews with the spirits and angels that he finds in human beings. He also claims a knowledge of heaven, hell and God Himself, his descriptions being marked by the strict following of scriptural style—taking natural things to represent spiritual essences and vice versa. The doctrine of correspondences, in this as in his other volumes, is the foundation of his whole system.

HEAVEN AND ITS WONDERS AND HELL. From Things Seen and Heard. By Emanuel Swedenborg. (First published in London, 1758.) Translated from the Latin by J. C. Ager. Published by the American Swedenborg Printing and Publishing Society, 3 West Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

Elwell's Bridge Lessons.

"No-Trump Defense" is the title of the seventh lesson in the bridge-course that Mr. Elwell is conducting by mail, the pamphlet being as usual, full of instructive and clearly expressed advice concerning the game.

Ordinarily, the best defense for the nondealer in the no-trump declaration, is a lead from the longest suit, but leading a high card with no other purpose than to see the dummy hand is bad judgment. The moment it is seen that the long suit is hopeless it should be dropped and the partner's hand assisted.

Two ways are given of preventing the weaker hand from bringing in a suit, the first by refusing to part with the control until the strong hand has no card of the suit to lead and the other by taking from the weaker hand its re-entry card though still holding control of the suit.

He concludes thus:

If the situation appears hopeless, take the one seeming chance to save the game without apprehension as to the loss of a trick or so by your play. It is surprising how often a desperate expedient will overcome a desperate situation."

The problems following the half hundred "do and don'ts" of the book are of unusual interest in their application to this no-trump policy of the nondealer.

DEATH WAS NEAR TO MARY ANDERSON AND ROBERT HICHINS.

While Traveling In Italy Recently Madame de Navarro and the Author of "Felix" Just Escaped Being Killed In a Railroad Accident—Their Carriage Was Wrecked and Lives Were Lost On Both Sides of Them, But They Were Not Injured—Thomas Hardy Describes His One Glimpse of John Stuart Mill—Collection of Press Cuttings, Made For Peter I., of Servia, To Be Sold At Auction In Paris—Gossip of Literary Matters Abroad.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]

London, May 23.—Robert Hichins, I hear from Italy, has just settled down for a lengthy stay in the picturesque Sicilian town of Taormina, and while there means to finish his new book, a sequel to his "Call of the Blood," which is just about to be published on both sides of the Atlantic.

I wonder, by the way, if any account has reached the United States of the narrow escape from death which Hichins had, the other day, in company with his friend, Mary Anderson, the famous ex-actress? It is reported by my Italian correspondent, and as the affair has not been mentioned in any English newspaper, it is possible that American readers have not heard of it, either.

It seems, however, that the former Shakespearean actress and the author of "The Garden of Allah," who are old acquaintances, met by chance in Southern Italy, a week or so ago, and that while traveling together between Naples and Raggio, an uncommonly serious accident happened to their train. The details which have reached me are not quite clear, but there evidently was a collision in which the carriage occupied by Hichins and Madame de Navarro was wrecked and several persons to the right and left of them either killed or badly injured, the author and the great ex-actress escaping, however, with only a severe shaking up.

This exciting adventure over, Madame de Navarro elected to remain in Raggio, while Hichins went on to Taormina, where he at once began work on his new book. As is usual with him, the author of "The Green Carnation" has sought a particularly remote and quiet spot in order to be able to write without interruption. He will, by the way, publish a couple of new short stories before long, and has also had a new four-act play accepted by one of the chief London theatrical managers. And as his last book, "The Garden of Allah," was generally acknowledged to be almost, if not quite, real "literature," there is reason for general satisfaction over Mr. Hichins' escape from serious injury, if not a worse fate.

A pen picture of John Stuart Mill by so great an artist in words as Thomas Hardy, cannot fail to be interesting to American admirers of both writers, so it is not amiss to quote part of a letter which Mr. Hardy contributed to the London "Times," the other day, apropos of the recent centenary of the philosopher's birth.

In this letter, the author of "Tess" describes Mill as he first saw him during the philosopher's famous candidature for Westminster, in 1865. "The hustings," he says, "had been erected in Convent Garden, near the front of St. Paul's church, and when I—a young man living in London—drew near to the spot, Mill was speaking. The appearance of the author of the treatise 'On Liberty' (which we students of that date knew almost by heart), was so different from the look of persons who usually address crowds in the open air, that it held the attention of people for whom such a gathering in itself had little interest. Yet it was, primarily, that of a man out of place. The religious sincerity of his speech was jarred on by his environment—a group on the hustings, who, with few exceptions, did not care to understand him fully, and a crowd below who could not.

"He stood bareheaded, and his vast pale brow, so thin-skinned as to show the blue veins, sloped back like a stretching upland, and conveyed to the observer a curious sense of perilous exposure. The picture of him as personified earnestness surrounded for the most part by careless curiosity derived an added piquancy—if it can be called such—from the fact that the cameo clearness of his face chanced to be in relief against the blue shadow of a church, which, on its transcendental side, his doctrines antagonized. But it would not be right to say that the throng was absolutely unimpressed by his words; it felt that they were weighty, though it did not quite know why."

In Paris, everyone is wondering who will secure the remarkable collection of "press cuttings" which a certain agency got up for King Peter of Servia, some time ago, but which it failed to deliver to that much tried monarch and consequently will now try to sell at auction. When first he was called to the throne, Peter I. was anxious to know the world's opinion about him, and instructed the before-mentioned agency to collect all press cuttings, and accordingly before many weeks, a collection was forthcoming which, as regards quantity, at any rate, would make a prima donna jealous.

By His Majesty' command, this collection was bound, and the manager of the agency himself took the fifteen volumes to Belgrade to present them to his royal client. But there a terrible disappointment awaited him. The King of Servia, lacking in humor, gazed with horror and indignation at the collection, wherein English, French, German and Swiss caricaturists had displayed their wit at his expense. While the agency clamoured for its money, the King was roaring threats inside his palace, declaring that nothing would induce him to pay a cent for these columns. When the agency threatened to exhibit these morocco bound books, the King shouted: "I don't care, as long as they are not exhibited to me." So now the press cuttings, which number over 30,000, are to be sold to the highest bidder, and there is not much doubt that the auction will be a great "draw."

HAYDEN CHURCH.

Automobilia.

Mr. Winthrop E. Scarritt has a bad case, but a highly instructive one. In his "Three Men in a Motor Car" he has not only exploited the automobile, but has written a book of travel that will surprise and delight all lovers of the fashionable and fascinating way of annihilating distance. It is an attractive statement of the realities, the possibilities and future probabilities of the automobile gained in experiences happy and otherwise of the three men who traveled in France and Switzerland.

It is really a history of the machine from its first crudely doubtful beginning with the first contests and experiments—a sermon against too great conservatism. "The most conservative man in the world is a dead one," says the author. Civilization is measured by man's ability to move himself and other things through space. Hence the automobile is a fine gauge of man's advance.

"The Auto,•monster of such hideous mien,
That to be hated needs but to be seen;
But, seen too oft, familiar with its face,
We first endure, then get one, and go the pace."

Mr. Scarritt predicts that the motor-car, the mightiest fact in modern life, will soon become a universal necessity. One may as well, in his opinion, undertake to stay the laws of gravity as to hinder its final triumph. He closes with this valuable rule:

"Do unto other users of the highway as you would they should do to you.

"If we automobilists of America will but act in this spirit, the time will speedily come when we will look back on the trials and tribulations of to-day as but harmless vagaries of an unpleasant dream."

The book is dedicated to the Automobile Club of America, "which from the beginning has stood for all that is highest and best in the glorious sport of automobiling."

BOOKS AND MY FOOD. Original Recipes with Literary Quotations for Every Day in the Year. By Elizabeth Luther Cary and Annie M. Jones. Published by Moffat Yard & Co., New York City.

The authors state that in making this collection of recipes suggested by quotations from English writers their idea has been to show what a varied list may be gathered from the works of well-known writers of well-known dishes, all of them good if properly prepared. For instance, under the quotation from Dr. Austin Flint's Essays, one finds the recipe for truffled turkey; from George Eliot's "Give Him three ratafias soaked in a dessert spoonful of cream," one finds that ratafia is a cordial made of peach and apricot kernels and brandy—afterward to be poured over macaroons and served with custard, etc. The work is both reliable and amusing.

THE AMATEUR COOK. By Katherine Burrill and Annie M. Booth. Illustrated by Mabel L. Attwell. Published by Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York City.

Told in the guise of fiction, this story manages to get in a lot of useful advice and splendid recipes mixed with its history of the aspirations and struggles of a would-be cook. It shows the disadvantages of not knowing how to cook, and from the mistakes of the poor writer of the story much may be learned. The book is written in a charming style, reminding one of "A Social Departure" and other favorites wherein two girls attempt a new line.

EXTRA DRY. Being Further Adventures of The Water Wagon. By Bert Leston Taylor and W. C. Gibson, authors of "The Log of the Water Wagon." Published by G. W. Dillingham Company, New York City.

A chart of "The Rake's Progress," showing the gradations between plain water and lithia to red-eye, opens this "extra-dry" book. In the first book the good ship Lithia foundered and the passengers launched a raft, saving their lives. This book records the adventures of the castaways. It is described as being "a tale of privation and torture unparalleled in the history of human thirst, and calculated to bring a lump to the throat of a New York cabman."

LA ALEGRIA DEL CAPITAN RIBOT, POR ARMANDO PALACIO VALDES. Edited with introduction notes and vocabulary by Frederic W. Morrison, A. M., instructor in the United States Naval Academy, and Philip H. Churchman, A. M. formerly instructor in Princeton University. Published by D. C. Heath & Co., Boston, U. S. A.

So little is known in America of the contemporary Spanish novel that the arrangement followed in volumes such as the present is sure to overcome many difficulties experienced by the student of the Spanish language. Besides aiding the scholar, the literary value of an acquaintance with such an author as Valdes cannot be overestimated. Besides other works, he is the author of fifteen successful novels. In the main, Spanish fiction deals with the great interests and problems of life, and is consequently for the most part serious, though with Valdes one finds that rare combination of humor and pathos. His characters are valuable psychological studies, showing a close student of human nature, yet his writing is not veiled by suggestive treatment, nor is it tortuous or indirect. The editor says: "As a conscious philosopher, Valdes is not at his best, but as a poet, with a keen intuition of the truths of human experience, he is at times great."

BESIDE THE NEW-MADE GRAVE. A Correspondence. By F. H. Turner. Jas. H. West Company, Boston.

These are letters of sympathy, written to a friend who has lost a son, in the prime of beautiful youth. The writer believes that Nature would not so mislead us as to give such abundant promise only to annihilate it in the change called death. The parent replies, quoting the latter-day attitude of science in pronouncing thought a material function, and thus ruling out the theory of immortality. The two men enter into a discussion of the questions and the subject is discussed with impartial thoughtfulness. The book is written in the hope that it may bring comfort and conviction to those bereaved ones who see no hope of reunion with their dead. It is a good sermon on immortality.

THE PROBLEMS OF THE PENTATEUCH. An Examination of the Results of the Higher Criticism. By Randolph H. McKim, D. D. LL. D., rector of the Church of the Epiphany, Washington, D. C. With a foreword by the Dean of Canterbury. Published by Longmans, Green & Co., 91 and 93 Fifth avenue, New York, London and Bombay.

This book contains the three lectures on the Reinecker Foundation, delivered at the Virginia Theological Seminary in December, 1905. Dr. McKim believes that in certain points current criticism of the Old Testament is unsound, and consequently injurious to the faith of Christianity. Both he and the Dean of Canterbury object to the common conclusions reached by many critics that the narratives of the Old Testament are untrustworthy. Among other reasons for their reliability they cite the impossibility of a whole nation being mistaken, not only as to details but as to the substance of its history, particularly since it is a well-established fact that written records were common during the whole period in question. The object of the lecture is to disprove the new views that are obtaining so large a following and to prove that most modern criticism of the Pentateuch rests upon an unstable foundation.

AUS GOLDENEN TAGEN. VON HEINRICH SEIDEL. Selected and edited with notes, vocabulary and exercises by Dr. Dr. William Bernhardt. Published by D. C. Heath & Co., Boston, U. S. A.

Seidel's talent lies in depicting the quiet life of that middle class which furnishes the brain and brawn of a nation. He deals with the humble in everyday life, telling their stories in a natural unaffected manner. This arrangement of a real masterpiece will be of help to the student of German literature.

Additional Magazines For June.

One of the most important literary events of the season is the beginning of a new serial by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman in an early issue of Harper's Weekly. In "By the Light of the Soul" Mrs. Freeman has written what she believes to be her most important work of fiction. She has contrived a plot of singular originality and absorbing interest, and she develops it with cumulative dramatic intensity; yet, not content with this, she has made this latest story of hers an engrossing and poignant revelation of the growth of a young girl's soul. In the character of the intensely emotional, sensitive and noble Maria Edgham, Mrs. Freeman has drawn a personality as lovable as it is haunting and pathetic. "By the Light of the Soul" begins in the issue of Harper's Weekly dated June 9, and will run throughout the summer.

National interests have the foremost place in the June Atlantic. The leading article is a vigorous and timely discussion of the questions that are certain to be brought to the front at the coming Hague conference. It is written by Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace Society.

The June number of the North American Review opens with a striking and impressive article, in which an anonymous writer makes "An Appeal to Our Millionaires" to take measures to appease the discontent which prevails throughout the community at the present enormous accumulation of property in a few hands.

Following a custom of several years' standing the June Chautauquan is a special Civics Number. The Chautauquan has been very fortunate in securing for this issue the authoritative and highly interesting papers which were read at the recent convention of the American Civic Association held at Cleveland, Ohio. The articles are all by specialists and are upon a wide range of topics, interesting to all wide-awake citizens.

Miss Elisabeth Luther Cary writes of Holman Hunt and the Preraphaelite Brotherhood in the June number of The Critic, apropos of Mr. Holman Hunt's recent book on that subject. While Miss Cary is much too young to have been a participator in this movement, she is still thoroughly saturated with its aims and efforts, and is considered an authority on the subject.

In view of the fact that so many outdoor people are searching for information relating to where to go for their summer vacations, "Along the Petewawa," the leading article in the June Field and Stream, written by T. M. Tobin, and telling of the delightful woods and waterway, in the newly-opened Algonquin Park region, in Canada, will be read with interest.

Dr. Henry C. Rowland, the well-known traveler and author of "In the Shadow," contributes another of his papers on "The Truth About Panama" to the June number of Appleton's Magazine. In this article Dr. Rowland takes up the paramount question of the kind of labor that will be the most efficient in the construction of the canal.

"The Rebirth of the Corporation," by Judge Peter S. Grosscup, in the American Magazine for June is a splendid example of constructive criticism in the treatment of current questions. Instead of exploiting evils, it sets forth a radical but sane remedy for the trust problem.

The June number of 10 Story Book is out with a bright grassy green cover, very suggestive of spring. Dorothy Dix heads the list of authors, with one of her clever society stories. "The Dregs of a Scandal," by Grace G. Bostwick, is an exceptionally strong story of human passion.

Tales for June appears in a beautiful new cover and with a list of contents that shows even greater interest than usual. The complete novel in this issue is especially remarkable as being the work of a Danish author, Mathilda Malling.

Peas—not the canned kind, but pale-green, luscious, out-of-season peas—are made the motif of a highly original story in June Young's, with the striking title of "Early Peas." Served at a dinner party by a pretty, impecunious widow, they set afloat the insidious breath of suspicion, and are dished up with a lively love story—on the side as it were.

From myriads of novel-readers the cry goes up: "Tell us something about the authors." The man who wrote "Two in a Fog," the novelette published complete in Lippincott's Magazine for June, is William H. Babcock, a Washington, D. C., lawyer. Born in St. Louis, he was soon taken to New York and from there to Cuba. He says that when a small boy he was "within fifteen minutes of dying with Asiatic cholera." He loves the sea, as "Two in a Fog" clearly testifies. By the same sort of deduction it is certain that Mr. Babcock loves humor as well as adventure, of both of which there is an abundance.

Earthquakes, volcanoes and San Francisco are naturally the dominant notes of the June issue of The World To-day, for these are subjects in which all the world is interested at the present time. As usual with this magazine, which gives so much value for fifteen cents, the illustrations, particularly those relating to the recent catastrophies, are very fine. Those on "Going Fishing," an appropriate topic for the vacation season, are also specially good.

History of North America.

The fourteenth volume of the History of North America purports to be a history of the Civil War from the Southern point of view. The editor seems under the impression that it is impossible to obtain both sides of such a story from one section of the country. Where sentiment causes and maintains a conflict no relation, he opines, that does not reflect sentiment is a faithful presentation. Hence, the writing of the present volume was assigned to the South. Dr. William Robertson Garrett, of Nashville, was chosen to do the work, but he died when his task was about half finished, so the remainder of it was accomplished by Dr. Robert Ambrose Halley, the author of several books of biography and history, and the former editor of the Nashville American.

The volume covers the entire war period. There is an analysis of the movement of events that presipitated the conflict, and special emphasis is laid upon those two forces which have ever been at work in the Union, the centripetal force fostering the spirit of brotherhood and of faith in American institutions, and the contrifugal force, the contest for balance of power between the geographical sections of the country. The desire for this last is portrayed as it was alternately the cause of expansion in the different sections, or the cause of depression and disaffection when such expansion was thwarted by the rise of rival power in other sections.

According to the accepted Southern tradition, the reasons for the conduct of the South are set forth. Flaws of incorrectness in historical statement, of illogical deductions from false premises are found in Lincoln's inaugural address of 1861, though its rhetorical and epigrammatical merits are acknowledged and characterized as a brilliant toast to the Union which banished, in the North, both reflection and hesitation.

Seward's conduct at the outbreak of the war is not extenuated. The author disagrees with Nicolay, who attributes Seward's contradictory statements to the fact that he made them not as pledges to be transferred to the Confederate authorities, but as confidential expressions of his own opinions in conference with Judge Campbell, an official of the United States, and that Judge Campbell in violation of confidence and without authority, conveyed them to the Confederate authorities, as pledges from Seward. The author finds "incontestable evidence" for Seward's inconsistency and self-contradiction.

With all this interpretation of individual and political conduct, and philosophizing on causes and conclusions, motives and movements, the volume is most distinctly a military history. The author narrates the battles and other happenings of the war with calmness and dignity, neither with bitterness, nor impassioned partisanship—"to neither side was there shame, to neither all the glory of brave deeds done."

The usual illustrations accompany the volume. As appendices are included the Constitution of the Confederate States and the Inaugural Address of Jefferson Davis.

THE CIVIL WAR. Vol. XIV. A History of North America. By William R. Garrett and Robert Ambrose Halley. Publishers, George Barrie & Sons, Philadelphia.

"NEGRO" OR "COLORED."

Prof. Booker T. Washington, being politely interrogated by Congressman Sims, of Tennessee, as to whether negroes ought to be called "negroes" or "members of the colored race," has replied that it has long been his own practice to write and speak of members of his race as negroes, and when using the term "negro" as a race designation, to employ the capital "N." "Rightly or wrongly," he says, "all classes have called us Negroes. We cannot escape from that name if we would. To cast it off now would be to separate ourselves to a certain extent from our history." Mr. Sims objected to the wording of a bill which provided that of nine persons composing the Board of Education in Washington, three should be of "the colored race." "The colored race," he thought would include Chinese, Japanese, Indians and others. He wanted the bill to be definite and to read "three negroes." Prof. Washington supports him in that demand. Negro is no more a word of disparagement than Jew. There are those who think it polite to speak of Jews as Hebrews. Jew, Hebrew, Israelite, all mean the same thing, but Jew is the most distinguished of them.—[Harper's Weekly.

SCHURZ, THE PATRIOT.

Mr. Schurz was not a man of genius; but he was a man in whom high intellectual powers were combined with moral qualities even more rare. Though distinctively a thinker and man of culture, he was a born fighter; when the cause was there to be fought for, the courage and resolution were never lacking. A rare union of clearness of intellect with spiritual ardor, coupled with an extraordinary command of the resources of his adopted as well as of his native language, stamped his speeches and writings with that combination of lucidity and animation which along with their evident and complete sincerity, gave them their peculiar efficacy as a political force. As an example of what may be achieved by sheer force of character and intellect, the career of Schurz has been of inestimable value to thousands of young Americans in the present and the past two generations.—[From "Carl Schurz," by Fabian Franklin, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

TO THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH.

[Frank Dempster Sherman, In the June Atlantic.]

Forever young is that immortal throng
Whose golden rhymes to-day our lips recite;
Like stars they shine and sing across the night,
Unchanged and changeless through the ages long.

In Fancy's realm, upon foundations strong
They built their monuments of beauty bright,
Creating out of dreams for our delight
Arches and domes and pinnacles of Song.

They know not age; no, nor dost thou, in truth,
For thou with laurels green on locks of gold
Hast but now reached the poet's dewy prime.
A thousand years! O Song-enamored Youth,
Thy lyric castles never shall grow old,

"Business."

Friday Evening, June 8.—The New York market opened quiet, developed an irregular tone under almost complete stoppage of trading and sold off rather sharply, closing at the lowest.

Money on call was easy at 2¾ to 3½ per cent., ruling at 3. Time funds were slightly firmer at 4 to 5½. Sterling exchange was firm.

Final quotations on wheat for July delivery were up ⅜c. Corn was ⅛c to ¼c higher and oats were up 1¼c.

Booker Washington.

Booker Washington, to his high personal character, his broad education and his very great administrative capacity, as shown by the founding and successful management of Tuskegee University, adds the very valuable quality of sound common sense. This has been lately demonstrated in regard to a matter upon which there is no little sensitiveness on the part of his race and of quite a large class of whites who affect a certain kind of jealous sympathy for them. By such the use of the word "negro" as designating members of the African race is strongly objected to, and they are spoken of as colored people. Ethnologically this is wholly erroneous, since the term is not specific as to them, but applies equally to Indians, Chinese and other races not of white skin. But Booker Washington does not agree with them. Recently, when asked by a Southern member of Congress as to whether negroes ought to be called "negroes" or "members of the Colored race," he replied promptly that it had long been his practice to write and speak of members of his race as negroes, and when using the term as a race designation to employ the capital "N" in the same way as a capital initial letter is used in written reference to the Indian, Chinese or other races. "Rightly or wrongly," he added, "all classes have called us negroes. We cannot escape from that name if we would. To cast it off now would be to separate ourselves to a certain extent from our history."

In accordance with these views Mr. Washington has expressed his desire that in a bill pending in Congress which provides that of the nine persons composing the Board of Education there should be "three of the Colored race," so amended as to read "three Negroes." This is not only ethnologically correct, but the recognition of the fact carries with it a moral which, if lived up to by the members of the race, will go far in the way of elevating it from the reproach brought upon it by its history and its mental inferiority to other races with which it has been brought in contact. In this country it has for forty years or more been freed from slavery and placed upon a plane of political equality with the white race. It is on trial before the world to show how high it can be lifted toward the mental plane of the white race. For such experiment Booker Washington seems to be the Moses raised up, as it were, to lead it out of the wilderness to the Canaan of a higher civilization. Just as the Jews had been under Egyptian bondage and their name a reproach before they rose to be a great people, so the Negro of to-day under Washington gives hopes of substantial progress in his mental and physical condition. And the leader wisely prefers the name they have borne, with the aim of outliving whatever stigma may have attached to it, to having another nondescript one applied to them, the very use of which would imply lack of proper pride in accepting it.

At the outbreak of the Revolutionary War a British officer in his first effort to quell the rising storm attempted to awe the continental volunteers with the order "Disperse, ye Rebels." But instead of having the effect hoped for it only stirred patriots to greater effort. They adopted the word "Rebels" as their own and robbed it, by the glory of their deeds, of the stigma it had previously borne. In the position taken by Booker Washington there is something of the same spirit, though without semblance of defiance. His acceptance of the name carries with it the invocation to his race to so bear themselves in their lives and efforts to rise in the scale of mental and physical improvement as to free it of whatever sense of reproach may have heretofore attached to it. If he shall succeed in his well-matured and clearly-defined purpose, as all who have at heart the best interests of the South and the whole country hope he will, he will have earned title to the name of the Moses and the Washington of his race.

Go Slow, Governor, Go Slow!

Naturally, in most of the Southern States, where the race question has kept the Democratic party measurably intact, the absence of any other clearly defined issue has relegated aspirants for office to the argumentum ad hominem, to personal crimination and recrimination, resulting for the most part in dog-eat-dog contests and factional politics.

It would be strange indeed if the Democratic party should owe the loss of the next Presidency to the loss of Southern States hitherto regarded as certain, but made debatable if not doubtful by the distractions and embitterments of these petty contentions.

Against Theodore Roosevelt, as a Republican nominee—and Democrats being substantially agreed as to their own candidate may as well begin to reason on this hypothesis—no man can say that any of the old Border States are entirely safe; Missouri half gone, Tennessee hanging in the balance, Maryland wanting Gorman's superb leadership, West Virginia and Delaware in the hands of the enemy, with thousands of Democrats in Virginia and Kentucky ready to nurrah for Roosevelt.

Personal politics is factional politics and factional politics is dangerous politics. Though the ruling leaders of the Republican party hate Theodore Roosevelt never so much, they may have to take him, and, in the event that they do take him, they will stand to him. But, they will not hope to elect him without some Southern votes. Already the campaign to disintegrate the South in his name has begun. How far it may be carried remains of course to be seen; nothing may come of it; the admirable discipline of the Republican party, the astute dictation of the organized interests that control it, may prove an over match even for a master player such as the President must be conceded to be, or he may over play his hand, or, in point of fact, anything may happen to put all speculation out of business; still, in every great affair and in all great affairs, wise men look ahead and provide against contingencies.

There is assuredly a possibility that the next race for President may lie between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Roosevelt, the Republican party seeking, in the person of Mr. Roosevelt, who has cast many anchors to windward, to break the force of the moral uprising of the people. This would be a dangerous conjunction for the Democrats, and it would hit them hardest in the South, where party ties hang loosest, where the President has made himself exceedingly strong, and where factional and personal quarrels have weakened the force of the party leadership.

Because of these considerations the Courier-Journal looks with no little solicitude upon a tendency in the managers of the existing Democratic organization in Kentucky to carry things with what seems to us too high a hand. Taking but a cursory glance at the field, one would think them strong enough to moderate their pace somewhat—certainly not to invite needless trouble by accelerating it. As Governor Beckham is the beginning and the end of the organization, the pros and cons of the case may be best personalized and addressed directly to him.

Does the Governor not perceive that in ordering a Primary ballot the coming November to name a United States Senator, who, if elected, will not take his seat until the 4th of March, 1909, he flies in the face of well-established precedent, flouts a large and respectable body of Democratic opinion, and takes at least a lottery chance for an ultimate throw-down? What may such a premature nomination be worth in the event that a year later in the selection of the Legislature which is to elect the Senator, an old-fashioned still-hunt, with plenty of resources, is set on foot and there appears both in the field and later along at Frankfort an organized and organizing power equal to his own? Or, take the other horn of the dilemma, what may happen if the issue of snap judgment is effectually raised, rallying about it all the disaffected elements, and, in the event that the Governor's slate pulls through the Primary, putting the final contest before the whole people in jeopardy? If Governor Beckham is sure of both his Primary and his nominees, he may of course snap his fingers at all opposition; but, even at that rate, does he not sacrifice all the finer attributes of victory to the doubtful glories of mere success, signalizing himself the rather as a ruthless practical politician than as a wise, far-seeing and trustworthy party leader?

Indeed, after all, are not these meditated proceedings a confession of weakness, which a really strong man should scorn to make?

Take the question of the succession. The Democrats of Kentucky have made no sign as yet whom they want for their next Governor. It is presumable that there will be more than one candidate. In case the party is rent by a contest lasting through this political year, what may not be in store the next and real political year for the successful aspirant in a primary over which the Governor has, to all intents, presided, and in which he has named his man? Is this not to take needless risk if not to invite defeat or a victory which will in the end cost both the Governor and the party more than it is worth?

Does the Governor not see that the whole trend of Democratic thought in Kentucky is to get away from machine methods and back to the old order of things?

There is always a sure footing for large and generous politics. Though he who deals in large and generous politics goes down in defeat, he will inevitably rise again. Defeat to him is often more glorious than victory to another. Gov. Beckham is a young man. As a young man he has a great advantage. His talents as an organizer are indisputable. He has constructed a potential machine—we mean no offense in using that term—and he has not exceeded usage in employing the opportunities and patronage of his eight years in office to construct it. Those who most abuse him in that regard would have done the same. But, even the Governor's organization is not infallible, and it may not prove invincible; and if, in the last equation, it should lose us the State—even though Gov. Beckham should succeed in his own immediate plans—he would go to Washington abused and discredited, with no future before him worthy the ambition of any nobly aspiring public man. There are two ways of entering the Senate of the United States. One of these is by the front door, the other is by the back door, and woe to him who mistakes them.

It is nothing to the Courier-Journal who fills these various places. But it is a deal to it whether the Democratic party holds or loses the State, and by what methods its power and organization are secured and maintained. The Governor should beware of regarding opposition to him as treason to the party and of considering that this opposition has no rights which he is bound to respect. The Democratic party in Kentucky owes for its tenure more to the mistakes and divisions of the Republicans than to any other single circumstance, or agency. It will require for the election of Gov. Beckham's successor the same wisdom and prudence which were required and put forth in his own original election—perhaps even more; and hence the Courier-Journal, having no preference, surely no ax to grind, but the good of its party alone in mind and heart, most earnestly urges the Governor to think twice before he commits himself to any course which may so much as smell of snap judgment, or subject him and his immediate friends to the dangerous suspicion of a policy of rule or ruin.

Where Blame and Remedy Lie.

"Building Commissioner Bartzen," says one of the Chicago newspapers, "was worked up to a high frenzy yesterday when he discussed the Packingtown troubles. He talked of putting the packers 'in jail' and characterized the selling of bad meat as 'murder.'"

In the same issue is described an important conference held by the Mayor and the City Health Commissioner, who resolved to begin at once a rigid and thorough inspection of the packing houses.

This sudden alertness and attention to duty seems a bit tardy.

Why did not the Building Commissioner develop that "high frenzy" some time ago?

Why did not the Health Commissioner and his assistants proceed with their inspection long ago?

Why did not all departments of the city and State governments charged with the task see to it that conditions in the packing houses were sanitary; that the meats were sound, and that the public health was not menaced by the meat products from Chicago plants?

The "high frenzy" of the Building Inspector is self-convicting. The spasmodic energy of the Health Commissioner lays him open to censure for not having used some part of that energy before this. What is a Building Commissioner for except to look after building conditions? What is a Health Commissioner for but to safeguard public health? The packing industry is the biggest thing in Chicago. It is too big to be overlooked by conscientious, serious-minded and thorough-going officers of law.

The dispatches from Washington tell us that members of the Congress believe the Neill-Reynolds report to be exaggerated, while the packers themselves, with an invitation to everybody in the world to come to Chicago and examine their plants, declare the statements contained in it to be slanderous. Possibly so, but if any evils whatsoever exist, the blame for them, next to the proprietors themselves, must fall upon the authorities of the city of Chicago and the State of Illinois. It was within their power to prevent them. If there were not laws enough on the statute books to authorize drastic inspections and compel the improvement of conditions, it was easily possible for them to have the proper laws passed.

And just as it was the duty of city and State to enforce cleanliness in the packing establishments, so is it still their duty to do so. The task lies within the most commonplace rights of municipality or State. And city and State should be the instruments for righting whatever evils may exist.

The Next Leading Issue.

There has been a good deal of talk about another era of good feeling having arrived in the United States because men divide on many important measures without reference to their party connections. It is not unusual for partisanship to be ignored in nonpartisan matters, but we have had so many important bills with Democrats and Republicans alike on both sides of them that there is some confusion in the popular mind as to the proper line of partisan cleavage.

Mr. Roosevelt advocated so many measures that were disliked by members of his own party in Congress, especially in the Senate, and which commanded the support of most Democrats, that many of the latter came to regard him as a very good Democrat. However, in his recent action the President has shown himself able to make such concessions to his enemies in the Republican party as have largely restored him to their good graces and undeceived such Democrats as had hoped that he might be captured. Many have learned, what others knew all the time, that the President is an astute politician, and that it is not his intention to break with his party.

New elections are coming on, and the votes of the people must be sought on some tangible ground. The Rate Bill did not afford as suitable a subject for party differences as at one time it was hoped that it would. The Statehood Bill brought to light a good deal of Republican tergiversation, but as the Republicans divided upon it, there is grave doubt whether it can serve in a campaign except as a subordinate issue. It happens, therefore, that men naturally turn to the tariff as the chief of the coming issues. It is well known that many Republicans are profoundly dissatisfied with the Dingley rates and with the graft and favoritism to which the existing tariff has given rise. They have made overtures to have the law changed, citing the declaration so often repeated that the tariff must be revised by its friends. But its friends who have the power, while saying that tariff schedules are not meant to be eternal, refuse to change the tariff now, nor are they able to set any time when it will be altered. In a general way some of them say that it must be done, if done at all, at a time remote from a general election, which strongly suggests what is antecedently probable, that if they ever revise it, they will do it in a way to promote popular indignation, and they desire that this shall have time to cool before the next election. Not much confidence is reposed in statements of this kind, which are considered merely as weak excuses made by lazy and timorous men for doing nothing. The Republicans, therefore, who really desire tariff reform may come to see in the end that these stand-pat leaders are simply playing with them a game of endless delay, so that they may be inclined to turn to some other party that promises to do what they want to see done.

This indicates a good opening for the Democratic party with reference to the tariff issue if it is prepared to take advantage of it. But it is said, speaking of the Democrats in Congress, that they are not agreed on the tariff among themselves; that there are almost as many differences among them as among Republicans. "From tree trade," says a correspondent, "to simple tariff reform is a long step." This is quite true, but it is also true that hardly anybody advocates absolute free trade. In that sense there is no free trade party. Protectionists, indeed, at times call all advocates of reduced duties free traders, but that term applies to them only in the sense that they desire to see trade somewhat freer than it is, or, at most as free as possible considering the needs of the revenue, much of which must be raised by duties imposed on imports.

There is also in the Democratic party a radical element which will not be content with such an issue as the reform of the tariff. They wish to press to the front such questions as Government ownership and allied measures of a semi-Socialistic character. But this element has as yet failed to give evidence of strength enough to control the declaration of principles for the party at large, and it is hardly probable that they will do so by 1908. It will be noticed that while the Indiana Democratic Convention declared for Mr. Bryan, it also attacked the protective tariff as the fountain from which flow most of the evils of which the country is complaining, and it called for their removal by a tariff for revenue only.

If the Democratic party should find some difficulty in formulating its policy on the tariff, it would not be the first time that such a misfortune has occurred. Nevertheless, it is admitted that the tariff is the weakest point in the Republican armor, and it is not easy to see why the logic of events may not make it the chief issue this year and in 1908 and so on until it is settled right.

The Casualties of Travel.

In a report prepared by Representative Mann, of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, some striking figures are given to compare the safety of American railways with those of the United Kingdom. And the net result of the report is a blow to the common belief and frequently made assertion that British railroads are safer than those of the United States. The statistics were compiled by Mr. Mann in connection with a resolution pending to direct the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate and submit to the Congress recommendations for legislation to promote the safety of railway travel.

In his statement Mr. Mann gives statistics of deaths and injuries in railroad accidents for various years, and dwells particularly on the fact that the majority of deaths and injuries in America are caused by casualties at crossings and by accidents to trespassers on the rights of way. There is comparative safety for persons actually traveling.

It is shown that in the year that ended June 30, 1904, 10,046 persons were killed and 84,155 were injured in railway accidents in the United States. But the security of passengers is demonstrated through the circumstance that only 262 persons were killed and 4,978 injured by collisions and derailments.

As for the oft-heard statement that railway accidents are much more common in the United States than in the United Kingdom, Mr. Mann shows that the number of passengers killed in this country during the given period was smaller in proportion to railway length than that in Great Britain. For instance, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and parts of North Dakota and South Dakota—forming group No. 6, according to the grouping arranged by the Interstate Commerce Commission—have a total railway mileage of 47,597. This is more than twice the mileage of the United Kingdom. The number of passengers killed in this territory in 1904 was sixty-four, and the number of injured was 1,627, "a far smaller number," says the report, "than were killed and injured in the United Kingdom."

That in various ways more people are killed by trains in the United States than in England is not denied, but the explanation is offered that the mileage is so much greater in America as to make more likely accidents at crossings and injuries to trespassers. Nevertheless, the number of casualties, however caused, is used as an argument for additional steps to promote safety in the United States.

From the condensed synopsis of Mr. Mann's report at hand, it does not appear that he bases his conclusions on a comparison of the number of passengers killed and injured with the total number carried by the railroads. It would seem that this would be a fairer way to arrive at sound conclusions than to calculate on a mileage basis.

In an editorial the Scientific American has this to say:

"By removing the tax from industrial alcohol our Government has effectually put a stop to the domination of the oil trust over the use of liquid fuel for light, heat and power. In Germany and France devices for using denatured alcohol for these purposes have already been perfected and placed in actual use, and their adoption in this country will no doubt come quickly as soon as industrial alcohol is on the market. As this fuel can be produced from many vegetable products that have heretofore gone to waste, and that, too, at a considerably lower price than is obtained for gasoline and kerosene to-day, there need never be any fear of lack of fuel, even should the coal measures all become exhausted and the supply of natural oil cease.

"The new fuel, besides being cleaner and less volatile, will, when used in suitably designed internal-combustion motors, develop about as much power per gallon as will the old, while for light and heat it is far superior. Its introduction will create a new market for the farmers of our country, while they will benefit directly from it also by using it themselves for the production of light and power."

It as yet impossible to say how far the benefits of the new law may be limited by the provisions which may be made with a view to protecting the revenue. There is some apprehension that they may be such as will prevent the free use of products that have heretofore gone to waste, but experience will show any defects in the law. The step is clearly in the right direction.

There is no longer doubt that summer has come in earnest. The thermometer, having for several days been 90, or a degree or two above, yesterday reached 94 degrees. This, with a high range of humidity, has made it warm in the sun, but the heat has been tempered with cool southwestern breezes. The high temperature has had the effect, in some quarters northward, to create storm conditions of serious nature. In Michigan a tornado caused destruction of much property, and the loss of a number of lives. Its path was a mile and a quarter wide for a distance of three miles. This distinguishes it from a cyclone, the path of which is much narrower than that of a tornado, and not so continuous. The same meteorological conditions in Western Pennsylvania have led to unusually heavy rains amounting to cloudbursts on the Conemaugh river, a tributary of the Ohio. From this and other streams the rise at Pittsburg will give a coal tide by which 7,000,000 tons of coal will come South. It is not unusual to have a June rise in this fickle stream, of which John Randolph said it was frozen up one-half the year and dried up the other half. A better sentiment prevails about the river nowadays, although there is still a strong disposition to dam it.

Points About People.

Charles Paine Curd, who died recently in Nashville, was buried Wednesday in Mt. Olivet cemetery, Nashville. Mr. Curd was born in Louisville in 1851, the son of Hayden Trigg Curd. He was a brother of James P. Curd, of Louisville; of Mrs. Mary C. Miller, of St. Louis, and of Mrs. Morton B. Howell and Mrs. D. F. Wilkin, of Nashville. Mr. Curd was graduated from the University of Nashville, and afterward from the law department of Vanderbilt University. After his law course, Mr. Curd went to St. Louis, where he became a member of the faculty of Washington University with which he had been connected ever since. He married Miss Selene Harding, of Louisville, in 1881. He is survived by his widow and two sons. The sons are engaged in business in St. Louis.

SURPRISE WEDDING.

Miss Daisy Rice and Henry Watterson Brasher Marry At Hopkinsville.

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Miss Daisy Rice, a popular teacher in Hopkinsville public schools, and Mr. Henry Watterson Brasher, a young druggist of Nashville, Tenn., surprised their friends by marrying here this afternoon immediately after the close of the school term. Rev. A. C. Biddle officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Brasher left this evening for Nashville, where they will reside.

"BACK HOME."

BY ONIE B. WILLAN.

"Back Home"—were ever words more dear?
Or ever thought more sweet?
Than just to know we're going home
The loved ones there— to greet.
What hallowed mem'ries cluster 'round
"The Place" we left to roam.
How glad the heart beats with the words:
"We're going, yes, back home!"

The greenery of the trees;
Old-fashioned pinks and roses there
Are swaying in the breeze.
The worn path through the orchard,
To the swimmin' hole beyond;
"Back Home!" Say, friends, the picture's one
To which all hearts respond.

There's a spring back in the meadow—
The water sparkling, cool;
The beaten path beyond it
The truants' way from school.
The old church—weather-beaten,
Beneath whose ancient dome
The white-haired preacher prayed for all—
Both good and bad—back home.

CHORUS.

Back home—the sun shines brighter;
Back home—the sky's more blue;
Back home—the heart seems lighter;
Back home—there's welcome true.
Richer, grander swells the chorus,
In cadence sweet, for hearts who roam—
And Heaven's in—"Back Home!"

NEWS OF KENTUCKY FROM STATE PAPERS.

Eagle Friend of Chickens.

Dr. G. W. Conner's young bald eagle is laboring under the impression that the era of brotherly love among all animal kind is on. Doctor has a number of young chickens that have been going into the eagle's large apartment, that is covered with large-meshed wire netting, and dining at the agle's table. One chick in particular was so familiar with the lordly bird as to roost on the same perch with him and peck meat off of the eagle's bill. Only the growth of the chickens to a size too large for entrance through the wire meshes put a stop to the friendly intercourse.—[Owingsville Outlook.

Killed By Dynamite.

It is now alleged that Marion Lewis, the young man reported to have been drowned in Chaplin river last Friday night week, was killed by the explosion of a stick of dynamite, thrown into the river for the purpose of killing fish. It is said that one charge of dynamite had already been exploded in the river, quite a number of fish being killed, and that young Lewis had gone into the water to get the fish, when some one threw more dynamite into the stream. This, it is alleged, exploded within a very short distance of the young man killing him instantly.

We stated in last week's issue of the Sun that the young man cramped, and, the water being deep, was unable to save himself, but we are now told that the water was not more than kneedeep.

A gentleman said to the Sun last evening that a man who resides in the community in which the accident occurred, told him that there was hardly a sound bone in the boy's body.

The authorities will make a thorough investigation. We are informed the body will be exhumed at once.—[Springfield Sun.

Famous Cave Guide Dead.

William Garvin, who for thirty-five years has been guide and explorer at the Mammoth Cave, is dead. He was past seventy years of age at the time of his death and was a prominent G. A. R. in his section. He had an acquaintance that extended all over the civilized world. To his untiring energy is much of the credit due for many of the sights now to be seen in that world's wonder. Cork screw, Martha Washington's statue and Shakespeare's picture, were all discovered by Mr. Garvin. His death was caused by paralysis, the final stroke being the third he had suffered in the past few months.—[Glasgow Republican.

In Bed With a Snake.

Sleeping all night in bed with a snake is something that many women would not do, yet it was the experience of Mrs. Josie Griffin, near Sutherland station, Monday night. Mrs. Griffin being very fatigued, retired to her bed at an unusually early hour Monday night. She slept soundly and did not awake until Tuesday morning at 4:30, her usual hour. When she arose from her bed she threw the coverlets back over the foot of the bed revealing a large black snake coiled up in the middle of the bed. Instead of screaming as most women would, Mrs. Griffin grabbed a poker and killed the serpent. The snake measured four feet in length and was larger than most snakes of its kind. The idea of sleeping with a snake is not at all agreeable to Mrs. Griffin, and she says that hereafter she will always look under the covers, as well as under the bed, before retiring.

The supposition is that the snake entered the house and got in the bed during the afternoon while the family was out.—[Owensboro Inquirer.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS HOGE

And the Marchesa S. San Germano, of Rome, To Be Announced.

Dr. and Mrs. Peyton H. Hoge will to-day announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Hoge, to the Marchesa S. San Germano, of Rome, Italy.

Miss Hoge went to Italy about a year ago with her mother and sister, Miss Mary Hoge, to study music, and remained in Rome during the winter with a chaperon, a friend of Mrs. Hoge. It was while in Rome that she met the marchesa, and he came to America on the same steamer with the Misses Hoge and their chaperon, coming at once to Louisville.

Miss Hoge is a handsome young woman, beautiful, educated and a finished linguist. She has a superb voice, and it was for the purpose of studying under some of the Italian masters that she went to Italy.

The Marchesa San Germano is a member of one of the three oldest families in Italy, is said to be very rich, and is withal a charming personality.

OHIO GOVERNOR IGNORES NORTH CAROLINA CLAIM.

Columbus, O., June 8.—Gov. Pattison to-day refused to honor the requisition from the Governor of North Carolina for extradition of William T. Spaeth, who was arrested at Cleveland several weeks ago. Spaeth was treasurer of the Forepaugh-Sells circus in 1904, when the safe in the ticket wagon was opened and $30,000 extracted at a small town in North Carolina. Gov. Pattison held that the charge that Spaeth was a fugitive from justice, on which he was arrested, was not sustained.

PRESS COMMENT ON BRYAN FOR PRESIDENT.

Having been the rock upon which the Democratic party split in 1896, is William Jennings Bryan to be the tie that binds the party together again in 1906?

What other significance can be given to the address of ex-Gov. David R. Francis at the State Democratic convention in Jefferson City, in which he unequivocally indorsed the presidential candidacy of William J. Bryan for 1908. Mr. Francis eulogized Mr. Bryan as "a sincere lover of humanity and a patriotic citizen of the United States," and declared that "the differences that have divided the Democracy exist no longer."—[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Even at this early stage of the game Mr. Bryan ought to make up his mind that if he fails to get his party out of the woods this time he need never again apply for the job.—[Washington Post.

Political lightning is getting frisky, and threatens to strike before its time. Already the Eastern papers, almost unanimously, are picking Bryan for the Democratic nominee for President in 1908. The Cincinnati organ of "the interests" has also, curiously enough, been booming the Nebraskan.

Well, what about it? In the first place, the premature political explosion seems to have been set off by Bogey Man Hearst. Tammany Hall, which industriously knifed Bryan in 1896, has particular and intimate reasons for hating Hearst. It is Tammany which is organizing the Eastern reception for Bryan. Tammany men, in a moment of confidence, would describe the maneuver as choosing between evils.

But aside from Tammany and the trust newspapers, what are Bryan's real claims? His strongest is found in the revelations of the amounts the trusts and corporations contributed against him in 1896 and 1900. This gives basis for an assertion that he was swindled out of at least one election and a chance to appeal to American sense of a square deal.

Next is found the shrewdest move of Bryan's political life—his indorsement of Roosevelt. If the Republicans do not find a worthy heir to the Rough Rider, Bryan may claim to be the real and only heir to his policies. The argument would be a powerful one.

As a rule early presidential booms do not wear well, and Bryan's must endure the frosts of two long winters. His greatest danger lies in his new friends—the trusts—who, in panic hatred of Roosevelt, are turning to Bryan as a conservative by comparison.—[Kentucky Post.

Ordinarily Missouri is content with being shown. Rarely does it undertake to do the showing itself. One of these rare occasions is the formal and enthusiastic indorsement of William Jennings Bryan by the Missouri State Democratic convention as a candidate for the presidency in 1908.

The significant feature about this indorsement is that it comes from the element of the Democratic party which opposed Mr. Bryan in 1896 and 1900, the so-called conservative wing of the party. And still more significant of the times and changes a few years have wrought, the conservative Democrats, as has been humorously pointed out by Mr. Dooley, favor Bryan because of his conservatism.

With the single exception of free silver—which the people settled long ago—Bryan to-day practically stands for what he did ten or six years ago. Parties have changed, policies have changed, public opinion has changed, but Bryan has not changed either in the fundamental lines of his political policy or in his loyalty to what he believes to be right.—[Chicago Post.

The Hon. David R. Francis might have made a very different speech to the Jefferson City convention and still have impressed his auditors with the sincerity of his zeal for Mr. Bryan. But it is an old story that one who seeks to reunite and ingratiate himself with those he has deserted is the most extreme in his protestations of new-born fealty.—[Kansas City Star and Times.

* * *

If William Randolph Hearst proposes to corral the Democratic National Convention of 1908 he had better get into the game. His distinguished competitor, William Jennings Bryan, is getting all the bouquets which are being thrown these days. Democratic conventions in all parts of the country are indorsing him for renomination, and on Thursday of this week Indiana promises to furnish the most significant expression of the preconvention campaign in favor of the Nebraskan.—[Des Moines Capital.

Neither Francis nor Folk said anything about Hearst. But their allusions to conservatism past and present were sufficiently significant. The tenor of their speeches furnishes a striking proof of the swift descent of the Democratic party into the mire of socialism and of the lapse of such men as Francis from sound political faith.

Such men now follow Bryan as a conservative, dreading as yet the lower depth of socialism where Hearst finds a formidable Democratic following.

The true conservative Democrats have not fallen to the Bryan plane. They are still a host, and by 1908 they will see plainly enough that there is but one political home for them and that it is not in the Democratic barracks.—[Chicago Chronicle.

SUMMONSES IN CONTEMPT CASES AT CHATTANOOGA.

Defendants To Appear Before Supreme Court In October.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 8.—United States Marshal Dunlap to-day served a Supreme Court order on all defendants cited to appear before the Supreme Court in October to answer for contempt in the Johnson lynching case. The Marshal was aided in locating defendants by the Sheriff's deputies, all of whom, in addition to the Sheriff, are included in Attorney General Moody's information. Friends of Sheriff Shipp, who is a candidate for re-election, are utilizing the action of the Supreme Court for political capital, and some effort was made at the recent Democratic State Convention to insert a plank in the platform protesting against Federal intereference with State courts. The effort, however, was not successful, it being the judgment of the Resolutions Committee that reference be omitted.

PROBABLY A LABOR DAY PARADE IN SEPTEMBER.

The Labor Day Committee of the Louisville Federation of Labor decided last night to accept the proposition of the management of Fontaine Ferry Park and the Labor day picnic will be held at that resort. The committee also canvassed the vote from the various local unions as to whether or not a parade should be given. The vote showed that two-thirds of the unions voted for giving a parade. Both matters will be reported at the meeting of the Federation of Labor Tuesday night. The negroes who belong to the various trades unions in the city will participate in the parade, but arrangement will be made for them to have a separate picnic.

CENTENNIAL

Will Be Celebrated In First Methodist Church.

ORIGINAL BUILDING STANDING AT CHARLESTOWN, IND.

SALOON LICENSES GRANTED BY JEFFERSONVILLE COUNCIL.

TO EXPIRE DECEMBER 28.

Besides the centennial celebration of the first sale of lots at Charlestown, Ind., thirteen miles east of Jeffersonville, that is contemplated for September, another is now being planned which will take place in August, 1907, and will commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the building of the first Methodist Episcopal church in the State of Indiana. At a recent meeting of the district conference, which was held at Trafalgar, the Rev. M. B. Hyde, presiding elder; the Rev. J. S. Ward, of Jeffersonville, and the Rev. J. E. Murr, of Charlestown, were appointed a committee to begin the arrangements for the celebration.

Until recently there was a question as to when the first church was built, but it has been definitely settled that it was in August, 1807, although a congregation that held meetings at private residences from time to time had been formed some months before. The little band became so strong numerically that it was decided to build a church. The members went into the virgin forests and with their own hands felled the trees and hewed the logs from which the little church was fashioned. The structure was not in the town of Charlestown, but some three miles east of there on the Robertson farm. For some time it was the only Methodist Episcopal church in the State.

In after years the church became a stable and finally a shed for the storing of fodder. A few years ago a movement was started to restore the church to an appearance as near the original structure as possible and the question was taken up by the Indiana conference. The old building was purchased from the man who owned it and repaired until it is now almost a duplicate of what it formerly was. The centennial anniversary is expected to be on an extensive scale and many prominent Methodist Episcopal ministers are to be invited to attend.

Will Grant Licenses.

By dint of hard work, seven of the nine members of the Jeffersonville City Council were present at the special meeting called for last night, the absentees being Messrs. Coots and Anderson. The session did not begin until 8:15 o'clock, three-quarters of an hour later than the law specifies. The impeachment ordinance did not come up. Liquor license was the sole topic of the meeting, which lasted fifteen minutes.

The License Committee reported favorably upon granting liquor licenses to Joseph Braun, Jacob Patrick, John G. Ryan, Charles Kidder, John A. Ballard, Stephen W. Gibbs, William F. Cisco, none of whom have license at this time. Calvin Schrader applied for a license to open a saloon at Fulton and Market streets. The question of what date the new license should expire was raised and on motion of Mr. Young the matter was referred to the License Committee, the understanding being that the permits would be issued to run to December 28, when the licenses of the other saloon-keepers expire. The council then adjourned.

NOTES OF THE NEWS IN JEFFERSONVILLE.

—The contract for doing the hauling in this city and Louisville for the local Government Depot for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1906, has been awarded W. T. Ingram by Col. J. M. Marshall.

Emma Schowe and husband, of Washington township, have conveyed to George W. Goodwin, of this county, 135 acres of land in section 27 and forty acres in section 26 for a consideration of $5,000.

—Prof. Frank E. Andrews, principal of the High School, has been selected to deliver the memorial address for the Knights of Pythias of Paynesville, Jefferson county, Sunday afternoon, June 17.

—The employes of the American Car and Foundry Company in this city will be paid for two weeks' services this afternoon, and a large amount of money will be put in circulation, as nearly $50,000 will be paid out.

—Thomas O'Neal, Sr., has purchased four houses on Mulberry street belonging to the Louisville and Jeffersonville Bridge Company, and has begun tearing them down. They were condemned by the Board of Public Works.

—In the City Court yesterday morning Judge Schwaninger fined Penny Edwards $25 and costs on the charge of intoxication, and she went to jail for thirty-five days. Capt. Clegg had hoped to hold her over to the September term of the Circuit Court.

—Senility caused the death of Emiline Hunt, colored, who lived at 635 Indiana avenue. She was apparently in good health up to Thursday morning, and after she became ill death followed in a few hours. She was more than eighty years old.

—Frank S. Daily, of Charlestown, who was declared insane Thursday, has been brought to the county jail, and is in a serious condition. The papers for his commitment to the Central Hospital for the Insane are expected to arrive this morning.

—The Rev. Father John O'Connell, pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church, returned yesterday from Leopold, Perry county, where he went as an escort for the body of the Rev. Father Hypolitus Pierrard, who died at the Mercy Hospital Wednesday night.

—John Clark, charged with petit larceny, and to serve from one to three years, and Herbert Screach, convicted on the charge of receiving stolen money, and to serve from one to fourteen years, were received at the Indiana Reformatory yesterday from Fayette county.

—Miss Sue Wood, who is a daughter of Prof. Robert Wood, former superintendent of the public schools in this city, was married at Shelbyville, Ind., to Ralph Edwards. The ceremony took place at the First Methodist Episcopal church in the presence of 600 friends.

—W. L. Barnes, of Charlestown, has returned from Columbus, where he went to look after a mortgage he holds on a roof garden church, and has extended the time until July 1 to make a payment of $2,500 on the debt. The money has been raised with the exception of $450.

—George W. Gordon, who has been employed at the Government Depot in this city for some time, has been transferred to Fortress Monroe, and will leave July 1. He came here from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and was suspended at one time, but was finally returned to work.

—On account of Home-coming Week in Louisville many complaints are being made to the Board of Public Works of the numerous weed patches in the city, and there is a desire that Front street especially be cleaned up for the many visitors who will come to this city.

—Morton M. Worrall, whose father, D. W. Worrall, was denied a license to sell liquor at Mulberry and Sixth streets, has given notice he will apply at the June term of the Commissioners' Court for a license to open a saloon at the old stand, and a remonstrance may be circulated.

—Suit of a friendly nature will probably be filed by Dr. Cad W. Jones, of Charlestown, against the Town Board of that place to collect a bill of $9, which he claims is due him for money advanced in paying board and railroad fare in attending a meeting of the State Board of Health.

—Henry Buttorff, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Buttorff, who reside at 319 East Front street, while playing at jumping hurdles, fell and sustained such a severe concussion of the brain that for a time it was feared he could not recover, but he is now believed to be out of danger.

—The Louisville and Northern Railway and Lighting Company is completing a subpower house and depot at Watson, which will be done within the next few days. Names are being secured of persons who are willing to take summer boarders from Louisville who desire to go to the country.

—The fire department was called to Lee street, Clarksville, yesterday afternoon to put out a fire that had started in the roof of a cottage owned by William M. Reynolds and occupied by Edward Mears. There was no fire in the house and it is supposed the blaze was started by an engine spark.

—Hope Lodge, No. 13, and Myrtle Lodge, No. 19, Knights of Pythias, and Hoosic Camp, No. 3,594, Modern Woodmen of America, will hold memorial services to-morrow. The first named orders will have their services at the Eastern cemetery at 2:30 p. m., and the latter at the First Christian church at 3 p. m.

—George B. Parks, Auditor, has received from Nat U. Hill, State Treasurer, a bill against Clark county for its proportion of maintenance of public institutions as follows: Central Hospital for the Insane, $166.05; Deaf and Dumb Institute, $8.07; Boys' Reform School, $293.17; Female prison, $186.80, being a total of $654.09.

—The well at Memphis, which was being sunk for water by the Memphis Canning Company, the principal owners of which are Louis Cohen and his two sons, Maurice Cohen and Herman Cohen, of this city, continues to show indications of coal-oil in good quantities, and a contract has been made to sink it to the depth of 1,400 feet.

—Sheriff Pernett has given notice that on July 7 he will sell a house and lot on East Chestnut street that was taken on an execution against Mrs. Josephine Spangler in a suit against her in favor of her father, Louis Hutt, who deeded her the property, and in a suit alleged she did not carry out the terms of the consideration, which was to care for him.

CALLS ON MAYOR.

AGED HOME-COMER GIVEN A WARM WELCOME AT CITY HALL.

Contracts Let To Improve Letterle Avenue With Blocks.

Wearing a white cotton hat, seersucker coat, dark trousers and serviceable brogan shoes, J. W. Owens, seventy years old, who trundled a wheelbarrow from his home, La Platta, Mo., to Louisville, a distance of 570 miles, stepped into the Mayor's office yesterday afternoon and shook hands with the city's Chief Executive. He is rather tall, has a long, white beard, and is rather prepossessing in his general appearance.

Mr. Owens explained to Mayor Barth that he had made the trip on foot to Kentucky merely for the novelty of it. He is a native of Cave City, Ky., and yesterday was the first time he had stepped his foot on native soil in thirty years. He will remain in Louisville during Home-coming Week, after which he will return aboard a train to his home. While he enjoyed the hospitality accorded him by the thousands he met while en route to Louisville, he became a little foot sore, and said yesterday that the novelty of such travel had about worn off for him.

Soon after Mr. Owens had left the City Hall, the telephone bell in the Mayor's office rang, and someone inquired of Thomas Craig, Mr. Barth's secretary, whether the old gentleman from Missouri was still in the building. He said he was anxious to find him, as Mr. Owens, during his residence in Kentucky, had virtually reared him. He would not disclose his identity, as he desires to surprise Mr. Owens by coming upon him unexpectedly.

BIRTHS EXCEED DEATHS.

Stork Visits Eighty-nine Homes In Louisville.

Births in Louisville during the past week exceeded deaths by two, according to the week's health report. There were eighty-seven deaths and eighty-nine births. Of the deaths, thirty-eight were males and forty-four were females, sixty-three were white and nineteen were colored.

Out of the total number of births reported for the week, only six were colored. This has caused Maj. P. H. Morel, registrar clerk in the Health Department, to believe that in but few instances reports are made of colored births. Forty-four of the births were males and forty-five females.

Eleven deaths, the largest number attributed to any one disease, were due to tuberculosis. Nine persons died of old age.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

L. R. Figg and Henry Bickel Successful Bidders.

Bids for the construction with vitrified blocks of three blocks of street on Letterle avenue, Mellwood avenue and State street, were yesterday opened by the Board of Public Works. L. R. Figg and Henry Bickel were the successful bidders. Mr. Figg was awarded the contract to build two blocks of street and Mr. Bickel will build one. The price to be paid ranges from $1.49 to $1.54 per square yard. The total cost to the city of the work has been estimated at $8,000.

Funds For 'Frisco Sufferers.

Donations for the San Francisco sufferers were received by Mayor Barth yesterday as follows: Grand Lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, $50; from McCoy and Pearl Lodges of the same order, $5 each.

THOUGHT HIM CRAZY WHEN HE WANTED TO MARRY.

William McKinney, living on Clay street, between Main and Market streets, was arrested yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by Patrolmen Lutz and Tully near St. Patrick's church, Thirteenth and Market streets, and locked up on a lunacy charge. It is said that McKinney was released from the Lakeland Asylum about four years ago, and that recently he began to show signs of returning dementia. When he was taken in charge by the patrolmen, McKinney was trying to gain entrance to the church, saying that he wanted to get married.

SAYS BOATOWNERS OWE HIM FOR WAGES.

J. E. Conlin, formerly a mate on the excursion boat Louisiana, made a complaint to Henry F. Cassin, United States Commissioner, yesterday that the boat was indebted to him for wages in the sum of $93.57. He said the work was done while the boat was engaged in the excursion trade at Evansville. Commissioner Cassin informed Conlin that he would summon the captain, W. H. Morgan, to appear before him in regard to the complaint.

W. C. A. Notes.

The usual weekly religious services will be conducted by the Rev. C. A. Quarles in the rest room of the Women's Christian Association from 12:30 o'clock to 1 o'clock, Tuesday, June 12. Mr. Aulyn Kanston will be the soloist. At 3 o'clock the same day the W. C. A. board will hold the regular monthly meeting.

Ten Million Brick Needed.

Madison, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—Commissioner McCardle inspected the State hospital situation here to-day. He says 10,000,000 brick will be required for the thirty-two buildings and that it will take three years to construct. The total cost will be $1,000,000.

TIPS APPOINTEES.

Carl F. Best To Be Controller of New Albany.

JOHN H. WEATHERS FOR CITY ATTORNEY.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD PRIMARY IN JULY.

THIEF BUSY ACROSS BRIDGE.

For several weeks the people of New Albany, especially the Republican politicians, have been greatly exercised over the possible appointees to the various offices controlled by Jacob Best, Mayor-elect, who will assume the duties of the place the first Monday in September. Matters came to a head about the city yesterday and the names of the appointees were unofficially given out.

Mr. Best declined to make any statement as to the correctness of the list, but it is believed there will be few, if any changes, in the following: City Controller, Carl B. Best; Board of Public Works, John Hieb, Democrat; Philip Strack and Thomas M. McCulloch, Republicans; City Attorney, John H. Weathers; Board of Health, Dr. Austin Funk, secretary; Henry F. Bader, Republican; Dr. F. A. Mitchell, Democrat. It is believed that the list as given, is correct, although it is possible there will be a change in the appointment of Mr. McCulloch. Mr. Best will make no appointment for Chief of the Fire Department or City Engineer at present, although it is generally understood, that Capt. Joseph Featheringill, a most efficient and capable man, will be the fire chief, and it is intimated that Watson Conner, a young man, who has been serving for the last two years in the engineering corps of the New York Central, will be City Engineer.

These appointments will be made under the provisions of the Towns and City Bill, passed by the last Indiana Legislature. There is great complaint not only in New Albany, but throughout the cities of Indiana concerning this bill on account of the expense attached. It is claimed that in a city the size of New Albany, these extra officers who have a sinecure, absorb nearly one-third of the revenue in salaries, leaving but comparatively little with which to pay the running expenses. It is almost certain that decided changes will be made in the law by the Legislature, which convenes next January.

Republicans Call Primary.

It has been generally understood that the Republicans of New Albany and Floyd county would not hold their primary for the selection of the county ticket until late in the fall, possibly the latter part of September. For some reason there has been a change in the feelings of the party leaders, and the County Central Committee was called together by the chairman, M. Bert Thurman, for the purpose of having a consultation in regard to the question. After a conference, lasting several hours, among the precinct committeemen, the party leaders and prospective candidates, it was decided to hold the primary Thursday, July 19. It was also agreed upon that Thursday, July 5, should be the last day on which the candidates could announce themselves.

In the city precincts, the polls will be open from noon to 9 p. m., while in the country precincts, they will be open from noon until 6 o'clock. Several candidates have already announced themselves as being in the race for the nomination. Harry W. Vance is a candidate for County Auditor; Samuel L. Trusty, for Prosecuting Attorney; William Newhouse, for Sheriff; Henry J. H. Koch, for Clerk. There is a bitter factional fight among the Republicans of New Albany, and it looks very much as if the nominations on the party ticket will be nothing but empty honors, as not a candidate has any chance whatever of election, and Floyd county will give its old-time Democratic majority.

Thief Busy In New Albany.

An unknown negro thief has been operating extensively in and near New Albany. Wednesday afternoon he made a raid on the houses situated on the Silver Hills west of the city. The one occupied by Miss Emma C. Dewhurst was entered during her absence, and several articles of value carried away. One was an old-fashioned sliding telescope that had been used by her father, who was an officer in the navy before the Civil War, and in addition several valuable pieces of jewelry, also heirlooms, were taken. The thief entered a cottage not far distant, occupied by a servant in the Terstegge family, and it was completely looted, several articles of value having been taken, together with a quantity of clothing. Yesterday morning a colored man, probably the same entered the house of William Soergel, near the Fairground, and stole a fine gold watch, two rings and other articles, beside a lot of clothing. The thefts were reported to the police, who expect that others will be committed before the man is captured or run out of town.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN NEW ALBANY.

—Urban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund G. Gohmann, died at the home of his parents, 920 North Pearl street, yesterday morning.

—An electric fan has been installed in the Central Police Station and the men, on account of the hot weather, donned straw hats yesterday.

—Misses Blanche and Virginia Laib left yesterday for Great Bend, Kas., where they will visit their sister, Mrs. T. B. Dempster for several weeks.

—William C. Stephenson, an old resident of Crawford county, died at his home near Pilot Knob a few days ago. He was seventy-six years old and is survived by seven children—six sons and a daughter.

—"Woman's Ministry" will be the subject of the Rev. Dr. Charles P. Foreman, at the First Presbyterian church to-morrow morning. His subject at night will be "The Wife—Sarah," being the second series on women.

—Mrs. Blanche Alice Scherer, wife of Albert Scherer, died early yesterday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Stoll, 326 East Main street, after a brief illness. She was twenty-three years old and is survived by her husband and one child.

—Julia Hall, as administratrix of the estate of Joseph Hall, has filed suit in the Circuit Court against the National Life and Accident Insurance Company to recover $100. This sum is alleged to be due for sick benefits at $5 a week for twenty weeks. The policy was issued to Joseph Hall January 4, 1904.

W. J. Coleman has been elected a member of the board of school trustees of Silver Grove to succeed J. Wilcox, who retires by expiration of his term. The vacancy on the board caused by the removal of Samuel H. Pennington, who is now living at Los Angeles, Cal., was filled by the election of R. Ruthenburg.

—H. A. Baldwin, secretary of the East Liberty branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Pittsburg, and E. C. Baldwin, secretary of the Young Men's Institute, New York city, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Baldwin, Cedar Bough Place. They have been attending the conference of Y. M. C. A. secretaries at Indianapolis.

Children's day will be observed at the Second Presbyterian church to-morrow morning and the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Hamilton A. Hymes, will preach one of his illustrated sermons to the children. At night Dr. Hymes will have for his subject "The Best of Friends." On account of the warm weather the services will be short.

—The body of Mrs. Mary Payne, a former resident of this city, widow of the Rev. J. H. Payne, was brought to her former home at Paoli, Ind., for burial. She died in Yellville, Ark. Her husband years ago was pastor of the Main-street Methodist Episcopal church, this city. She is survived by two sons, Harry and Edward Payne.

—The funeral of Miss Minnie Hardin, the young woman who died at St. Edward's City Hospital last Wednesday night, took place yesterday morning from the home of her aunt, Mrs. George Holmes, West Main street. Services were conducted by the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the Park Christian church, and the body was taken to Edwardsville for burial.

—The funeral of Robert T. Cullen, who is said to have died of broken heart in a hospital at Indianapolis, took place yesterday afternoon from the church in Greenville, ten miles north of this city, on the Paoli pike, under the direction of New Albany lodge of Elks and Depauw lodge of Masons, committees from these fraternities having accompanied the body to Greenville.

—Manzanita Tribe of Red Men has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: Sachem, Louis Yost; Senior Sagamore, Arthur Wilcox; Junior Sagamore, George Wells; Prophet, Homer Crandall; Trustee, J. Alonzo Murphy; Chief of Records, J. L. Buckingham; Representatives to Great Council, Casper Hoppenjon, William Miller, Henry Wootan, Balser Kohl, Joseph Leist, William Kreutzer, Alonzo Murphy, Charles A. Martin, A. L. Buckingham and Robert A. Leist.

—The Rev. Charles Curran, rector of Holy Trinity, will celebrate next Monday his silver jubilee, the twenty-fifth anniversary of his entrance into the priesthood. Yesterday morning the children of the parochial school had Father Curran called to the school hall and presented him with twenty-five roses, emblematic of the anniversary, and afterward sang several numbers they had prepared for the jubilee. In appreciation of the compliment, Father Curran had the school dismissed until Tuesday.

DECORATION PRIZES.

FOUR HANDSOME ONES FOR MOST ARTISTIC WORK.

Armory Now a Glimpse of Fairyland —Badges For Commercial Club Members.

Four handsome prizes were purchased yesterday by the Committee on Decoration and Illumination to be awarded to the firms whose business houses are the most beautifully decorated for Home-coming Week. The selections were made yesterday, and prizes will go on exhibition to-day in the windows of William Kendrick's Sons, George Wolf & Co., Rodgers & Krull and Thalheimer & Frank. The prizes are a bronze figure, a handsome plaque and two handsome electric lamps.

Competent judges will be selected to make a tour of the business districts, examine the decorations and make the awards. The judges will be disinterested persons, and will make the awards during the latter part of the week.

The decoration in the large hall of the armory has been completed, and contractors now are working upon the lobby in the front of the building. The number of lights has been increased by the committee from 3,000 to 3,500, and they have overlooked nothing that will add to the brilliancy of the illumination. The arches over the streets in the business sections have been put up.

"The work of the committee is practically completed," said Julius V. Beckmann, chairman of the Decoration and Illumination Committee. "The greatest problem confronting us was properly and most effectively lighting the streets in the central section of the city. It was our aim to do this so thoroughly that in the matter of illumination, night might be turned into day. There will be not only an abundance of light at the street intersections, but at stated intervals on all the main streets.

"The entire city, from Jackson to Eighth and from the river to Broadway, will be one blaze of light, presenting, with the decorations, the grandest spectacular effect ever witnessed in Louisville.

"Your committee was most fortunate in securing the co-operation of the merchants on all main streets, and practically every business house on the streets included in the above area will be decorated as never before."

Badges For Commercial Club.

Special badges have been purchased for the members of the Commercial Club to wear during Home-coming Week. Two thousand of the badges have been received, and one will be given to every member of the Commercial Club who calls at headquarters in the armory. The badge is a blue celluloid button bearing the club's monogram, L. C. C., in white. Attached to the button is a white ribbon with the words, Louisville Commercial Club, stamped in gold. Victor H. Engelhard, president, expects every member of the club to wear one of these badges during Home-coming Week, and all visitors will thus be able to recognize a member of the club and apply to them for information.

The following address to the members of the club has been printed as an advertisement in the local papers:

To All Members of the Commercial Club—The Board of Directors has contracted for badges to be worn by members of the club during Home-coming Week. These have been received and will be delivered to all members upon application to the secretary at Commercial Club headquarters in the Armory, Sixth and Walnut streets.

V. H. ENGELHARD, President.

R. E. HUGHES, Secretary.

ITCHING SCALP FALLING HAIR

Came Out Constantly—Hair Finally Had to Be Cut to Save Any—Scalp Now in Good Condition and No More Itching—Another Effective

CURE BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I will gladly give you all the information concerning my case. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment for a diseased scalp, dandruff, and constant falling of hair. Finally I had to cut my hair to save any at all. Just at that time I read about the Cuticura Remedies. Once every week I shampooed my hair with the Cuticura Soap, and I used the Ointment twice a week. In two months' time my hair was long enough to do up in French twist. That is now five years ago, and I have a lovely head of hair. The length is six inches below my waist line, my scalp is in very good condition, and no more dandruff or itching of the scalp. I used other remedies that were recommended to me as good, but with no results. If you wish to publish any of what I have written you, you are welcome to do so. I am, respectfully, Mrs. W. F. Griess, Clay Center, Neb., Oct. 23, 1905."

ACQUIT WOMAN

TESTIMONY SHOWED THREATS AGAINST DEFENDANT.

MRS. NANNIE NUCKOLS GOES BACK HOME FREE.

HUSBAND INVOLVED IN STORY.

Richmond, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nannie Nuckols, who killed Mrs. Vina Black last Wednesday at Berea, had her examining trial to-day before Judge N. B. Turpin, and was acquitted. The defense made out a strong case and showed that Mrs. Nuckols acted in self-defense in taking the life of Mrs. Black.

Long before the hour for the trial to begin the court room began filling, and by the time court announced ready the room was packed, the windows, aisles, doors and all. There were many prominent women in the house, who displayed the greatest interest in everything that went on. Mrs. Nuckols, in charge of Jailer Johnson, was brought over from the jail promptly at 10 o'clock and seated beside her counsel, J. Tevis Cobb. To her left sat her husband, Dempsey Nuckols, and just behind him sat his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nuckols. Mrs. Nuckols was dressed in a neat-fitting black dress, with hat and gloves to match. She is a rather small woman with black, piercing eyes, and weighs about 120 pounds. She was seemingly the coolest and least concerned person in the room.

Dead Woman Made Threats.

The first witness was John Gordon, a farmer from Paint Lick, Ky. His testimony was to the effect that he was standing on the campus near Memorial Hall, and saw Mrs. Nuckols run by him just before the killing. The second witness was Mrs. Mary Singleton, of Berea. She heard Mrs. Black on two different occasions threaten Mrs. Nuckols. The third witness was Mrs. Lizzie Nuckols, a cousin of Mrs. Nannie Nuckols. She heard Mrs. Black threaten the life of the defendant several times the day of the killing. She also said she saw a gun in the bosom of Mrs. Black's dress which Mrs. Black showed her, saying: "I am going to make her smoke and have the thing to do it with." It was from Miss Lizzie Nuckols Mrs. Nannie Nuckols snatched the pistol with which she killed Mrs. Black. Jack Peters and Thomas Walls, deputy sheriffs, were the next witnesses. They both heard Mrs. Black say "I will kill her before the sun sets."

Defendant Tells Story.

Mrs. Nuckols was next placed on the stand. In a straightforward, cool manner she said: "Nine years ago I married Dempsy Nuckols. We lived in Knox county. Mrs. Black was a frequent visitor to our house. I asked her several times not to come, but it did not do any good. I made up my mind to leave, and did go to Garrard county to live. Mrs. Black soon followed and again made trouble between me and my husband. Tuesday last I, with my husband and three little children, went to Berea to attend commencement on Wednesday. I did not know Mrs. Black was going to be there. Commencement day I missed my husband along about noon and went to hunt him. I found him and Mrs. Black together. I told him to come and have dinner. We started across the campus and Mrs. Black followed, but turned back.

* * *

Mrs. Black With Husband.

"After dinner I again missed my husband, and on going for him found him again with Mrs. Black. I asked him to accompany me, and he did so, with Mrs. Black following. When we arrived at our tent and wagon I sent my husband for some lemonade for the children. While he was gone Mrs. Black said: 'I took your husband away from you twice and am going to do it again.' As she said this she turned half around, putting her hand in her shirt-waist front as if to draw a pistol.

"I grabbed a pistol out of the lap of Lizzie Nuckols, and as Mrs. Black turned as if to come to me, fired, striking her in the left side. After I shot Mrs. Black made two steps toward me and fell, dying instantly. I was arrested and led away."

Mrs. Nuckols left immediately after being released, going to her home in Garrard county, accompanied by her husband and three little children.

FIGHT INTERRUPTS BASEBALL GAME

SERGT. DORAN ATTEMPTS TO PULL A GUN

COLONELS WIN OUT IN END.

EXCITEMENT FOR A TIME.

When the owner of one baseball club and the manager of the opposing team are arrested and the arresting officer attempts to pull a revolver with the evident intention of shooting at least one of the pair, and when all of this happens in plain view of between 1,000 and 1,500 spectators, the enthusiasts figure that they have had a run for their money they paid to secure admission at the gate.

All these things happened yesterday, and they were not all by a good deal. At Eclipse Park Pitcher Ed Kenna, the "bard of the diamond," took three distinct punches at Second-baseman Padden's face, after which Padden's cheek and left eye looked like a man with a chronic case of toothache or mumps on one side. Padden, it might be mentioned, swung back at Kenna, but hit only the atmosphere, and last night the leader of the St. Paul Club was figuring on the proposition of "how to behave or not to behave." Incidentally the Colonels won their fourth straight victory from the St. Paul Club, the final score being 17 to 7.

It was an afternoon of eventful happenings which will not soon be forgot by those who witnessed them. The most serious trouble occurred in the third inning. Umpire Owens on Thursday was hit and seriously injured by a foul tip, and for this reason it was necessary yesterday to appoint two players to officiate in his place. Kenna, for Louisville, and Drill, for St. Paul, were the men agreed to by both sides, and everything proceeded in a matter of fact manner until the third inning. In this period of play, with the score standing 3 to 2 in favor of the visitors, Kerwin received his base on balls and Stovall beat out an infield hit to Rosenfield. Then Brashear neatly sacrificed, and when Sullivan and Woodruff each lined out a single Kerwin and Stovall crossed the rubber, which made the score 4 to 3 in favor of the locals.

Then it was that Capt. Padden concluded that this would be about enough for Pitcher Coy, and he was sent to the bench, while Pitcher Slagle was brought to the slab. Slagle, after pitching the second ball to Shaw, made a palpable balk, and Kenna, as it was his duty, moved Sullivan and Woodruff up by a wave of his hand. There is no doubt about Slagle making the balk. It was plain to every person within the fences, and Kenna was undoubtedly correct in his ruling, as even the St. Paul players admitted afterward.

Kenna Punches Padden.

When Kenna advanced Sullivan and Woodruff, Capt. Dick Padden, of the St. Paul Club, rushed at him from second base, his face black with anger and passion. As soon as he got close to Kenna he called the poet-pitcher the vilest name that it is possible for one man to call another.

Instantly, and without the least hesitation, Kenna's left arm shot out and it landed just below Padden's right eye, raising an awful bump and knocking the St. Paul man again and swung his right hand, but the Louisville boy stepped out of harm's way and swung his right to his opponent's face, again sending Padden back several feet.

Then the two men came together and exchanged some harmless short-arm blows at close quarters before they were separated by the other players, who rushed to the scene of action, which was in the middle of the diamond. Then from left and right came policemen, headed by Sergt. Doran. The police were in the thick of the fray in less time than it takes to tell it, and so was George Tebeau, owner of the Louisville Club, who had run out to the diamond from the home players' bench.

From the stand it looked like the police were attempting to arrest both Padden and Kenna, and that Owner Tebeau was either attempting to prevent this or to restore quiet. He says that he was simply trying to protect his business interests by restoring quiet, and that he told the police to arrest Padden and let Kenna alone, because Kenna was the umpire and master of the field. At any rate, Tebeau and Sergt. Doran became involved in a violent argument, during which Tebeau's shirt was half torn from his body by Sergt. Doran, who was evidently attempting to arrest him. There was a sort of scuffle in the midst of the bunch of players, and Sergt. Doran kept backing toward the grand stand, with Tebeau walking rapidly after him.

Doran After His Gun.

About the time the policeman reached the line which runs from home to first he went back after his gun, which was in a holster in his right hand hip pocket, and to the spectators who were seated to the right of the plate it was apparent that his pistol was caught in his pocket. As a matter of fact he made two tries for his gun, but whether he wanted to get it out is a question. At any rate there was no shooting and the incident ended by half a dozen policemen hustling Tebeau and Padden off the ground.

At the gate Owner Tebeau and the police had another mix-up, and for a time it looked like there would be serious trouble, but the baseball magnate finally jumped on a car and proceeded to the police station, where he gave himself up on the charge of interfering with an officer, and giving bond for himself and Padden, who is charged with disorderly conduct. Tebeau returned immediately to the ball park.

In the meantime the ball game had been resumed, and though Tebeau quietly took a seat with his lawyer, Tom Barker, in the eastern end of the stand, some spectators recognized him and arose and cheered. Instantly eight out of ten people in the grand stand and the entire bleacher section in right field arose and applauded Tebeau.

Kenna Gives His Side.

Ed Kenna was not arrested. He was told that he was under arrest and asked permission to go to the club house to change his clothes. When he returned to the stand he was told that his presence would not be needed at the police station, and he witnessed the remainder of the game from the stand. In speaking of his fight with Padden, he said:

"I did what any self-respecting man would do. I judged the play as I saw it, and Padden called me the worst name you could think of. I won't stand for what he called me from anybody, and I hit him and am glad of it. I only consented to umpire because Owens was injured.

"I want to say that Mr. Tebeau did not come out on the diamond to start trouble or to take my part. His language to Sergt. Doran was to the effect that the row would hurt his business and that he wanted to hush it up as quickly as possible. I was surprised when the attempt was made to arrest him."

Sergt. Doran was extremely sorry that the affair had happened. After he had cooled down he claimed that he only made a feint of drawing his gun for the effect it would have on the crowd of players. He said he was only bluffing and pointed out the fact that as soon as he went after his gun the quarreling ceased. He claimed Tebeau tried to interfere with his arrest of Kenna.

Owner Tebeau was naturally very angry at what had transpired and he minced no words regarding the treatment he had received at the hands of the police. He said:

"I have always extended the courtesy of the park to the Louisville police and about twenty-five a day have availed themselves of the opportunity. As far as I know they have never done me a particle of good. Sergt. Doran, I understand, claims that I was interfering with him to-day in the performance of his duty in arresting two men who were fighting. I attempted nothing of the sort. This is my ball park and this is my business and a good deal of my success or failure depends on the way affairs are conducted out here. These police to-day simply lost their heads, and when I attempted to remonstrate with Doran he cursed me in the vilest manner possible, and told me that I was under arrest. He was as white as a sheet and scared to death, and I believe that he would have shot me had he been able to get his pistol out of his pocket. I am compelled to go to Chicago to-night on important baseball business, but when I return I will try to employ private policemen to keep the peace at the park."

To Take Police Away.

Mayor Paul C. Barth and Messrs. Wakefield and Settle, of the Board of Public Safety, were interested spectators at the game and they, as well as a dozen councilmen and aldermen, saw all that took place. Last night a member of the Board of Public Safety said:

"You can say for me individually that I believe the board will not allow its police to go to Eclipse Park as peace officers any more. I have investigated this case and I believe that Sergt. Doran was only bluffing when he made an attempt to pull his gun. He told me that he thought this action would stop the disturbance and my observation was that the act certainly had this effect as there was no more trouble after Doran went back after his pistol. We have sent police to Eclipse Park as a matter of courtesy and to help keep the peace, but after this, if my wishes are adhered to, the police will stay on the outside of the park, and whenever there is a row or a fight those interested will have to call up Central Police Station and ask for the patrol wagon."

About the Game.

It was a pity that the big row happened in front of such a large gathering of women. It was the first ladies' day in a long time, and the grandstand was comfortably filled with the fair sex. As was natural they took sides with the Louisville players and most of them seemed not to mind the fight and arrests.

As far as the game was concerned it was a slugging match in which the Colonels scored an easy victory. In the second inning the visitors made three, on a single, a triple and a hit by pitcher and scored four more in the fourth on Slagle's base on balls, Drill's hit by pitcher, Frisk's single, and triples by Wheeler and Geier. This ended the visitor's run-getting. The locals made two every other inning until the eighth when they scored six tallies on singles by Kerwin, Stovall, Brashear, Sullivan, Woodruff and Stoner and Puttman's three-base hit. Then in the ninth Stovall and Sullivan each hit for a single and Woodruff brought both men across the plate ahead of him with a home run drive to left field. The score:

DECIDES QUESTION OF OFFICIAL BALL

Cincinnati, June 8.—The question of an official ball which has caused much feeling in the American Association for several months was the subject for a decision of the National Commission to-day. Quotations from the national agreement are given to show that only the Spalding and Reach balls are recognized, and that the clubs playing under the national agreement must abide by that rule. The commission expresses the belief that competition in the choice of balls would be good, but says that its finding must be according to the national agreement.

The matter came up on request of the Toledo, Columbus, Indianapolis and Minneapolis clubs for a ruling whether they must be bound by the contract entered into by the American Association directors for the Victor ball, to the exclusion of all others. The other clubs of the American Association answered the statement, of those named that the facts did not differ in essential points. The commission declares that the only question to be passed on is whether certain clubs be permitted to use a ball prescribed by the uniform rules, if they so desire, and it decides that the Toledo, Columbus, Indianapolis and Minneapolis clubs may do so. In announcing the decision the commission says:

"It was also evident from the arguments submitted in the case that certain leagues of the National Association were of the opinion that they had authority to use a ball of their choosing, regardless of the provisions of the uniform rules and in accordance therewith entered into legal contracts for furnishing balls other than those prescribed. In such cases we recommend that there shall be no interference by the commission until the expiration of such contracts."

Whether the American Association has entered into a legal contract for a certain ball is an "internal affair" on which the commission refuses to pass.

FORM PLAYERS HAVE BAD DAY

ALVISE A BAD FIRST CHOICE.

Latonia, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—For the third consecutive day the favorites failed to reward the talent, and, as a natural consequence, racing and everything connected with it left a dark brown taste in the mouths of the hardy regulars, which were augmented to-day by a few of the tenderer sex.

The card offered overnight had evidently been framed with the hope that a few of the better "nags" quartered at the track would be attracted to the barrier, but if there is anything except a very mediocre lot of platers stabled hereabouts the owners have failed to find suitable inducements, or, at all events, they have not been seen under colors during the past four days.

These regular "wash day" cards may also be the means of the ring setting up a wail that the business there is so light. At all events, if the standard of racing in the Bluegrass State is to be kept up, then a general improvement in both inducements and the class of horses to perform must be offered, and that in the immediate future.

Two reversals of form characterized the afternoon's sport. The first of these came with the running of the second race, in which seven very ordinary youngsters faced the starter, and of which Alvise was a legitimate even-money favorite. Just why the books took the liberty of laying 8 to 5 cannot be well understood.

Bestman, owned by Pat Kneablekamp, of Louisville, broke down while being worked this morning, and it is doubtful whether this clever obstacle performer will again be seen under colors.

In the day's opener W. Grater & Co.'s Jean Bereaud—Tringle colt was served up as a good thing, and so persistently was it plunged on that the opening odds of 6 to 1 were gradually forced down point by point until at postime the best price obtainable was 18 to 5. However, as is very often the case, the good things proved not quite good enough, and, although responding gamely to punishment all through the final quarter, was a length back of Minnehaha. When the start came Malleable, which had received considerable support at 6s, was first to show attended by the winner, which, although Boland on Mallable endeavored to make a runaway race of it, refused to be shaken off. Rounding the turn for home Austin outgeneraled Boland by skinning the rail where the latter went wide, and, saving a couple of lengths, raced his rival into submission. In the final furlong the good thing, Giraud, loomed up dangerously, but not quite good enough to beat the winner, and just did save the place from Ferroniere, which closed strong with a belated rattle.

The second which was at five furlongs for the youngsters, saw another upset, to which Jockey Obert in no mean way contributed. This jockey gave an exhibition on Alvise, which would merit his having his license revoked. On a heavily backed favorite and receiving an excellent break, he snatched Alvise up when the start came, yanking him back to last position, then when the Gerst gelding got his stride he took him the overland route for the entire trip. Even after all this, his mount finished a bang-up fourth, going away.

The winner turned up in a heavily backed second choice from the barn of Mark Doyle. The youngster displayed a keen turn of speed and making the most of a hustling ride, won, easing up by a length and a half from Billy Vertrees, which ran one of his good races, being always a contender. Fullman, which finished a tiring third, forced all the early pace and had no apparent excuses.

Form players received a severe jolt in the third, when Aubuchon, on Handy Bill, put it over Boland, who had the leg up on the favorite Sharp Boy, when it came to a drive. The way the race was run, Sharp Boy should have walked in, but through an overconfident ride and an attempt to draw the finish fine, a pinheaded jockey burnt up the public money. Off in front when the start came, Sharp Boy rolled along in the lead with Handy Bill at his withers, with Bell the Cat the nearest contender a couple of lengths back. In this order the race was run from flag fall to finish, with the winner getting the decision by a superior finish, by a whisker on the wire, while Sharp Boy was five lengths in front of Bell the Cat, with the balance of the field badly strung out.

Being nipped on the wire in the last race had its seeming effect on Boland in the fourth. He was alert at the post and getting his mount off well in motion immediately hustled his Otuwai into a commanding lead, which he increased with every stride, going down the back stretch and with the race well in hand, easily annexed the long end from Gilfain, which had the new apprentice rider Pottering in the pilot house. The latter rider seen for the first time on this mount gave a very impressive performance. Off second he nursed the old gelding along with the first division, and always within striking distance, then saving ground turning for home put up a reasonably strong finish. The things which the talent said about Louise McFarland's race would not look well in print. This one never displayed a lick of speed at any stage of the route, finishing a very bad fourth.

The most unwieldly field of the meeting faced the starter in the fifth, which was for the babies at four and one-half furlongs. Sixteen most unruly fillies lined up before Starter Holtman, who, after a few minutes' delay, got them off to a very excellent start, but in the rush for positions nearly half of the starters were knocked out of all contest, in which the favorite Caper, which had drawn the rail position fared the worst. Picked off his feet shortly after the start, he was jammed back and knocked to his knees and again rounding the far turn when he seemed full of run, he was sharply cut off and knocked out of all contention. Outside of the first four horses the form of the race was destroyed by the unwieldiness of the field, which were strung out all across the track, and many were pulling up all through the final furlong.

The sixth, and closing race, of the day saw the talent go down with a dull sickening thud, and incidentally the sixth first choice in the betting come to ignominious defeat. Golden Mineral, from the barn of Pat Dunne, on his last performance, looked to have the race at his mercy, and, always ruling favorite in both betting and public sentiment, was heavily supported as a means of recuperating the losses sustained through the failure of a single favorite to connect during the afternoon. The running found the winner without speed, and, trailing along in seventh position for the entire journey, finishing in that hole. Topsy Robinson went to the front when the barrier was released, and spreadeagled her field to the final sixteenth pole, where Tom Roberts collared and outgamed her in the final drive.

Presiding Judge Charles F. Price, Starter Jake Holtman, Secretary John B. Dillon, Racing Secretary and Handicapper Lyman H. Davis.

219—FIRST RACE—Six furlongs; purse $400; for three-year-olds; selling. Start fair. Won easily; place driving. Winner, W. H. Robinson's ch. f., 3, by Jack Point—Amyntas; trained by owner. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24, :48 3-5, 1:15 2-5.

The winner was best and best ridden; raced Malleable into submission the first half and had plenty in reserve when Pinaud made his challenge. The latter, off in a jam, was taken the overland route; tired badly just at the end. Ferroniere ran a good even race and closed strong, just failing to get up for the place. Malleable quit all over in the run home; was in tight quarters the final sixteenth. Interlight had no excuses. Alma Gardia received a very bad looking ride.

220—SECOND RACE—Five-eighths of a mile; purse $400; for two-year-old colts and geldings. Start good. Won easily; place same. Winner, M. Doyle's b. c., 2, by Orlando—Sister; trained by A. Baker. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24, :48 4-5, 1:02 1-5.

The winner, off well in motion and given a hustling ride, tiptoed his field the entire route. Billy Vertrees ran to his best form. Fullman tired right at the end from the effects of forcing the early pace. Alvise received a very slovenly ride and can do much better. Roger S. shows improvement; will do in this company soon. Bottles acted greenly.

221—THIRD RACE—One mile; purse $400; for four-year-olds and upward; selling. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Winner, J. R. Taylor's ch. c., 4, by Handspring—Billetta; trained by owner. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24 3-5, :49, 1:14 4-5, 1:42.

......	Maraschino	116	1	9	9	9	9	9	Morrison	20-1	40-1	15-1

The winner won through the superior finish of Aubuchon, who put it over Boland when forced to a drive. Sharp Boy, much the best, lost the race through an overconfident ride. Bell the Cat ran to his best form and had no apparent excuses. Harpoon was under punishment all last quarter. Gambler, heavily supported, ran his race at the post. Maraschino is not ready.

222—FOURTH RACE—One mile; purse $400; for four-year-olds and upward; selling. Start good. Won easily; place same. Winner, J. C. Ferris, Jr.'s b. m., 5, by Ornus—Leonell; trained by R. Cassady. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24 3-5, :49, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 2-5.

148	Eclectic	113	5	6...h	6...h	7	7	7	Aubuchon	15-1	20-1	7-1

Outwal broke flying and Boland made every post a winning one; had something in reserve at the finish. Gilfain, outrun in the early stages, closed strong under a rattling good finish. Erla Lee forced the early pace, but tired in the run home. The race of Louise McFarland is too bad to be true. Happy Jack was a contender for a half.

223—FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs; purse $400; for two-year-old fillies; selling. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Winner, W. Gerst's br. f., 2, Sempronius—Lorelei. Trained by W. McDaniels. Time, :23 2-5, :49, :55 3-5.

Poster Girl broke well in motion and, avoiding the jam which occurred shortly after the start, raced Miss Bertha and Edith M. into submission, winning all out. Miss Bertha off flying, had clear sailing, and no excuses. Edith M. forced all the early pace, and only tired in the last seventy yards. Caper, much the best the way the race was run, was knocked to his knees shortly after the start, and again at three-eighths pole, would surely have won with clear sailing.

224—SIXTH RACE—One mile; purse $400; for three-year-olds and up; selling. Start fair. Won easily; place same. Winner, Applegate & Cotton's ch. c., 3, St. Florian—Orinda. Trained by C. L. Snyder. Value to winner $300. Time, :25, :49 4-5, 1:15 4-5, 1:42.

158	Longbright	92	10	10	10	10	10	10	Oregar	60-1	100-1	40-1

The winner, cleverly handled, laid away from the early pace, closed stoutly rounding the far turn, and saving ground entering the stretch, closed strong, outgaming Topsy Robinson in the final drive. The latter had burning early speed, was taken wide entering the stretch, hung when the pinch came. Josie's Jewel had no apparent excuses. Cygnet showed improvement, Florizel was messed about. Golden Mineral's race won't do. Matabon was caught in a jam rounding the first turn.

DE RESZKE'S RECORD GOOD.

Only a Plater, But Won Over $50,000 In Six Years.

The record of De Reszke, who is going into one of the breeding establishments up-State, shows the high class of stallion the Jockey Club is selecting, says the New York Telegraph.

Notwithstanding De Reszke is only a selling plater, in the six years he has been racing he has won $50,535. He was never entered in a race the value of which was over $3,000, and the majority of his starts were in races not worth over $400 or $500.

De Reszke was bred by Col. Milton Young near Lexington, and was bought by Julius Fleischmann, of Cincinnati as a yearling. As a two-year-old he was broken and trained by Thomas Welsh, and in 1905 Dick Watkins got him. He was nearly broken down then, but under Watkins' treatment he won $30,000 that year.

De Reszke won twice in New Orleans last winter, but Watkins refused to train him this winter and spring, as he believed it would break the horse down.

KEELER TALKS OF FIRST APPEARANCE

Laughter and Jeers Greet First Trial of One of Best Stars.

One of the greatest baseball players in the business to-day is "Billy" Keeler, of the New York Americans. Also he is one of the smallest men on the diamond. Miller Huggins, of Cincinnati, and "Nig" Perrine, briefly of St. Louis, now of Kansas City, being almost as small. Keeler's size was a great handicap when he began his professional career, because the fans did not believe that such a diminutive individual could become a successful ball player.

"I made my appearance in fast company in New York," said Keeler. "My initial appearance on the Polo grounds was the occasion of much laughter and jeers from the fans. My size struck the fans as most comical, and the remarks the hurled at me were far from pleasant or encouraging to hear. I played in several games and did good work, but the crowd didn't awaken to the fact. Some of the newspapers also had fun at my expense. Buck Ewing was the manager and he told me to pay no attention to the criticisms; that I was making good all right. But the longer and better I played the worse became the abuse. Ewing was called a cradle robber, a bandit of the nursery because he kept me on the team.

"One day I broke my ankle, and then the knockers got in their work. I was traded to Brooklyn, but the trolley town fans did not take kindly to me, simply because I had been turned down by New York. I finally landed in Baltimore, where, under Hanlon, I found an entirely different atmosphere. The people of Baltimore, instead of discouraging me, encouraged me, and I soon began to play ball that made my friends rejoice and my enemies weep.

"A small-sized player, especially a beginner, has a hard row to hoe. The fans cannot recognize the fact that small men can play as good ball as large men. They think a big man can hit a ball harder or better than a small man. As a matter of fact, the small, or medium-sized players, are among the leading players in the country to-day. But size has nothing to do with a ball player's ability any more than it has with any other profession. The only difference is that a large man will be given a chance by the fans, and quicker gains their confidence than a small man."

OPEN SATURDAYS UNTIL 10 O'CLOCK.

$5 Trousers or Smart Fancy Vest Free!

We begin this morning the semi-annual before-inventory clearing-up of novelty suitings, offering an extra pair of trousers, regular $4 and $5 values, absolutely free with every order for suit or overcoat.

No goods are withdrawn from sale or advanced in price; same fine fashionable fabrics and same low prices that have made this the most popular tailoring establishment in Louisville.

You get the extra trousers (or a fancy vest if you prefer) absolutely free, except in the case of staple black and blue goods, which are not included. There are, however, several lines of black and blue goods, that we do not intend ordering after this season, with which the extra gratis garments may be had. Some of the novelty lengths will permit of an extra pair of trousers like the suit.

Every garment made to order—made to fit—made to satisfy—and made quickly. Compare our prices with readymade—but our work with other good tailors.

There is but this restriction: We cannot afford to give the gratis garments with orders given prior to the first day of the sale (Saturday, June 9), whether in process of manufacture or ready for delivery—please do not ask it.

Get your order in without delay—the offer may not continue as long as usual this season.

Business Suits to Order......$15, $17.50, $20, $22.50
Frock Suits to order.......$17.50, $20, $22.50, $25, $30
Evening Dress Suits to order $25, $30, $35
Top-coats to order $15, $17.50, $20, $22.50, $25
Raincoats to order.........$15, $17.50, $20, $22.50, $25
Livery Suits to order $17.50, $20, $22.50

All garments made by us will be pressed and kept in repair free of charge for one year.

PITCHER JACK HICKEY DISSATISFIED.

Pitcher Jack Hickey, the lonely southpaw of the Milwaukee team, who refused to go East with the Brewers yesterday, may figure in a trade or sale, says the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin. Owner Havenor of the Brewers says that he cannot understand why Hickey should want to leave, as he thought he had been well treated, and furthermore he knew of no trouble between the player and Manager Joe Cantillon, as claimed. However, Owner Havenor said Manager Cantillon was at liberty to trade or sell Hickey to any club in the association, or other league, as he saw fit.

Pitcher Hickey is reported to be dissatisfied about something and threatened to return to his home in Seattle, Wash., where he can play independent ball with numerous clubs thereabouts. He also received an offer from one of the clubs in the Tri-State league, but as yet has not accepted it. The chances are that when Jack thinks the matter over he will decide to remain with the Brewers or agree to a trade with some other club.

Sysonby's Grandsire a $100 Horse.

"Talking about Sysonby," said an old horseman the other day, "It it interesting to remember that his great-grandsire, Lord Ronald, lost a race in which he was entered to be sold for $100. Lord Ronald won his first two-year-old race, the Salisbury City Bowl of $125, by a neck, entered to be sold for $500. He was then owned by John Day, and was then bought in for Lord Westmoreland. A few weeks later he was in a selling race at $150 at Stockbridge, but bolted. He lost a selling stake at Newmarket, entered at $300; lost the Attingham at Shrewsbury, entered at $150, and a day or two later was entered at $100, was beaten and unclaimed. He started twice as a three-year-old, in two selling races, and won both. The Duke of Beaufort claimed him from the latter at $200, and the following year risked him, entered for $150 in a race, which he won, at Northampton, the Pytchley Stakes. Soapstone, second, was entered at $300, and Volunteer, third, at $150.

"These three horses afterward accounted for forty-six winning races, and were among the best of their time. Lord Ronald was by Stockwell, and sired Master Kildare, who is the sire of Melton. Lord Ronald was a very handsome horse, and a flood of turf dreams is evolved by the thought of the great change it would have made in the English turf records if Mons. Fridolin, who once owned Lord Ronald, had retained possession of the horse.

"It is one of those strange romances of the turf, like that of Vedette, disposed of for $80, whose union with Flying Duchess, entered to be sold for a bagatelle, gave the English turf (and us) Galopin, and through him St. Simon, Donovan, Persimmon, Florizel II., Diamond Jubilee, William the Third, St. Frusquin, St. Amant, St. Serf, etc. Whitelock, the great ancestress of the Voltigeur line, was bought for $15; Thormanby was very nearly 'added to the list' and made a hunter, and Cosmopolite, who won a four-mile steeplechase one day and the next won from a cracking big field in a T. Y. O. Handicap with 140 pounds up, was dragging a cab in Paris before it was discovered what a wonder he was. What a world it is, equine or human?"

EX-PATROLMAN ARRESTED BY DEPUTY SHERIFF.

Nonie Malcolm, an ex-patrolman, was arrested in the Courthouse yard yesterday afternoon by Frank Carroll, Deputy Sheriff, on a charge of disorderly conduct. Malcolm had some trouble with H. Zimmerman, a county patrolman, and it is alleged that Malcolm tried to assault Zimmerman, but that he was prevented from doing Zimmerman any considerable injury by the interference of J. T. O'Neal, who separated the combatants.

The Colonels seem to have developed a habit recently of every man taking his turn at bat in one inning, which happened again in the eighth inning yesterday.

CHAT OF THE GAME.

EXCITING.
FOUR straight.
MINNEAPOLIS to-day.
AND the women saw it all.
LOUISVILLE is now in fifth place.
ECLIPSE PARK will soon become famous.
EVERYBODY got a good run for their money.
THE present series with the Millers will be for blood.
MAYOR BARTH was an interested spectator at Eclipse Park yesterday.
THE Louisville players did not seem to mind the excitement, winning out in the last few innings.
DON'T overlook the fact that the Colonels are leading the league in batting at present and are out to do so for the season.
YESTERDAY was Ladies' Day at Eclipse Park, and the fair sex will have lots to talk about for a long while.
BILLY HALLMAN, who hurt his side in trying to make a difficult catch in Thursday's game, will be back in left field to-day. That's good news.
WOLFE, the star pitcher purchased by Owner Tebeau from the Washington American League Club, arrived yesterday shortly before the game. He seems to be in good condition. He signed a contract yesterday afternoon.
MANAGER PADDEN, of the St. Paul team, has the distinction of being put out of the game more than any other player in the league this season.
PITCHER KENNA showed yesterday that he is somewhat of an all-around athlete. At least it appeared that way to Dick Padden.
BASEBALL fans who enjoy a slugging match should have witnessed yesterday's game at Eclipse Park. Twenty-four runs were made out of thirty-one hits and ten free passes.
MIKE KELLEY, who piloted the St. Paul team when the Saints won the pennant twice, is getting good results out of the Minneapolis players this season.
EVERY one of the Colonels who took part in yesterday's game got at least one hit. Woodruff made four bingles, while Sullivan and Stovall each drew a trio of safe drives.
THE Colonels have now won eight out of ten of the last games played. Most of the games have been won on account of the local team using good judgment on the bases and bunching their hits. Capt. Sullivan has got the men playing real baseball.
ROY BRASHEAR received an order for a load of coal yesterday from the Jellico-Laurel Coal Company for hitting the sign of that firm in Wednesday's game.
"LEFTY" DAVIS, who played such grand ball for Columbus last season and was traded to Minneapolis for Coulter, is putting up a grand game for the Millers.
UMPIRE OWENS was called upon to rule upon the same play as Kenna did which caused all the trouble, and he made the same decision as the poet-pitcher-umpire.
WOODRUFF carried off the batting honors yesterday with a home run and three other hits to his credit. Sullivan also continued his good stick work, getting three hits and working the St. Paul pitcher for free transportation twice.
PUTTMAN had two bad innings yesterday, and with the exception of that pitched nice ball. He also took part in the swatfest, getting a triple and a single.

Miss Sutton's Walkover.

Liverpool, June 8.—The fact that Miss May Sutton, of Pasadena, Cal., was given a walkover in her tie for the semi-final round of the woman's singles championship of the North Counties robbed the proceedings to-day of much of their interest. The American was to oppose Miss V. Pinckney, of Salisbury, but the latter was unable to appear. Later Miss Sutton appeared with Mrs. Hillyard in the semifinal round of the ladies' doubles against Misses Douglass and Thomson. The result was that Misses Douglass and Thomson qualified for the final, two sets to lose.

D. R. Rhodes, of Boston, won his match against Sampson in the second round of the handicap tournament for the Liverpool cup, 6-2, 6-1, when Mr. Sampson retired. Scores:

Mixed doubles, handicap—Miss Sutton and Mr. Charlton, 15, deefated J. Findlay and Miss Findlay 6-2, 6-1.

Beat Bowling Green Team.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 8—[Special]—The Bourne & Bond ball team of Louisville, in a splendidly played game this afternoon, defeated the Bowling Green team. The score was 2 to 1. This is the second time the locals have been defeated this year. Yesterday Bowling Green defeated the visitors. They play again to-morrow.

BARNEY OLDFIELD TO GO AGAINST HIS RECORD.

All Events For the Auto Races At Douglas Park To-day.

JERRY ELLIS AND BARNEY OLDFIELD.

This will be a gala day for the automobilists, for the local enthusiasts will hold their first big meet at the Douglas Park track this afternoon.

The races have filled well, and four of the world's greatest drivers are to battle for $1,000 in gold offered by Garnett S. Zorn, of this city. Barney Oldfield, famed for his daring at the steering wheel of the modern Juggernauts, will, of course, be the bright star of the programme, but in Jerry Ellis, the amateur champion of the country; Paul Kaiser, the German champion, and Will Muir, the Lexington boy, Oldfield will have foemen worthy of his steel, or, rather, his gasoline.

The first event on the card will be the fifty-mile endurance race, which starts at 2:30 o'clock. To steer a giant car around the turns of a circular horse track at full speed for fifty miles requires a vast amount of nerve and daring, in addition to the requisite staying qualities. In the long-distance event there are six entries, with Jerry Ellis, of Chicago, as the favorite, only a shade ahead of young Charlie Wooldridge, of Louisville.

The big race between the professionals is scheduled to take place about 4 o'clock, and Oldfield's race against the record will follow the main event.

The track is in good condition, and a force spent the entire night sprinkling the course to lay the dust. It has been the dust that has caused the majority of fatal accidents during automobile races in the past.

Keenes Will Destroy Great Horse Sysonby.

NEW YORK, June 8.—[Special.]—Sysonby, the greatest race horse of the present decade, is going to be destroyed. Within a day or two a bullet will put an end to the existence of the best horse ever owned by James R. Keene, not excepting the peerless Commando.

At the beginning of the season, Sysonby looked as though he was going to live up to the promise he held out as a three-year-old. Then suddenly, just as he was about to be sent to the post, he developed a skin disease that was so serious that he was declared out of all his early engagements.

"If he can't race he will be sent to the stud," said Mr. Keene recently. But lately it has developed that the disease is one that he is sure to hand to his progeny, and for that reason, to save the thoroughbreds of America, he is going to be destroyed.

RESIGNS PRESIDENCY.

DR. J. M. RAMSEY TO LEAVE SAYRE INSTITUTE.

Precipitates Fight Between Presbyterian Churches Over His Successor.

Lexington, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Dr. J. M. Ramsey, who for the past two years has been president and manager of Sayre Institute, the Presbyterian college of the Bluegrass devoted to the education of girls, has presented his resignation to the Board of Trustees, and this action has precipitated some feeling between the Northern and Southern Presbyterian churches.

Miss Ella Williams, a member of the Northern Presbyterian church, who has one of the most prosperous and fashionable schools of the city, has made a strong financial proposition to the trustees to let her take charge of the college, but as she is an adherent of the Northern branch of the church, warm opposition has been aroused. The champions of the Southern branch of the church, under whose control the college has always been, are urging that the school should be given to the Misses McClelland, daughters of the late Maj. H. B. McClelland, who was on the staff of Stonewall Jackson and was thirty years president of the board and manager of the college. Only two of ten trustees are members of the Northern church. They are Wm. Curran and W. E. Bush.

It is hoped that Dr. Ramsey will retain his position, in which he has given eminent satisfaction. His only complaint is lack of financial support. The Board of Trustees will meet in the course of the month and take the matter under consideration.

The college was established about fifty years ago by David Sayre, a prominent banker, and has always been controlled by the Southern branch of Presbyterians, to which Mr. Sayre belonged. The Misses McClelland have been for years teachers in college.

DENIES STORIES OF PREVIOUS WITNESSES

PENNSYLVANIA DIDN'T ENCOURAGE BUYING OF COAL STOCKS.

INTERSTATE COMMISSION TO REST UNTIL TUESDAY.

CLERK AIKENS LOSES OUT.

Philadelphia, June 8.—At the conclusion of the day's session, as the Interstate Commerce Commission suspended its inquiry into the relations of railroads with coal and oil interests until next Tuesday, when the investigation will be resumed in this city.

Probably the most important feature of to-day's session was the voluntary testimony of J. McClellan, of Blairsville, Pa., contradicting the testimony of previous witnesses who told the commission that it had been the policy of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to encourage its employes to become interested in coal companies on the lines of the road. Mr. McClellan said the impression had gone out that the practice was sanctioned by Frank Thomson, a former president of the company, now dead, and he desired to place on record Mr. Thomson's policy. While he was in the employ of the railroad company, Mr. McClellan said, he was offered stock by Capt. Alfred Hicks. He consulted President Thomson as to the propriety of accepting it, and Mr. Thomson advised him to refuse the stock, telling him his honor and character were worth more than stock secured in that manner. Mr. McClellan also presented in evidence a letter from President Thomson advising him not to accept the stock.

Charles McFadden related the story of his troubles while he was a mine operator in the soft coal field. He had two mines in operation, and his car supply became so meager that he was compelled to rent cars from the Commerical Coal Company, in which General Superintendent Creighton, of the Pennsylvania railroad, is interested. When he applied for private cars he was told the company was discouraging their use, and he was finally compelled to make an arrangement by which the Commercial Coal Company operates his mines for one-third of the profits.

Additional information concerning the Berwind-White Company's pier at Harsimus was secured through Max Riebenack, Controller of the Pennsylvania railroad. He said the pier had been improved by the railroad company in 1889 at a cost of $46,000, but that the payment was not made by the coal company until May of the present year, after the present investigation had been authorized. In the meantime the Berwind-White Company paid no interest on the money.

R. K. Cassatt, son of President Cassatt, denied the statement made yesterday by S. F. Potter, president of the Donohoe Coal and Coke Company, that the Keystone Coke Company had been favored in the distribution of cars. He also stated that the Keystone Company was not a "Cassatt concern," as has been repeatedly stated.

W. G. Spangler, local agent for the Pennsylvania railroad at Milton, testified that he also acted as a sales agent for the Keystone Coal and Coke Company, receiving a commission of two and a half cents a ton.

REBATE CASES ARGUED.

Kansas City, June 8.—A. S. Van Valkenburgh, District Attorney for the Western district of Missouri, in the Federal Court here to-day, presented the Government's side of the cases of Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Cudahy & Co. and the Nelson-Morris Packing Company, on trial on a charge of accepting rebates from the Burlington railway on export shipments. Mr. Van Valkenburgh declared that the packing companies' acceptance of a rate of 23 cents a hundred pounds, when the tariff was 35 cents, was a plain violation of the Interstate Commerce act.

Aikens Goes Out, Too.

Philadelphia, June 8.—Joseph K. Aiken, chief clerk to the superintendent of the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad was dismissed to-day by direction of President Cassatt. In his testimony yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission, Aikens said that while his salary had averaged between $30 and $126 per month, he owned nearly $75,000 worth of coal stock.

He admitted having received checks from coal companies and also gifts from company stores.

JUVENILE COURT

Lexington, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—The Fiscal Court of Fayette county today adopted a resolution establishing a Juvenile Court, and appropriated $1,500 to defray its expenses. The court will become operative under the recent act of the Legislature, on June 13. County Judge Bullock said: "It is my idea to have some man, who is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the Juvenile Court in other cities to come here and start us off right. This probation officer will have charge of the youthful offenders in the jurisdiction of the court. As to establishing a house of detention, some arrangements will probably be made for the present with some of the city's charitable institutions to take care of the youthful offenders brought before the court."

Prosecution Finishes Evidence.

The testimony of the prosecution was finished to-day in the case of John Taylor, colored, charged with the murder of William Moore, about a year ago, and the defendant was placed on the stand. He denied all of the statements of the prosecution. The arguments will begin to-morrow.

Jump In Bank Stock.

A flurry was caused in financial circles to-day by a sudden jump of Phoenix National Bank stock from $170 to $190, on a rumor, it was said, of consolidation with another bank. The Phoenix Bank officials denied any prospective consolidation, but attributed the jump to a probable semi-annual dividend of 5 per cent., which it is reported will soon be issued.

Death Rope Ordered.

Sheriff John McElroy has ordered the rope with which James Pearsall is to be hanged. The rope was ordered from a Cincinnati firm and is to be of a similar texture and fabric to those used in previous executions here.

The scaffold, which is to be put up by the county, will be constructed by Ed Faught, and the same instrument that has been in use before will be used again. It is the same upon which J. W. Bess, Earl Whitney and Claude O'Brien were executed.

Killed By Live Wire.

John D. Feeny, a policeman of this city, received a telegram to-day telling of the sudden death of his son, Thomas R. Feeny, at Salt Lake City, from contact with a live wire while attending to his duties as a telephone lineman.

Thomas Feeny was twenty-four years old and had been at work as a telephone lineman in Salt Lake City for three months. He began work as a telephone lineman in Richmond, Ky.

Letcher Lusby Dead.

Letcher Lusby, aged sixty-two, died at his home on West Fourth street today after an illness of six days of pneumonia. Mr. Lusby was twice married, his first wife dying several years ago. Mrs. Sallie Lykins Lusby, his second wife, survives him, with Letcher Lusby, Jr., his son by his first wife. Mr. Lusby had been in the revenue service for about ten years as United States gauger at the Tarr distillery, where he was taken ill last Sunday. Twenty years ago he was Chief of Police of Lexington for about six years. The funeral services will be at his late home to-morrow afternoon and burial at Lexington cemetery. The pallbearers will be E. F. Darnaby, James Shannon, W. G. Dunlap, J. W. Lancaster, Theo. Crawford and A. M. Harrison.

WANDERING YOUTH SLEEPS IN JAIL.

Henry Bruner, Hailing From California, Asks For Lodging At Police Station.

After two years of almost continuous travel, during which time he has had experiences enough to fill the life of an ordinary man, Henry Bruner, fifteen years old, wandered into the Sixth district police station at 10 o'clock last night and announced that he wanted some place to sleep.

The youth was so sleepy he could hardly hold his head up. He was dressed in a badly frayed suit of corduroy clothes and according to his story he has not had the best of luck in his trip, which has extended many hundreds of miles. He said that he left Vallejo, Cal., in 1904, having been driven from home by a cruel stepmother.

At first, he said last night, he had no particular destination in view, but kept drifting until he decided to try to get to Philadelphia, where he says his mother, from whom his father was divorced several years ago, now lives. Since then he has traveled to many different cities, generally riding the "head end," and he said he arrived here last night from St. Louis.

The boy said he was taken to Vallejo ten years ago by his father and that he has had nothing but brutal treatment since that time. He was taken to jail to spend the night and it is likely that efforts will be made to send him on eastward.

Wed In Jeffersonville.

William J. McFarland and Miss Ella Joyce, who were born and reared in Louisville, were married in Jeffersonville yesterday by Magistrate B. J. Ferguson. The groom is a bartender, his home being given as 624 Fulton street. He is a son of A. J. McFarland, a saloonkeeper.

NOT EVEN FOR ONE MINUTE

Twelve years ago he had incidentally visited the stock yards in Chicago and had also visited the stock yards in Berlin. In the latter place he said the work was done under city regulations. He was impressed by the absence of wood and the constant cleaning going on. They were even cleaning the cars which brought in the stock. There was no canning going on. He said he had received no notice of the first hearing and had not heard Mr. Wilson's statement. As to Mr. Neill's testimony, there is nothing in it he wished to modify. In particular, he wished to substantiate Mr. Neill regarding the shoveling of pieces of meat from the floor of the Nelson Morris company. He saw the operation. At this point, Chairman Wadsworth made a somewhat heated statement setting forth his reasons for questioning Mr. Neill yesterday, and he said he should feel free to question the present witness.

At this point Representative Lamb, of Virginia, wanted to know if the chairman was summing up the testimony.

Mr. Neill here asked to make a statement in view of the fact that his testimony of yesterday had been called in question by the chairman.

"It is not fair," he concluded, "to take a statement I made yesterday as my belief and try to add it to the report and say we are giving a matter of belief for a matter of fact."

"I will refer the gentleman to his own statement," commented Mr. Wadsworth. "And I am perfectly willing to stand on it," retorted Mr. Neill.

Mr. Haskins here poured oil on the waters by saying he heard no questions yesterday that were improper.

The criticisms, he said, had reference in particular to the process of preserving and canning meat. He saw men whom he believed had tuberculosis. He saw them spit on the floor. He saw meat on the floor.

Switched again to the dressed meats, Mr. Reynolds stated that, generally speaking, fresh meats left Chicago in a good condition. They were well washed and cleanly.

Mr. Wharton's Blast.

Representative Wharton, who represents the "packing town" district in Chicago, was given an opportunity to be heard and declared he wanted to resent as a slander the statement by Mr. Neill yesterday regarding the moral condition of the employes, the statement in the report being that these conditions "tended to produce moral degradation."

Representative Adams (Wis.) called attention to the words "tended to produce," and said they did not see these employes were actually immoral.

Mr. Wharton declared that the conditions set forth in the report were only isolated cases, and did not prevail generally. He said he had lived adjacent to the Chicago Stock Yards since he was three years old; had worked in the yards, and was familiar with all their operations.

Representative Crumpacker, of Indiana, discussed the constitutional questions involved in the bill, and asserted that the Beveridge measure unquestionably is invalid, and already had been declared so by decisions of the courts.

At the afternoon hearing Mr. Crumpacker over a barricade of law books discussed the legal questions in all their phases. His deductions, after reading numerous opinions, were that the Federal Government can have nothing to do with the manufacture of a commodity, "as Congress is limited to Congress and commerce succeeds manufacture."

The committee authorized the chairman to telegraph to Upton Sinclair that the committee found it was unnecessary to give him a hearing. The committee also adopted a resolution not to go to Chicago.

MORE INVESTIGATION.

But Agent Neill Is Keeping Absolute Secrecy.

Washington, June 8.—Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill, who assisted in making the investigation of the Western packing houses for the President, was one of the first callers at the White House to-day. After a brief conference with the President, he declined to talk for publication about the beef inspection question. He would not say whether an additional report would be made to Congress.

It is well understood that an inquiry into packing house conditions is being continued at the instance of the President. This report has not been made to the President yet, but probably will be in a few days. Whether it will be used in a public way remains yet to be determined.

Spokane, Wash., June 8, 1906.—To the President, Washington, D. C.: The Washington State Grange in eighteenth annual session, repudiate the reported attempt of the attorney for certain corporate interests to speak for the farmers of this country in opposition to your efforts to remedy condition of meat packers or meat packing.

SCHOOL PICNIC

DESPITE INTENSE HEAT OUTING WAS GREAT SUCCESS.

PUPILS FEAST, PLAY AND HAVE GOOD TIME.

NO ACCIDENTS REPORTED.

The burning heat of a June sun, with the mercury playing pranks around the 94 mark, apparently had little ill effect upon the joy of 10,000 Louisville school children who went to Jacob Park yesterday and held their annual outdoor festival. While the sun's unrelenting rays beat down on the avenues and cleared spots of the park, the youngsters seemed to have the time of their lives as they raced about in every direction beneath the leafy shade of the woodlands on the sloping hills. They grew warm and crowded around the big barrels of ice water, where they drank to their heart's content. Refreshed and rested in a minute or two, they soon were off, giving place to others in turn.

Supt. E. H. Mark, of the Louisville public schools, who was the first on the grounds and among the last to return, was pleased with the success of the outing. Edward W. Wolff, chairman of the Building Committee, which had charge of the picnic, and Marion W. Ripy, Dr. Bruce Lentz and Dr. C. T. Pope were on the grounds most all day. During the day all the trustees visited the park to see the youngsters enjoying themselves. All of the trustees were greatly pleased at the manner in which the picnic was managed. Not an accident of any consequence happened.

How Hospital Was Patronized.

Every preparation possible was made in advance for any accidents that might happen to any of the children. Early in the morning Dr. Clarence T. Pope, assisted by Julius Bierach, Grover Brzozowski and Henry J. Hartman, with a tent and commissary of medicines used in emergency cases, arrived at the park. In the midst of where the park grounds had been laid off for the children of the different schools, Dr. Pope pitched his tent and was prepared for any emergency before the first carload of children reached the park. Fortunately there was but little for the physicians to do, because nothing of a serious nature happened to any child.

It was amusing to watch the youngsters take their comrades to the tent for treatment. They seemed to think that the hospital tent was of no use unless those in charge had something to do. Whenever a child would stumble and fall, or "stump" his toe, his comrades immediately would take him or her to the hospital tent. A few drops of liniment on the bruised spot generally sent the patient off in excellent shape. No doubt in cases of this kind, it was remarked by one of the attendants, Christian Science would be of great value. The hospital tent had the desired effect of impressing on the children the fact that there was no ill at a picnic that could not be speedily remedied.

Start For the Park.

About fifty cars were placed in commission at the various starting places yesterday morning. The start was made about 8:45 o'clock. The young boys and girls made themselves known as they passed through the city on their way to the park. Many parents with their children went from their homes, and the cars carried passengers to the picnic until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The street-car inspectors estimated that they carried over 10,000 persons during the day.

The first cars arrived at the park about 9:30 o'clock. Big sign boards around the outskirts of the park and on the hillside showed the pupils of each school where they were supposed to make their headquarters. Capt. Jacobs, with a force of fourteen policemen, was on the grounds early. The children wandered around as they pleased at the various stands of refreshments, and often gathered around the band stand to hear popular music.

At the luncheon hour the children gathered on their respective reservations and spread their lunches out on benches, boxes or on the ground. Plenty of water was near at hand, and they feasted with the joy that comes with youth and picnic food. The teachers and parents of the children superintended the spreading of the lunches and waiting on the youngsters. Many of the children were supplied with pin money and patronized the lemonade and refreshment stands extensively.

It was when the sun began to hide itself behind the hills that the children enjoyed themselves most. Then it was that the breezes began to cool the atmosphere. When the time came to start homeward the little fellows showed signs of weariness. The cars were loaded without accident or incident by the teachers and trustees and the start was made with cheers and shouting.

* * *

"Just Had To Go."

A. H. Brachey, former president of the School Board, attended the picnic wearing a badge of the Duncan-street School. Mr. Brachey said that he had attended so many picnics while he was a member of the board he felt like he could not afford to miss this one. He said he liked to see the children have a good time. Many patrons of the schools were on hand to assist the teachers and the Trustees. The teachers were stationed at various places in order that the children could not get out of their sight and could at all times receive their attention.

Marion W. Ripy, who had charge of the ice water, did his part well. As fast as the many barrels were emptied they were refilled and abundance of ice was always found in the barrels. Several extra loads had to be taken to the park during the day.

Colored Picnic To-day.

The colored school children of the city will have their annual picnic at Jacob Park to-day. The same arrangements as were made for the white children have been made for the colored children. They will go to the park this morning in cars with their lunches. A band also has been provided for their amusement.

TEA WILL BE GRADED BY CHICAGO BOARD.

The first cargo of tea imported through the local customs office reached Louisville yesterday, consigned to a local dealer. The cargo consisted of twenty-five cases and came from London. It is Ceylon tea. No duty is paid on tea, but it has to be appraised and found by the Government to be in good order. Samples of the tea were forwarded to the Appraising Board of Chicago yesterday, who will pass on the tea and grade it.

CANNOT RECOVER

LOUISVILLE LOSES CASE IN COURT OF APPEALS.

OHIO VALLEY TELEPHONE COMMANY SUSTAINED.

DEATH PENALTY AFFIRMED.

Frankfort, Ky., June 8.—[Special.]—Judge Barker delivered an opinion of the Court of Appeals to-day reversing judgment of the Jefferson Chancery Court, First Division, in a case of the Ohio Valley Telephone Company against the City of Louisville, and remanding it to the court below under instructions which decide the case for the appellant company. In reversing the lower court judgment, the court here holds that the franchise tax act of November, 1892, requiring payment of an annual franchise tax to the State, and a local tax to cities and counties, was not intended to be retrospective, but prospective only in its operation, and that the city of Louisville cannot recover sums aggregating $2,500 from the telephone company for the year 1892, on an assessment made in June, 1898. In reversing the lower court the Court here says, in part:

Law Not Retroactive.

"This action was instituted by the city of Louisville in August, 1898, for the purpose of recovering judgment on a tax bill for $2,477.06, being a franchise tax assessed against appellant for the fiscal year commencing on first day of September, 1892, and ending on the thirty-first day of August, 1893. It is contended by the city, that on the first day of September, 1892, at which time the assessment of property for municipal purposes is constructively made, there was any law in existence for the assessment of a franchase tax; but on the eleventh day of November, 1892, the General Assembly of the Commonwealth enacted a statute for the assessment of franchises, which is now section 4077 of the statutes, and which provides that every telephone company shall, in addition to other taxes imposed, annually pay a tax on its franchise to the State, and a local tax to the county, incorporated city, town and taxing district. After the enactment of this statute, the franchise of the appellant was assessed by the proper board and certified to the Clerk of Jefferson county. Under an ordinance, enacted by the city of Louisville, the Assessor issued a tax bill in June, 1898. The question is one of power only. The question before us is, did the statute authorize a retrospective assessment of appellant's franchise? There is nothing in the act of the Legislature approved November, 1892, which indicated that it was intended as retrospective. On the contrary, its phraseology shows beyond question that it was intended to be prospective in its operation. For the reasons indicated, the judgment is reversed for proceedings consistent with this opinion."

Negro Must Die For Murder.

In another opinion by Judge Barker the court affirmed the death penalty imposed by the Fayette Circuit Court on Thomas Stout, Jr., colored, of Lexington, convicted of murder. The date fixed by the lower court for the execution will have passed by the time the mandate of the court here issues, and Gov. Beckham will have to fix a day for the hanging. Judges O'Rear and Nunn dissented from the opinion, affirming the lower court judgment.

The crime for which Stout is to pay the penalty of his life was committed in the spring of 1905, when he shot and killed one Sim Lee, also colored. The negroes were partners in raising a crop of tobacco, and had a difficulty in settling the products of their labor. According to the proof, Stout met Lee on the public road and shot him with a shotgun, from which wound he died instantly. Stout claimed self-defense. The Court here says the case was properly submitted to the jury, and the instructions given were without error.

REAL ESTATE SALES.

MORAN COMPANY BUYS ITS PROPERTY.

Thomas W. Moran yesterday purchased the business property at 149 Third avenue, which is now occupied by the Moran Flexible Joint Company. The property was purchased from the estate of Henry Frankel. The consideration was reported to be about $4,100. The lot is 23x77 feet, and is improved by a two-story brick storehouse. The Moran Company has occupied the building for several years, and will continue to use it for manufacturing purposes. The sale was made by J. Lithgow Smith, manager of the real estate department of the Columbia Finance and Trust Company.

The Columbia Finance and Trust Company also sold property belonging to the Buchanan estate at 1021-1023 East Washington street, to A. M. Emler. The consideration was $2,500. The improvements consist of a double two-story brick residence. The lot is 50x98 feet. The property was bought as an investment.

Proceeds For Free Hospital.

The deed will be put on record today in the property purchased from the estate of the late Dr. T. S. Clapp by Detective Eugene Daly. The property was purchased from the Fidelity Trust Company, which was made executor under the will. Under the law the purchaser could not secure a clear title until six months had elapsed from the death of the testator. The property is on the north side of Jefferson street, between Eighth and Ninth. The lot is 30x200 feet, and the improvements consist of a two-story brick residence now occupied by Mr. Daly. The consideration was $2,200. The proceeds of the sale, according to the will, go to the Children's Free Hospital. The sale was made by Daniel F. Murphy.

Seventy-five feet at the intersection of Preston and Guendoline streets, at the rate of $27.50 per front foot, and 30 feet at the northeast corner of the intersection of Clay and St. Catherine streets, for $1,200. This property is part of the Caldwell tracts, and represents the first sales made of that ground. Mr. Murphy said that the city still had an option on the two tracts desired for park purposes, and he expected the Board of Park Commissioners to arrange to exercise their option in a few days.

Solomon Bloom yesterday bought the residence property located at 723 West Green street for $1,700. This property fronts 26½ feet on Green street, and was bought as an investment. The property was sold by the Fidelity Trust Company, as the executor of the will of the late Dr. T. S. Clapp.

To Exhibit Manual Work.

The annual exhibition of the Manual training work will be held at the Male High School, First street, to-day, from 3 to 10 p. m.

One Patient Gains Four Pounds In Week Under Treatment.

The Kentucky Anti-Tuberculosis Association at its meeting last evening had favorable reports from all its committees. Cyrus L. Adler gave a gratifying report of the benefit excursion given by August Hollenbach on his birthday, the entire proceeds of which Mr. Hollenbach donated to the association.

Bernard Flexner was selected to deliver the noonday addresses to the workingmen in the Louisville factories. Dr. S. A. Hartwell reported progress in regard to sanitary cuspidors for the library.

President Nones presented a request for transportation to Colorado of a consumptive woman, but as it was opposed to the plan of the association to send patients away from Louisville, because the cures at homes here are more permanent, favorable action was not taken, but the matter was held for further consideration.

Church meetings for June were arranged as follows:

The Medical Committee reported three new cases taken in charge. All the older cases were doing well. One advanced case, after removal to a tent in the back yard, gained four pounds in a week.

In response to a request a committee was appointed to arrange to organize an auxiliary for work among the negroes, the fatality with this race being very great.

HONORS FROM ECKSTEIN NORTON

TWO ADDRESSES DELIVERED.

The annual commencement exercises of the Eckstein Norton Institute for colored students, at Cane Spring, Ky., were held last night at the Masonic Theater. Nine graduates were awarded diplomas. Six of these were from the Normal Department, two from the Music Department and one from the Dressmaking Department. The school is conducted on the industrial plan, and for this reason diplomas are given in the various branches. The crowd that witnessed the exercises last night was composed of the educated element of the colored race in Louisville and the surrounding country. The commencement exercises were the concluding part of a week's programme which began last Sunday. All except the commencement proper were held at Cane Spring, where the school is located.

The farewell sermon was preached last Sunday by Prof. C. H. Parrish, president of the Institute. The reunion of the students and friends of the school was held last Monday. The baccalaureate sermon was delivered Tuesday night by the Rev. W. A. Burch, of Cincinnati, O. Thursday was field day at the school, and chief among the exercises of that day was the dedication of the Preston granite fountain for man and beast. This fountain was given to the school by Mrs. F. E. Preston, of Michigan, and cost over $1,000.

Two Addresses.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. W. R. Rives, of Louisville. Several essays were read and several orations delivered by the graduates. W. R. Pettiford, colored, president of the Alabama Penny Savings and Loan Company, of Birmingham, Ala., made an address. He said that business should be mixed with the education of the young of to-day. He admonished the graduates to cultivate the habit of saving as well as that of industry. He said that business and the habit of saving were lacking in the education of the negro of to-day.

C. C. Stoll, of Louisville, also delivered an address. He talked on the general development of humanity from the dawn of civilization to the present time. He eulogized the civilization of America. He particularly laid stress on the fact that the cultivation of the love of home was the mainspring to success. He believed this was lacking in the negro race, but he hoped that the future would bring forth good fruit in this line.

Honors and Prizes.

The honors and prizes were awarded by President C. H. Parrish, of the school. The list of the graduates follows:

Music Department—Mayme Jane Mason and Allie Priscilla Barnette.

Dressmaking Department — Dora Beatrice English.

The A. P. Kelly gold medal for the highest honor was awarded to Mayme Jane Mason. The first prize, known as the Dr. Ford gold medal was awarded to Allie Priscilla Barnette. The silver medal presented by the school was won by Alice L. Dortch.

The Normal oratorical medals were awarded as follows: First, the A. P. Kelly gold medal, Julia E. Dortch; second, gold medal by school, Allie P. Barnette; third, Dortch silver medal, James Lemon Brown.

BROKERS QUIT, BUT WILL PAY IN FULL.

St. Louis, June 8.—It was made known to-day that the Schauble-Oakes Commission Company, stock brokers, have permanently closed their office here, nine offices in Illinois towns and one at Evansville, Ind. Harry Oakes, member of the firm, stated that he could not say how much the assets amounted to until the books were gone over, but he was confident the customers would be paid in full.

Midway Banks Merged.

Midway, Ky., June 8.—The Farmers' Bank and Citizens' Bank of this city will be consolidated. At a meeting of the stockholders of the former, the terms of consolidation proposed by the directors were accepted. The full details will be arranged at once and on July 1 the two banks will be merged under the name of Citizens' Bank

Announcement

The Pacific Coal Company and the Eclipse Coal Company, both among the oldest established coal-distributing concerns in the city, have joined interests, and will henceforth operate as one company under the name of The Eclipse Coal Company.

Plans to this effect have been under way for some time past, but the deal was not finally consummated until all arrangements for handling the joint business of the two companies with the greatest possible expedition had been completed.

The company now owns and expects to operate to their full capacity two completely equipped and modern barge-unloading plants, located at points most advantageous for the quickest service to their patrons—namely, at the foot of Campbell street, in the East End, and at the foot of Second street, in the central part of the city.

Although orders for any grade of coal desired are solicited, a specialty will be made of

As manager of the new ECLIPSE COAL COMPANY I desire to thank all who have favored either of the old companies with their patronage, and respectfully solicit a continuance of their favors.

WM. EVERING, Manager

ECLIPSE COAL CO.

RIVER, BUSINESS AND WEATHER.

The river was rising last evening, with 5 feet 5 inches in the canal, 3 feet 3 inches on the falls and 11 feet 2 inches at the foot of the locks. Business good, weather clear and pleasant.

DRIFTWOOD.

The City of Louisville leaves for Cincinnati at 5 o'clock this evening on another of her pleasant round-trip low-rate excursions, and will have a fine crowd on board to enjoy the trip....The Falls City had a fine trip to the Kentucky river last evening....The Morning Star leaves for Evansville at 4 p. m. to-day. She will have a cabin full of round-trip people....The Peters Lee is the next boat to leave for Memphis, leaving next Thursday at noon....The Gould will bring down a crowd of round-trip people to-day.... The Tarascon had a fine trip to Evansville last evening....The City of Cincinnati, leaving for Cincinnati at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, will meet the City of Louisville seventy-five miles up the river, and will have a good crowd to go up on one boat and come down the other. These trips are enjoyed by large crowds every Sunday....The Peters Lee is due up from Memphis to leave on her return trip next Thursday at noon....The City of Louisville will have a crowd to Cincinnati this evening on her low-rate round-trip excursion....Going to Cincinnati and back costs less than one cent a mile transportation. It is the longest and cheapest ride on the river in this or any other country....The Jeffersonville ferryboats carry many people. Crowds go to the river every Sunday morning to see their relatives and friends leave on the big Cincinnati packets to go up on one boat and come down on the other....Secretary Metcalf, of the Department of Commerce and Labor, has issued an order appointing an Executive Committee of three, composed of Supervising Inspector General Uhler, Ira Harris, Supervising Inspector of the Second district, and Charles H. Westcott, Supervising Inspector of the Eighth district, all of the steamboat inspection service, to meet in Washington on June 12, to take up various matters affecting that service. The appointment of the committee is by direction of Congress, and their specific duties are to recommend such changes in the rules and regulations of the steamboat inspection service as may appear necessary to avoid hardship or difficulty, and also with regard to safety appliances and any other business that may be brought before them....Dory Poe, the prophet, hit the rise all right....Over 7,000,000 bushels of coal coming....The Fallie went back up the river....The Golden Rod is laid up at Cincinnati....The Wash Honshell and tow passed Memphis coming up Wednesday....Capt. Max Sebolt and his aids are getting ready for business....All the packets on the upper Ohio are going again....The coming rise is a blessing to boats and business....The present condition of the river is unusual, for the June rises about this time of the year, which lasts until the middle of July ....Towboats are wishing for the Kanawha to bring out more coal....It is expected by the rivermen that the United States Inspectors will be found aboard the freight and passenger steamers on the Ohio within the next few days, who will put crews through the various drills so as to avoid such a disaster as befell the Slocum some few years ago....The Cincinnati and Pittsburg packets are going again....The big showboat Eva, in tow of the Mary Steward, is due down.... The wreckage of the New South is being sold at a cheap figure....The Glenmore Crescent City and a Government barge are on the marine ways at Madison....A coal fleet left Pittsburg yesterday with over 7,000,000 bushels of coal....The Sprague and John A. Wood may go South in a few days with town of coal....The Conway brought down a barge of brick and went back up the river....The coming rise will improve business along the river and prove beneficial to boats....The Fallie didn't return to Cincinnati until yesterday morning....The Ohio river is not only one of the World's greatest waterways, but is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful, presenting to those who travel upon its broad waters an ever-changing panorama of charming scenery. In all its length of 1,050 miles there is not a section of the Ohio that surpasses or even equals in scenic beauty or historic associations the portion between Cincinnati, O., and Louisville....The Columbia makes an excursion up the river and back this afternoon.

RIVER TELEGRAMS.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 8.—[Special.]—There was not as much water at Davis Island dam to-day as was expected. However, over 7,000,000 bushels of coal was shipped, and about 2,000,000 bushels more is scheduled to leave to-morrow before the water gets too low. The tows of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company that are due to leave to-morrow are: Harry Brown, twelve boats, sixteen barges; J. B. Finley twenty-eight barges; Josh Cook, seventeen barges and probably one other tow. Probably some of the other coal companies will send out one or two tows. The crest of the rise reached Davis Island about 9 o'clock this morning, when 12.1 feet was registered. The river had fallen over a foot before evening and by to-morrow afternoon the river will probably have fallen below a coal-boating stage. There was 10.5 feet of water in the river at Davis Island dam to-night, and as the dams are all down, the depth is maintained about the same at all points in the harbor. The tows all got away safely to-day. It requires a great deal of maneuvering and hard work to get out so much coal in so short a time, but river coal operators boast that they are always ready. The towboats that left were: The Exporter, Jim Wood, Iron Age, Valiant, Sam Brown, Sam Clark, James Moren, Boaz, Coal City, Henry Lourey, Tom Dodsworth, Alice Brown, Harry Brown, Oakland, G. W. Thomas, Frank Gilmore, Harvester and Helen White.

Wheeling, June 8.—River 10 feet 1 inch and rising. Departed: Ben Hur, Pittsburg; Bessie Smith, Parkersburg; Ruth, Matamoras.

Evansville, Ind., June 8.—River 9.5 and rising. Clear and warm.

Cairo, Ill., June 8.—River 20.1 and rising. Partly cloudy and warm.

St. Louis, June 8.—River 18.7, a rise of .6 in twenty-four hours. Departed: Stacker Lee, Memphis; City of Savannah, Tennessee river. Rain and warm.

Memphis, Tenn., June 8.—[Special.]—River 12.4, a rise of .5 in twenty-four hours. Ferd Herold arrived from St. Louis with 1,601 packages of merchandise and left at noon with a good trip of passengers.

ALL GOVERNORS

DONE IN OIL BY MARVIN EDDY AS LABOR OF LOVE.

OTHER DISTINGUISHED KENTUCKIANS ALSO THERE.

WORK OF MANY MONTHS.

Kentucky is believed to be the only State in the Union which has a collection of oil paintings of all its Governors. Efforts have been made and are now being made by the Governors of many States to make such a collection, but all of them have found it a difficult task. In the Kentucky Hall of Fame there will hang during "Home-coming Week" in the new Armory an oil portrait of each of Kentucky's thirty-two Governors. These portraits are of one size, and are framed alike. They will be hung in the order in which their originals served as chief executives of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

To the chairman of the Committee on the Hall of Fame, Marvin Eddy, Kentucky is indebted for this valuable collection of portraits. Realizing the impossibility of securing portraits done from life of all of the Governors, Mr. Eddy, months ago, determined to paint portraits of all the Governors himself. He has diligently worked at the task, and has just completed the portrait of Gov. Beckham, the last of the long distinguished line of Governors. The undertaking entailed a tremendous amount of work. Mr. Eddy worked night and day until it was completed. Those who have seen the portraits have complimented Mr. Eddy very highly upon the result of his work, and say that the portraits will do much to increase his already splendid reputation as an artist.

In addition Mr. Eddy has, with the assistance of E. J. McDermott and Henry Baird, the members of his committee, collected a large number of oil paintings of other of Kentucky's distinguished sons who are entitled to places in the Hall of Fame.

These portraits will be hung along the railing of the balcony of the Armory, where they will be seen and admired by visitors during "Home-coming Week."

* * *

Mr. Eddy's Labor of Love.

"My work as chairman of the Hall of Fame," said Mr. Eddy yesterday, "has been a labor of love. Though it has taken a great amount of my time, I shall feel fully repaid if our guests during Home-coming Week consider the exhibition a success. To paint the portraits of Kentucky's Governors was not a hardship—rather a pleasure."

One of the most interesting features in connection with this series of portraits is the style of clothes worn by the different Governors. The gradual change from the ruffles and colored clothing, worn in Gov. Shelby's days, to the plain black frock coat and stiff collar of Gov. Beckham, claimed my attention, and I believe it will be noted wth interest by all who examine the portraits in the Hall of Fame.

Govs. Isaac Shelby, James Garrard, Christopher Greenup, Charles Scott, George Madison, Gabriel Slaughter, John Adair, Joseph Desha, Thomas Metcalfe, John Breathitt, James T. Morehead, James Clark, Robert P. Letcher, Charles A. Wickliffe, William Owsley, John J. Crittenden, Lazarus W. Powell, Charles S. Morehead, Beriah Magoffin, James T. Robinson, Thomas E. Bramlette, John L. Helm, John W. Stevenson, Preston H. Leslie, James B. McCreary, Luke P. Blackburn, J. Proctor Knott, S. B. Buckner, John Young Brown, William O. Bradley, William S. Taylor, William Goebel, J. C. W. Beckham.

MUST CLEAN YARDS AND SIDEWALKS

POLICE ORDERED TO ENFORCE ORDINANCE RIGIDLY.

PREPARE CITY FOR HOME-COMING CROWD.

WORK TO BE DONE QUICKLY.

That Louisville may present her best front to the thousands of visitors who will be within her borders next week an order that is "sweeping" in more ways than one was issued yesterday to the Police Department, instructing the men to see that property owners in every part of the city comply with the ordinance requiring them to remove all weeds, rubbish or other objectionable matter.

This order is brought to the attention of the department several times each year, but in the order given out yesterday it was made unusually explicit, and the patrolmen were warned that failure to obtain the proper enforcement of the ordinance would mean dismissal. In many places about the city the sidewalks are covered with weeds, while many front and back yards are filled with rank growth.

It is expected that by next Tuesday every part of the city will have been cleaned, and that the thousands of ex-Kentuckians who return to Louisville will be able to look upon a city which for cleanliness is not to be surpassed.

Section 1. That hereafter it shall be unlawful for the owner, agent or occupant of a lot whereon a building of any kind may exist, or the owner or agent in charge of any vacant lot within the corporate limits of the City of Louisville, to permit any growth of weeds, which are, or may become, a menace to the public health, or collection of garbage or filth of any description to remain on the lot aforesaid for a longer period than three days after notice to remove same has been given by the Health Department of the city of Louisville to the owner, agent or occupant of the property thus offending.

Sec. 2. For any violation of the provisions of this ordinance by the owner, agent or occupant of the property, the person guilty thereof shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $20 for each offense, and each and every day of such violation shall constitute a separate offense and be punishable as such.

DECREASED DRUNKENNESS DUE TO OBSERVANCE OF SUNDAY LAWS

Police Report Shows Only Thirteen "Drunks" In May—Other Improvements.

Effects of the partial enforcement or observance of the Sunday-closing law, so far as saloons and barrelhouses are concerned, are strikingly evident in the monthly report of Alex Basler, operator at Central police station, in which are given the total number of arrests made by the police in the month of May. Sunday is the day when most of the arrests for drunkenness are made, and the total for the month often runs as high as thirty and forty, but the total for May, in which two Sundays only were "dry," is recorded as thirteen. That is the lowest figure recorded in the history of the department for years.

Corresponding decreases in the number of arrests for misdemeanor charges, such as disorderly conduct, and drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and felonies in which drunkenness is usually a contributory cause, are noted in the report of Mr. Basler. The police, while they like to have as many arrests credited to them as possible, for the most part strongly approve of the efforts to enforce Sunday-closing laws, because they derive little pleasure from dragging a drunken man or a drunken woman away to jail.

The number of Sunday "sleepers" in the cells in the police stations has decreased greatly since the lid has gone on, also much to the satisfaction of the police and stationkeepers. It is not customary to prefer charges against drunken men who are merely drunk, unless they are also troublesome. To get them off the streets and remove temptation from the way of those who might not hesitate to search the "drunks'" pockets, the police remove them to the stationhouses, where they are permitted to "sleep off the jag" in comparative comfort and in much greater security.

Of the 686 arrests in the month of May, 118 of the prisoners were under eighteen years of age; 247 were between twenty and thirty years of age; 282 were between thirty and fifty years of age, and thirty-nine were over fifty. Of the prisoners, 344 were white and 318 colored; 112 female and 574 male. The report follows:

Attachment, 3; assault to kill, 6; breach of peace, 15; bench warrant, 4; bond surrender, 4; carrying concealed a deadly weapon, 18; converting property, 1; cruelty to animals, 2; deserter, 1; disorderly house, 2; disorderly conduct, 256; drunk and disorderly conduct, 118; drunk, 13; escaped lunatic, 1; embezzlement, 1; exposure of person, 1; forgery, 2; fugitive, 6; grand larceny, 11; housebreaking, 6; loitering, 24; lunacy, 7; malicious assault, 12; malicious cutting, 27; malicious shooting, 4; murder, 2; neglect of children, 4; obtaining money by false pretenses, 1; obtaining goods by false pretenses, 2; petit larceny, 14; robbery, 5; stealing from a common carrier, 5; shooting at without wounding, 7; suspected felon, 42; violating city ordinance, 9; violating Sunday law, 50.

Hebe Back On Her Pedestal At Third-Avenue Drinking Fountain

Bronze Hebe, who some time ago stepped from her pedestal on the Kentucky Humane Society's drinking fountain at the Confederate monument out on Third avenue, has been replaced and the water again turned on. For several months that popular watering place had been dry, made so because of the order that went out when glanders had been prevalent. Third avenue and the Third-avenue road are used probably as much as any one street in, or leading into, Louisville. All hours of the night and early morning a constant procession of market gardeners pass the fountain and the monument on their way in, and it had been the source of a great deal of complaint from them that the water was not turned on when the permission was given by the Board of Health.

The water had been off so long that the pipes leading to the troughs had become filled and the water would not flow. Plumbers sent out to look at the situation and report as to the probable cost of starting the water threw up their hands and declared that it was impossible to estimate what it would cost. Yesterday, however, another plumber visited the fountain, tested the pipes with cleaning wires, turned on the water and sent in his bill for $2.80—ridiculously low when the Humane Society people had had visions of bills running into two or three figures. So yesterday those that passed that way were able, for the first time in many months, to refresh their thirsting horses.

It is Hebe, however, that makes the society the most trouble. The present one is the third. Others have stepped off the pedestal and wandered away, where some vandal has broken them in pieces and sold as junk. It costs anywhere from $2 to $100 to put Hebe on her pedestal whenever she descends, according as whether she is recaptured or whether persons unknown make away with her.

It is strange how people do not exercise reasonable care in avoiding damaging the fountain. All that is necessary for a teamster to water his horses is to drive one up, unhook a trace so that the other can step around, instead of having to pump. However, some drivers attempt to avoid even that exertion and try, by jerking suddenly on their horses, to lift the end of the wagon tongue over the rim of the trough. Sometimes it works all right, but often pieces are broken from the basin, and on one occasion a negro driver struck the basin with the tongue of a wagon loaded with brick. The whole fountain was almost destroyed then and cost considerable money in repairs.

NEGRO'S WEIGHT HOLDS HIS FEET IN VICE.

Alexander Johnson Injured In Peculiar Way By Cellar Door.

A peculiar accident happened to Alexander Johnson, colored, on Preston street yesterday. Probably suffering from the effects of the heat, he was walking along the sidewalk in uncertain steps when he reached an open cellarway, the wooden door of which was suspended in an almost perpendicular position. The negro bumped into the obstruction with some force, and as he did so his feet caught in the small opening at the hinge end of the door, throwing him forward with the door. His weight upon the door held his feet tight, and he endured much agony until he was released. Several passers-by noticed the man outstretched on the sidewalk, but believing him intoxicated, did not stop to make any further investigations.

All the time the negro was groaning and struggling to free himself from his position, which could not be accomplished except by rising to a standing position. Finally two men, seeing his predicament, lifted him with the door, which immediately released the negro's feet. It was found that several of his ties were badly crushed. He was taken into a nearby house.

MANY ROBBERIES BEING REPORTED

POLICE SUSPECT THIEVES FROM OTHER CITIES.

MAY HAVE COME HERE FOR HOME-COMING.

DOMINICK GERARDI, VICTIM.

Robbers, thought by the police to be the advance guard of an organized band which intends to operate in Louisville during Home-coming Week, continued their work yesterday morning, and at one place where the police were apprised of the burglary money and valuables worth over $300 were taken.

Within the last three days not less than ten robberies have been committed, and in each instance practically the same method was used by the intruders in gaining an entrance to the houses. Screens and windows were removed and the intruders then ransacked the houses in such a quiet and thorough manner that they are never detected until too late. On this account it is thought that professional housebreakers are doing the work.

After Thursday midnight the house of Dominick Gerardi, 734 Fifth street, was entered and a large amount of goods was taken. An inventory of the house after the theft was discovered showed that three $5 gold pieces, six silver dollars, one gold snake ring containing a large diamond, two gold badges, two watches, one gold watch chain, a pocketbook, a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses, a fine opal and several other articles of value had been taken.

Mr. Gerardi went home shortly after 1 o'clock from The Seelbach, where he directs the orchestra, and did not notice that anything was out of the usual place, but when his son, Raffo Gerardi, eight years old, arose at 6:30 o'clock he found that the house had been ransacked. The thieves evidently had gone over the whole house, and the family is unable to understand why no one was awakened. It is thought that robbers did not reach the Gerardi home until about 5 o'clock.

During yesterday reports of several minor robberies that were committed during the night were made at police headquarters, and special efforts will be made to apprehend the robbers. It is believed from the similarity of the robberies recently reported that the robbers are organized and that they are plying the housebreaking vocation until Home-coming Week, when it is supposed they expect to turn to the more remunerative practice of picking pockets.

COFFEE MARKET.

New York, June 8.—Spot, Rio steady; No. 7 invoice 7⅝c; mild steady; Cordova 9¾@12½c. Futures opened steady at an advance of 5 points in response to steady European cables. Trading was moderately active and market dull and steady in tone, but eased off slightly in the afternoon under scattering liquidation, with the close steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher. Sales 51,250 bags, including July at 6.15c, September at 6.30c, October at 6.35c, December at 6.55c, January at 6.60c, March at 6.80@6.85c and May at 6.95c.

St. Louis Wool.

St. Louis, June 8.—Wool steady; medium grades, combing and clothing 24@28½c; light fine 21@23c; heavy fine 16@18c; tub-washed 33@39c.

Boston Wool.

Boston, June 8.—The Commercial Bulletin will say to-morrow of the wool market: "Trading is of a comparatively unimportant nature and manufacturers are paying little attention to the scant offerings. Prices are very firm and steady, although still below the Western basis. A few small lots of new Utah and Arizona wool are being taken at 25@26c and privately. Medium ½-blood 28c, or 68@70c scoured, and ⅜ up to 30c, or a clean cost of 67@68c. Fine scoured has been speculated in at 67@68c. Fine Territory is worth 72@73c and fine medium 69@70c. Fine clothing is quoted at 69@70c and fine medium at 66@68c. Fleeces are full and scarce and quotations are consequently nominal at 30@32c for ½-bloods and 31@33c for ⅜-bloods. Ohio XX is quoted 34c; fine unwashed 25@25½c, and washed delaine 36@36½c. Texas and California wools are quiet and nominal. A few thousand pounds of fine AA and C supers have been sold at 66@67c and 62@64c respectively. In B supers a very small business is being done at 52@75c, according to color. Shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 27, 1905, are 110,715,744 pounds, against 109,444,343 at the same time last year. Receipts to date are 106,915,234 pounds, against 147,422,406 for the same period last year."

Liverpool Grain.

Liverpool, June 8.—Wheat—Spot nominal. Futures quiet; July 6s 6⅛d; September 6s 6⅛d; December 6s 6⅞d. Corn—Spot firm; American mixed (new) 4s 7d; do old 4s 10d. Futures quiet; July 4s 7¼d; September 4s 5¾d.

TRADE GOOD

Considering Season and General Conditions.

RAILWAY EARNINGS CONTINUE TO BE GREAT.

WHEAT EXPORTS INCREASE.

New York, June 8.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say:

Jobbing and wholesale lines are commencing to reflect the usual seasonable quietness; nevertheless, business is more active than is customary at this season, and fall orders for dry goods, clothing, shoes and inter-related lines are of very good volume. Retail trade has been stimulated by warmer weather, and the outlook is for a full season's trade. Industries, with a few exceptions, are active although the time is approaching when the usual summer shutdowns will take place.

Grain crop returns become more irregular as the season progresses, but that fact has not deterred purchases to any extent. As a whole, the situation is equal to a year ago. The labor situation, though disturbed at different points, is considerably better. A good demand for dry goods and general supplies for San Francisco, where conditions are rapidly approaching normal, is noted at Western centers. The return flow of money from the country is unmistakably large, and easier rates are a feature, though some authorities disbelieve in permanently easier rates.

Big Railway Earnings.

Railway earnings continue very heavy, the increase for May being no less than 14 per cent. on roads operating outside the anthracite coal fields, and bank clearings are considerably in excess of last year at this period. On the other hand, reports about the meat packing industry adversely affect trade in that line, while high prices tend to cause deadlocks in some lines, notably wool and some lines of building material. Lower prices for yellow pine reflected in ease in Northern soft woods have caused some new business.

Business failures for the week ending June 7 number 162, against 127 last week, 194 in the like week of 1905, 171 in 1904 and 181 in 1903. In Canada, failures for the week number 17, against 19 last week and 25 this week a year ago.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ended June 7 are 3,301,007 bushels, against 2,526,739 last week, 1,476,840 this week last year, 1,482,032 in 1904 and 4,191,317 in 1903. From July 1 to date the exports are 128,627,013 bushels, against 60,013,247 last year, 129,428,471 in 1904 and 213,259,126 in 1903.

Corn exports for the week are 573,129 bushels, against 614,815 last week, 1,108,146 a year ago, 57,540 in 1904 and 824,815 in 1903. From July 1 to date the exports of corn are 103,606,844 bushels, against 76,687,231 in 1905, 49,315,844 in 1904 and 63,209,641 in 1903.

PRICES OF COMMODITIES

Reach Highest Point In Twenty Years.

New York, June 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of the trade to-morrow will say:

Current distribution of merchandise is largely dependent upon the weather, which varies widely according to locality. On the whole the week's results were encouraging, and monthly reports for May show splendid gains over last year's figures. Prices of commodities rose to the highest point in twenty years, $106.794 on June 1, comparing with $106.059 a month previous, and $98.759 a year ago. Railway earnings in May were 11.2 per cent. heavier than in 1905, and foreign commerce at this port for the last week showed a gain of $1,346,180 in exports, and a loss of $11,508 in imports, compared with the corresponding week last year.

In the iron and steel industry there is not only little idle machinery at the present time, but little prospect of any shut down in the near future unless repairs necessitate such action.

Official and other indications of a large cotton crop, and the further decline in price of that staple, produced no definite effect upon the primary markets for manufactured goods. The weakest feature of the cotton goods industry at the present time is the utter absence of export demand. China is out of the market, and a heavy accumulation of goods is noted at Shanghai, while the outlook for their absorption is far from promising. As to woolen goods the future is uncertain.

Footwear factories receive only a fair volume of new fall business. Leather is steady at the present advance. Hides are nominally unchanged, yet an easier tone is in evidence.

Failures this week in the United States are 206, against 174 last week, 188 the preceding week, and 216 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 18 against 13 last week, and 20 last year.

BUSINESS OF THE BANKS.

Hester's Weekly Cotton Statement.

New Orleans, June 8.—Secretary Hester's weekly New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement issued before the close of business to-day shows a decrease in the movement into sight compared with the seven days ending this date last year in round figures of 45,000 bales, an increase over the same days year before last of 49,000, and an increase over the same time in 1903 of 34,000.

For the eight days of June the totals show a decrease under last year of 41,000 bales, an increase over the same period year before last of 52,000, and an increase over the same time in 1903 of 39,000.

For the 281 days of the season that have elapsed, the aggregate is behind the 281 days of last year 1,911,000 bales, ahead the same days year before last 761,000 and ahead of 1903 by 80,000.

The amount brought into sight during the past week has been 79,608 bales, against 124,287 for the seven days ending this date last year, 30,150 year before last and 45,749 same time in 1903; and, for the eight days of June it has been 94,862, against 135,477 last year, 42,791 year before last and 55,894 same time in 1903.

The movement since September 1st shows receipts at all United States ports 7,557,161 bales against 9,334,070 last year, 7,020,493 year before last and 7,612,783 same time in 1903. Overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to Northern mills and Canada 899,387, against 1,026,420 last year, 902,889 year before last and 1,058,194 same time in 1903; interior stocks in excess of those held at the close of the commercial year 129,717, against 198,719 last year, 109,736 year before last and 7,674 same time in 1903; Southern mills taking 1,902,000, against 1,839,713 last year, 1,694,370 year before last and 1,729,677 same time in 1903.

These make the total movement for the 281 days of the season from September 1st to date 10,488,265 bales, against 12,398,922 last year, 9,727,488 year before last and 10,408,328 same time in 1903.

Foreign exports for the week have been 87,180 bales, against 198,256 last year, making the total thus far for the season 6,029,784, against 7,807,626 last year, a decrease of 1,777,842.

Northern mills takings and Canada during the past seven days show a decrease of 4,488 bales as compared with the corresponding period last year, and their total takings since September 1st have increased 88,783. The total takings of American mills, north, south and Canada, thus far for the season have been 4,170,339, against 4,060,770 last year. These include 2,213,639 by Northern spinners, against 2,124,916.

Stocks at the seaboard and the 29 leading Southern interior centers have decreased during the week 75,265 bales, against a decrease during the corresponding period last season of 140,557 and are now 8,380 smaller than at this date in 1905.

Including stocks left over at ports and interior towns from the last crop and the number of bales brought into sight thus far from the new crop, the supply to date is 10,932,796 bales, against 12,560,889 for the same period last year.

WORLD'S VISIBLE SUPPLY STATEMENT.

Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton made up from special cable and telegraphic advices compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows a decrease for the week just closed of 127,311 bales against a decrease of 57,156 last year and a decrease of 140,472 year before last.

The total visible is 3,621,010, against 3,748,321 last week, 3,817,686 last year and 2,255,041 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 2,158,010 against 2,250,321 last week, 2,439,086 last year and 1,315,041 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,463,000 against 1,498,000 last week, 1,378,000 last year and 1,040,000 year before last.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton as above there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 1,872,000 bales, against 1,960,000 last year and 1,309,000 year before last; in Egypt 83,000, against 160,000 last year and 131,000 year before last; in India 984,000 against 957,000 last year and 487,000 year before last; and in the United States 732,000 against 741,000 last year and 381,000 year before last.

Total since September 1st, this year 9,962,000, against 10,466,000 last year, and 8,929,000 the year before.

Of this Northern spinners and Canada took 2,214,000 bales this year, against 2,125,000 last year, and 2,017,000 the year before. Southern spinners 1,957,000, against 1,876,000 last year, and 1,772,000 the year before; and foreign spinners 5,791,000, against 6,465,000 last year, and 5,140,000 the year before.

The Louisville Traction Company directors met this morning and authorized a dividend of 1 per cent. on the common stock, payable July 1. The transfer books will be closed for twenty days, beginning June 10. This action means that hereafter the dividends on the common stock will be paid quarterly, instead of semi-annually, as heretofore, thereby conforming to a desire of a majority of the stockholders. The previous dividend was 2 per cent. and was paid in April.

The Board of Directors of the Louisville Home Telephone Company met this afternoon and declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 1½ per cent. cash on the stock, payable in July. A motion was made to declare a 2 per cent. dividend, but it was defeated, it being the sense of the board that the best interests of the company and stockholders would be served by paying 1½ per cent and making liberal appropriations out of earnings for extensions and improvements. The board also considered the matter of giving free service between Louisville and New Albany, and will dispose of the question at a future meeting.

The Independent Long Distance Telephone and Telegraph Company directors held a meeting this afternoon, at which only routine matters were disposed of. The proposition made by the Central Home Company to take over the Long Distance Company by an exchange of Central Home stock for Long Distance stock on a basis of two shares of Central Home for one of Long Distance, was not considered by the board, but was talked over informally by the directors. The directors can only recommend to the stockholders that they accept the proposition, it not being in their power to act further.

A seat on the Louisville Stock Exchange sold to-day at $5,000, an advance of $1,000 over the previous sale. Washington Flexner, who recently entered the brokerage business and opened an office at 450 West Main street, was the buyer. Only one seat is left unsold, the membership of the exchange now numbering twenty-nine. The exchange is not yet fifteen months old, and an advance from $250, the original price of the seats, to $5,000 is truly remarkable.

The gross earnings of the United Railways Company, of St. Louis, for the month of May were 6 per cent. greater than for the corresponding month a year ago, and $45,000 above the earnings of April this year.

Frank A. Vanderlip, of the National City Bank of New York, who was in Chicago yesterday, is a bull on business conditions, but is extremely cautious on the Wall street position. He was quoted as follows: "Business, of course, is good. This is obvious to everybody. There is no evidence of slackening anywhere. The large corporations have sufficient orders on hand to warrant the conclusion that there will be no abatement in the general prosperity for the rest of the year. But, as regards the monetary situation and its effect on Wall street, the outlook is not so clear. There are certain complications. While call money may be easy for sixty days, it would be rash to predict that rates will be low and funds abundant after that time. In fact, the demands of general business on the money market, together with the inquiry which the moving of the crops will entail this autumn, particularly if the harvest is bountiful, preclude the idea that rates will be low and the banks well supplied with money for Wall street uses. As it is, the reserves of the New York banks are far from satisfactory. They are too low. Another vital question is the fire insurance question as regards San Francisco. The companies will soon be called upon to make payments. It would be interesting to know what preparations have been made to meet these obligations in full. Evidently the companies have not liquidated any of their securities. There has been no opportunity to do so. The bond market especially has been too dull to allow of any selling."

Detroit advices are that the United States Steel Corporation will begin operations on the $1,000,000 steel plant at Sandwich, Ontario, Canada, soon. For two farms at that place the Trust has paid $17,000. The corporation owns and controls 2,444 acres.

The April statement of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad Company shows that the management is still pursuing the policy of diverting much of the earnings to property improvements and that the effect of this policy is telling on the earning power of the road, says the Wall Street Summary. Gross earnings for April and for the first ten months of the fiscal year made new high records. The proportion of operating expenses to gross earnings in April was 77 per cent. The Chattanooga road charges permanent improvements of many kinds to operating expenses, when ordinarily the cost would be charged to capital account. The company has, in fact, gone so far as to charge bonds purchased and canceled to operating account. The Louisville and Nashville control of the Chattanooga road has made a fine property out of the latter. It is now settled that this year's gross earnings of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis will break all records and will reach nearly $11,000,000. It is understood that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company now holds about three-quarters of the capital stock of Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and is gradually absorbing it, it is said, with a view to making it in time an integral part of the Louisville and Nashville system. It is conservatively estimated that the actual earnings of Chattanooga this year are likely to exceed 20 per cent. on its stock. The conservative policy pursued by the more important railroads of the country of devoting one dollar of earnings for improvements and one dollar for dividends is carried to excess by the Chattanooga, which expends twice as much on improvements out of earnings as it pays in dividends. The Louisville and Nashville is also putting two dollars into improvements for every dollar it pays to stockholders. Investors in this system do not criticise the management for this course, as they recognize that it will inevitably result in a high enhancement of the investment value of their securities.

Wall street will do well to keep in mind the approach of July, the big dividend month, says the Journal of Commerce. The prospect is that the July 2 distributions will reach a new high record; July 1 being Sunday, payment is not due until the following day. Already several mining companies announce either initial or larger dividends, the railroad payments will show a moderate increase and the industrial total will be larger. Last July industrial concerns alone distributed almost $29,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 over July, 1904. This year several companies of the National Lead type will swell the total. Bond houses are hopeful that a generous share of the July disbursements will be invested in bonds, since at current quotations many of these form attractive investments. The infusion of life into the bond market would be even more welcome in the higher financial circles than a stock market boom.

September 18, 1902	129.30

Three years, eight months and 15 days separate these two dates. In that time the stock market, after traveling far, arrived at the same point from which it started. From the high point of September 18, 1902, it fell to the low point of 88.90. It was on August 8, 1903, when it reached that valley of depression, having taken eleven months to make the descent. Then it began to climb upward again, and on January 22, 1906, it reached 138.36. It took two years and four months to get back over the ground lost and add 9 points to the record. It should not be imagined that these changes were made in direct movements. On the contrary the market did not reach the low point without several sharp rallies, nor did it climb up again to the top without several sharp tumbles. A diagram of the movement would appear like an outline map of the Grand Canon of the Arizona, with 88.90 as the bottom of the canon, and 129.30 the Arizona side, and 138.36 the Utah side, a vast and precipitous declivity separating the two.

The five leading Everett-Moore traction properties in Ohio and Michigan earned $9,035,568 gross in 1905 as compared to $6,820,775 in 1902, a three-year growth of $2,214,788, or 32.5 per cent. This is an average growth of 10.8 per cent. per annum. These five properties include the Cleveland, Painesville and Eastern, Northern Ohio Traction and Light, Lake Shore Electric, Toledo Railways and Light and Detroit United. For the present year three of these properties are beating the three-year average by a large percentage and two are holding increases around the average of the group for the three years. The Cleveland, Painesville and Eastern, the Lake Shore Electric and Detroit United are the properties showing the largest percentage of gain this year. Northern Ohio and Toledo Railways are showing only the usual gains. The net showings of these properties is also highly instructive. In 1902 the net figures for the five properties amounted to $3,042,117; in 1905 $3,978,874, an increase of $936,757, or 30.5 per cent., being better than a 10 per cent. average per annum.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce an authoritative denial has been obtained of published rumors that American Smelting interests contemplate taking over the United States Reduction and Refining Company.

The directors of the Springfield Railway and Light Company, of Springfield, Ill., will hold a meeting on June 15. It is probable that they will declare a 4 per cent. dividend on the stock, payable quarterly, commencing July 1. The company is making a gratifying showing as regards earnings and the prospects are promising.

MARKET LETTERS.

New York.—Two factors worked against any material benefit to prices in the stock market to-day. Mr. Vanderlip's interview at Chicago yesterday, in which he describes the industrial situation as being sound and likely for last another year at least, but the money situation was apparently somewhat clouded beyond the limit of sixty days. No alarm for the future on the monetary question was expressed, but there was no tone of optimism. There is no one in the financial district of Wall street who pretends to be posted on money, who looks for any cheaper money this year than at present, and it is the general belief that money will work somewhat closer in August and much more plentiful in the fall months, especially if big crops are seen. Hence there seems to be some confusion as to the meaning of Mr. Vanderlip's utterance. Big banking interests are committed to the long side of the market, and these interests will be found in evidence the first of the coming week again.—(Hutton & Co. to John L. Dunlap.

New York.—Many traders have assumed a waiting attitude, not through lack of confidence in the situation, but because of a growing feeling that some reaction is due after the steady advance of over a week. However, there appears to be little probability that any recession of consequence will occur as long as general conditions continue so favorable. There is no indication of distribution of the stocks held by important interests, and the offerings of other holdings amount to practically nothing. With the great bulk of securities in strong hands, the belief is general that bear raids would be ineffectual in breaking prices appreciably, and an increase in the short interest would only strengthen the bull position. In the absence of unfavorable news it is probable that the professional element will resume bullish operations to-morrow or Monday.—(A. O. Brown & Co. to Hunt, Bridgeford & Co.

New York.—It is possible that the reaction may extend a little to-morrow, but we don't anticipate any extended decline. The bank statement should be good. The rise in D. and H. was the real feature of the day's market, and as a matter of fact, the reason for the D. and H. rise seems to be that a plan is on foot to rehabilitate and modernize the management, as was done when Mr. Truesdale was made president. The buying has been by interests identified with the property, and we are assured is based on this consideration.—(Dominick & Dominick to Halsey & Halsey.

New York.—We will get these setbacks every now and then, and we would buy stocks only on drives. We do not think the decline will go much further. As we look for a good bank statement, it is altogether likely that stocks may be bought on any further weakness to-morrow. The street is waiting for the Government crop report which comes Monday. This is likely to be a factor in the stock market. We believe wheat will show up well. Corn is not far enough along to say much about.—(C. L. Hudson & Co. to S. C. Henning & Co.

New York.—We do not see anything likely at the moment to cause any enthusiastic bullish activity. In the main the Wall street crowd is ignoring the strength in wheat, which to us seems to reflect damage in wheat and oats and a backward season in corn. The market is a scalping one purely, and a market on which profits should be taken when in sight.—(W. L. Lyons & Co.

New York.—Rumors that the Government crop report on Monday next would not be good started some selling in the last hour. Our advices, however, are that although the winter wheat may show some falling off, the spring wheat report will be excellent.—(Kelley, Miller & Co.

New York.—There seems to us to be no change in the upward trend of the market, but unanimity does not prevail as to immediate improvement of an aggressive character and only specialty betterment is permitted. This condition, of course, makes it advisable for the daily operator to become a little more conservative again, buying only on recessions for turns.—(Ware & Leland.

New York.—Pools in some of the industrial issues are beginning to get active again, and it looks as if an effort would be made to put several of them to higher prices. News of moment is conspicuous by its absence, but the general run of the day continues favorable. It is expected that the bank statement to-morrow will show up satisfactorily. At this time of the year, it is of necessity much of a trading market, but it looks like a good purchase on any reactions.—(Post & Flagg to John W. and D. S. Green.

STOCK MARKET REVIEW.

New York, June 8.—Money on call easy at 2¾@3½ per cent.; ruling rate 3; closing bid and offered 3; time loans slightly firmer; 60 days 4@4¼ per cent.; 90 days 4¼; six months 4½@4¾; prime mercantile paper 5@5½. Sterling exchange firm at $4.8590@4.8595 for demand and at $4.8295@4.83 for 60-day bills; posted rates $4.83½ and $4.86½; commercial bills $4.82½@4.82⅝. Bar silver 65c. Mexican dollars 50⅛c. Government bonds firm. Railroad bonds irregular.

The professional limitation of the present stock market was still very manifest to-day. In fact, the slight evidence of small commission house buying, which was reported yesterday and which aroused hopes that the professional campaign was meeting its first success in attracting outside interest, was no longer perceptible to-day. The aggregate of the sales underwent a decided shrinkage. The character of the market was not materially changed from recently prevailing conditions. Fewer stocks were picked for a demonstration to attract attention by large dealings and rapid advances. More attention was paid to the action of the grain markets and the effect of the Government report on June 1st condition of wheat was feared for the unfavorable effect it might produce on stocks when it appears on Monday. The market weakened quite generally during the first hour on this account. A better tone developed when wheat was found to be declining, but stocks turned downward again later in the day.

Some points of special strength among the grangers were due to reports of good crop conditions along those lines. Atchison was a notable example. There was some strength in the Gould group on account of the settlement with the Wabash debenture "B" bondholders and reports of a large consolidated bond issue in prospect. The assumption that a more active market is sought by some of the large financial interests to assist the absorption of new issues in hand was given credit by movements in stocks of some companies so situated. The sharp advance in Delaware and Hudson was accompanied by active dealings in convertible bonds on the curb, and application was made to list the bonds at the Stock Exchange.

The week's currency movement did not indicate a large change in cash reserves of the banks on the actual movement, but the easy tone of call money indicated a strong bank statement. The loss reported on Subtreasury operations of $639,000 includes return of Government funds advanced to the banks against gold imports to an amount larger than that and as the gold has arrived this loss is offset. A small gain on the express movement with the interior is also indicated. Gains made late last week figure but slightly in the showing of averages on which the last bank statement was made up, and the discrepancy is expected to be rectified in to-morrow's statement. A slightly firmer tone was reported for time money to-day due to decrease in the amounts offering. The sterling exchange market continued to advance in response to the easier money conditions and demand for remittance against maturing finance bills was said to be an important factor in that market.

Attention was given to published expressions by a prominent banking official in a tone of warning against an assumption of security against money stringency beyond the immediate future and pointing to the requirements still unmet for payment of San Francisco insurance losses and the liquidation of assets yet to be effected on that account.

The continuance of the injunction against the enforcement of the 80c gas law, pending a decision in the suit to test its constitutionality, caused feverish fluctuations in Consolidated Gas. The sharp rally in the wheat market was given as a cause for the late weakness in stocks, but the growing disposition to realize as the day progressed has been a feature of the market each day this week. The closing was easy.

FOREIGN FINANCIAL.

London, June 8.—The supplies of money were plentiful to-day and rates were easy, but not materially lower. Trading on the Stock Exchange was inactive. It was rumored that the Government intended to take early advantage of the easy monetary conditions to make another issue of Irish land stocks, which depressed gilt-edged securities generally. Home rails declined on lack of support, but foreigners were a shade higher. Americans were the only section which showed any life. They opened steady and hardened to over parity. Illinois Central was a feature. Later New York advices had a quieting effect, the market eased and closed dull. Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe was in best request during the afternoon. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 102. At the close quotations were: Consols for money 89 11-16; do for the account 89¾; Anaconda 13⅞; Atchison 93⅝; do preferred 106⅝; Baltimore and Ohio 113; Canadian Pacific 165½; Chesapeake and Ohio 60⅝; Chicago Great Western 20; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 182⅝; De Beers 17⅝; Denver and Rio Grande 48; do preferred 91⅛; Erie 47⅝; do 1st preferred 82; do 2d preferred 73⅛; Illinois Central 189; Louisville and Nashville 154½; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 36⅝; New York Central 145¼; Norfolk and Western 91¼; do preferred 95; Ontario and Western 52⅝; Pennsylvania 68⅝; Rand Mines 6⅛; Reading 74½; do 1st preferred 47; do 2d preferred 49; Southern Railway 40; do preferred 103; Southern Pacific 68⅝; Union Pacific 157; do preferred 98; United States Steel 42½; do preferred 109⅝; Wabash 22¼; do preferred 51½; Spanish 4s 93. Bar silver steady at 30d per ounce. Money 2@2½ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3½ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three-months' bills is 3⅝@3 71-6 per cent. Bullion amounting to £20,000 was taken into the Bank of England on balance to-day.

Paris, June 8.—Prices were unsteady at the opening of the Bourse to-day, but later there was a firmer tendency. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 80.65 and Russian bonds at 491. Three per cent. rentes 98f 37½c for the account. Exchange on London 25f 17½c for checks.

Berlin, June 8.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was dull, due to realizations. Exchange on London 20 marks 49⅝ pfgs. for checks. Discount rates: Short bills 3¼ per cent.; three months' bills 3½ per cent.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were weak. Imperial 4s closed at 74¼ and 5s at 87⅛.

LEAF TOBACCO.

Friday Evening, June 8.—The Burley market showed some improvement compared with yesterday and prices were well maintained. The market for new Burley was strong and active at satisfactory prices. For old Burley the market also showed strength and all grades met with good competition. The dark market was unchanged, but prices were firm. All grades met with good competition and rejections were light.

Auction sales of leaf tobacco for the week amounted to 786 hogsheads and private sales to 986, the total being 1,772, as compared with 2,905 for the corresponding week last year. Since January 1 total sales have amounted to 88,784 hogsheads, as compared with 72,868 in 1905. Sales of Burley for the week totaled 364 hogsheads, of which 11 were of the old crop. The sales of dark were 1,408 hogsheads, old crops amounting to 39. Rejections this week were 121 hogsheads, or 15 per cent. of the sales at auction. Since January 1 rejections have amounted to 9,640. Receipts for the week were 949 and since January 1 they have amounted to 63,229.

The following is the report of offerings today on the Louisville market, including all the warehouses:

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Louisville.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, June 8.—Cattle—The receipts of cattle to-day were 350 head; for the week thus far 1,706. The trade generally was unusually quiet to-day, and, despite the fact that the fresh supply was very light, there were fully enough cattle here to supply the wants of the trade. The demand was almost entirely local, as there were but few foreign buyers on the yards. The movement as regards the choice, handy-weight butchers was normal, or about like yesterday, and the supply absorbed early, but the depression in the trade in the common and medium kinds (and especially grassy, half-fat cattle) was, if anything, more marked, and sales hard to effect, even at the decline noted yesterday. Feeders and stockers quiet. Milch cow trade slow. Bulls and canners steady, likewise the feeling on heavy cattle.

Calves—Receipts of calves 93 head; for the five days 591. The market was practically unchanged; bulk of best $5.50@6; rough, grassy kinds slow.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs to-day 3,913 head; for the five days 9,240. Although the supply was rather light to-day, the market was a shade easier. Nevertheless, light shippers and 90 to 120-pound pigs scored a 5c advance; best, 160 pounds and up $6.40; 120 to 160 pounds $6.30; pigs $5@6.10; roughs $5.70 down. Pens fairly well cleared, but the market closed slow.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs 3,516 head; combined receipts for the week thus far 22,638. The market was fully steady all along the line. Choice lambs met with ready sale at $7.75; best seconds $6.75; other grades unchanged. Best fat sheep $5.25@5.50; common and medium grades steady; stock ewes $4@4.50, with bulk of best around $4.25.

(Reported by the Central Live Stock Exchange, Central Stock Yards.)

Louisville, June 8.—Cattle—Receipts light to-day, as is usually the case on Friday, but the demand was also limited. The buyers are manifesting very little interest for anything except the choice, lightweight butcher stuff; that class is selling fairly well at steady prices, but it is difficult to find buyers for the common, half-fat grassy stuff, even at a decline of 10@15c per hundred since Monday. The stocker and feeder trade is still very quiet; very little demand for anything except the choice grades. Bulls and canners steady. No heavy shipping cattle on sale; feeling about steady on that class. The milch cow trade is still very dull and draggy; the choice grades sell fairly well, but the thin, small cows are hard to sell.

Calves—Receipts liberal for Friday; market steady; best veals $5.25@5.75; extra calves bringing $6; common calves dull.

Hogs—Receipts liberal; market 5c higher on lights and steady on all other grades; best, 160 pounds and up $6.40; 120 to 160 pounds $6.35; heavy pigs $6.10; light pigs $5.40; roughs $4.50@5.75. Everything sold; market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light. There was a good demand for choice lambs and the market was higher to-day; best lambs bringing $7.75; seconds $6.50@6.75; tail-ends $5@6; best fat sheep $5@5.50; fair to good sheep $3.50@4.50; common $2.50@3. Best stock ewes $4@4.50; common kinds not wanted.

New York.

New York, June 8.—Beeves—Receipts 3,979; extra steers firm, others steady to 10c lower; bulls and cows slow; common stock not wanted. Common to extra steers $4.40@5.90; oxen $4.80; bulls $3.55@4.30; cows $2.20@4.10. Liverpool and London cables quoted live cattle slow at 11@12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef 8⅝@8⅞c per pound. Exports to-morrow, 1,000 cattle and 6,625 quarters of beef. Calves—Receipts 577; veals firm and 25c higher; buttermilks nominal; veals $5.25@7.50; culls $4.50; dressed calves firm; city dressed veals 8@11c per pound; country dressed 7@9½c. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 6,748; sheep firm; lambs strong; yearlings steady. Sheep $4.25@5.75; lambs $7.75@9; yearlings $6@7.25. Hogs—Receipts 1,297; market steady; State hogs $6.25@7.

Kansas City.

Kansas City, June 8.—Cattle—Receipts 1,300, including 600 Southerns; market strong to 10c higher. COTTON MARKETS.

New York, June 8.—The cotton market was moderately active again to-day, with fluctuations comparatively narrow and irregular and business chiefly in the way of evening up for over the week end. The close was steady at a net decline of 1@3 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 200,000 bales. The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 2 points. There were no cables to influence sentiment and the weather South continued good, but there were further reports of spot sales from the local stock and there was a demand for July, supposed to be covering in hedges against local supplies. The market ruled steady to firm during the early session and in the early afternoon sold up a net advance of 5@7 points, with July touching 10.69c. Offerings increased on the bulge, and in the late trading the market reacted under realizing by recent buyers, with the close at practically the low point.

Estimated receipts at the ports to-day 7,000 bales, against 10,819 last week and 17,236 last year. For the week 55,000 bales, against 76,957 last week and 112,430 last year. To-day's receipts at New Orleans were 845 bales, against 2,848 last year, and at Houston 1,029 bales, against 2,029 last year.

New Orleans, June 8.—Spot cotton was quoted firm at an advance of ⅛c. Sales were 1,750 bales on the spot and 100 to arrive, a total of 1,850. The demand was strong; offerings limited. Low ordinary 7 11-16c, nominal; ordinary 8 3-16c, nominal; good ordinary 9½c; low middling 10 5-16c; middling 10 15-16c; good middling 11 7-16c; middling fair 11 13-16c, nominal; fair 12 7-16c. Receipts 845 bales; stock 96,754. Futures opened quiet and unchanged to 2 points up. Weather and crop reports were mixed and the spot demand dominated the situation and put July up strongly, until it was 15 points higher than yesterday's closing. The other active positions advanced 7 and 8 points. A fair business was done all day in spite of the fact that Liverpool was closed. Toward the closing profit-taking caused a moderate reaction and the market closed steady at a net advance of 6 points on July and a net decline of 1 point on the other active positions. The range was as follows:

MONTH.	Opening.	High.	Low.	Close.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 8.—The Missouri State crop report, which showed a decline of 10 points in the condition of fall-sown wheat during the month of May, was the chief reason for a strong close in the local wheat market to-day. The last quotation on July showed that option up ⅝c. Corn gained ⅛@¼c. Oats were up 1½c. Provisions were 5c lower to 7½@10c higher.

The Missouri report, which gave the condition of winter wheat as 77 per cent. on June 1, compared with 87 per cent. on May 1, rendered the market quite firm at the opening. Another factor that strengthened prices was the continued wet weather in the Red River Valley in Minnesota. Toward the end of the first half hour improved weather conditions in the Southwest caused free selling by local longs and commission houses, and brought about a considerable decline, but during the last hour the demand became urgent because of numerous reports of damage of drouth in Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, and these, supplementing the official report from Missouri, caused a strong bullish sentiment just before the close. The market closed strong at the highest point of the day. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher, at 83⅜ to 83⅝c, sold off to 83⅛c and advanced to 84⅛c. The close was at 84⅛c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 167,000 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreet's, were equal to 576,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 247,000 bushels, compared with 272,000 bushels for the corresponding day one year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 163 cars, against 134 cars last week, and 140 cars one year ago.

The corn market was weak early in the day because of lower cables and largely increased acceptances. Later in the day prices rallied sharply on covering by shorts, who were alarmed at the sudden strength shown by wheat and oats. The close was strong and at the highest point of the day. July opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜c lower, at 51@51⅛c to 51⅛c, declined to 50⅝c and then advanced to 51⅝c, where it closed. Local receipts were 362 cars, with 151 of contract grade.

The Missouri crop report was extremely bullish on oats, the reports showing a condition of 48 per cent. on June 1, compared with 88 per cent. for the corresponding time one year ago. Lack of rain was given as the cause of the poor condition. This report was largely responsible for an advance late in the day of more than 2 cents on the price of the July delivery. During the last hour the demand for oats was general, and the volume of trading was large. The market closed strong. July opened ⅛c higher, at 36⅛c, declined to 35⅝c and then advanced to 38⅛c. The close was at 37⅝c. Local receipts were 133 cars.

Provisions were easy with the exception of July pork. This product appeared to be in a somewhat congested condition, and prices were bid up by local packers. Trading on the whole was very quiet. At the close July pork was 7½@10c higher, at $16.85. Lard was off 2½c, at $8.80. Ribs were 5c lower, at $9.45.

Scale Upon Which the Great Spectacle Will Be Produced At the Jockey Club Park.

Three immense stages and one tremendous ring are necessary for a complete presentation of the spectacle, "Feast and Furies," which will be at Jockey Club Park all of next week, under the indorsement of the Home-coming Week Committee. As has been previously stated, these necessary adjuncts to the equipment of this production will be erected in the paddock at the park, and the arrangement is such that everybody will be able to see the entire show. Any seat at the park means that every detail from first to last will come under the observation of the audience. This is not usually true, but in this case all seats are good seats.

Much interest in this coming production is being shown. The sale of seats has been removed to Baldwin's music store, and will be continued there. Many requests for seats have come in, going to show that "Feast and Furies" is going to be liberally patronized by Louisville people as well as those visiting here during Home-coming Week. A fact which the management is desirous of impressing on the people is that the opening performance Monday night will be as complete and effective in every detail as any other during the entire week.

LOUISVILLE MAN GETS GOOD PLACE.

J. W. Thomas Appointed Soliciting Freight Agent of Southern Railway At Chicago.

J. W. Thomas, a former Louisville man, has been made soliciting freight agent at Chicago for the Southern railway. The announcement was made yesterday by R. L. McKellar, assistant freight traffic manager. The appointment became immediately effective. The position which Mr. Thomas assumes is a very important one. He began his railroad career as a bill of lading clerk in the commercial agent's office in this city. He was transferred several months ago to become chief clerk to the commercial agent at Chicago. Mr. Thomas is a brother of C. H. Thomas, agent of the Asheville line in Louisville.

Mr. Thomas succeeds C. S. Bourque, who was transferred to Cairo, Ill., as traveling freight agent, to succeed J. D. Dowling. Mr. Dowling recently severed his connection with the Southern railway to accept the position of commercial agent of the Missouri Pacific railway at Greensboro, N. C.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS GO TO LEXINGTON.

A large delegation will go to Lexington to-morrow morning to participate in the annual memorial services of the Knights of Pythias, which will be held in that city. The party will leave at 7:50 o'clock over the Southern railway. A feature of the day's programme will be the parade, in which all three of the Kentucky regiments will participate. Gen. McCracken, commanding the Kentucky brigade, will be accompanied by Col. Max Herbst and the Fourth regiment of Eastern Kentucky.

Col. J. W. Newman, of Versailles, issued orders for the two local companies to participate in the ceremonies. Alpha Company, No. 45, will be under the command of Capt. W. R. Caperton. The staff officers, who will make the trip, are Charles W. Ratterman, S. A. Edleson, R. N. Struck, D. S. Reynolds, W. S. Wessling, Dr. George L. Pope, J. S. Borscheneck, P. D. Crawford, J. H. Miller and A. R. Cook. Luncheon will be served to the visiting knights and ladies at Phantom Lodge rooms.

Valued Art Work Broken In Shipment.

JURY DECIDES $1,000 INSURANCE POLICY VALID.

HARRY RHODES GETS A YEAR.

Miss Belle Applegate, the prima donna, yesterday afternoon brought suit for $1,000 against the Merchants' Dispatch Transportation Company, the sum being given as the value of a life-sized bust of the plaintiff, which was broken in transit to this city last July.

She says that the bust was sent from Havre to New York by steamer, and that it passed through the customhouse in New York in good condition. At New York, the petitioner says, it was placed in the hands of the defendant company to be delivered at the residence of the plaintiff's family, at 1260 Second street, Louisville.

When the box was opened here, it is alleged, the bust was found to have been broken and made worthless.

The petition says that Miss Applegate has been employed as a prima donna in Europe during the last eight years. The bust, she says, was made by a celebrated sculptor, and that it had been exhibited at the Salon at Paris, where it was much commended.

She avers that she sat for twenty-eight days, three hours a day, in having it made. The plaintiff says that she had intended to use it for advertising purposes in her tours throughout this country and Europe. Former Gov. W. O. Bradley represents the plaintiff.

Light Penalty For Killing.

Harry Rhodes, colored, who was tried in the Criminal Court yesterday on the charge of killing Harriet Ray, his mistress, was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter and his punishment fixed at one year in the workhouse. The trouble occurred April 1 at Seventh and Dumesnil streets. Rhodes, who is about twenty years of age, struck the woman a blow on the jaw, which broke her neck. The defense, however, contended that Rhodes was defending himself from her attacks; that she was actuated by jealousy, and that heart trouble was largely responsible for her death. The Ray woman was thirty-five years of age and the defense alleged that she had two living husbands without having secured a divorce from either of them. The case went to the jury without argument.

Insurance Policy Valid.

By a verdict returned yesterday in Judge Field's court, Mary Ford recovered $1,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company upon the life of her husband, John Ford. The decedent was issued a policy July 31, 1905, and on October 16, 1905, died of Bright's disease. It was charged by the company that the man examined for the policy was not John Ford, but someone else whose physical condition was such as to justify issuance of the policy. This the plaintiff denied, contending that the reason for such a suspicion was because of the changed appearance of her husband just prior to his death. The jury was only out three minutes. Caruth, Chatterson & Blitz represented the plaintiff.

Charged With Embezzlement.

George W. Bennett, formerly an agent for the Commonwealth Life Insurance Company, was indicted on the charge of embezzlement yesterday by the grand jury. He is accused of having collected a premium for $338.70 from Timothy Seay, after writing for him a policy and then failing to account for the money. Bennett has left for parts unknown, it is said. An indictment also was returned against Andrew Rose on the charge of grand larceny.

Pat Costello Found Insane.

Pat Costello, who has caused excitement lately by his strange actions, was adjudged a lunatic in the Criminal Court yesterday, and was sent to Central Asylum. On one occasion he burned his clothes and tried to go naked. He has been seen several times with a banjo and acts in a very peculiar manner. He also has been seen performing tricks with a wheelbarrow and pretending to be a strong man. Costello is thirty-eight years of age and from Ireland. He is the son of Thomas Costello, who lives in the western portion of the city.

Court Paragraphs.

—William R. Beckley sued the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association for certain sums alleged to have been excessive premiums on life insurance.

—Susan Townsend Newton, by her will dated August 4, 1905, and tendered for probate yesterday, leaves one-fourth of her bank account to her husband, and the remaining portion to George J. Townsend, her son, who is made executor without bond.

—In the case of Mary Sanders, who sued C. A. Finnegan to gain possession of a narrow strip of ground between their two lots on Twenty-seventh street, between Portland avenue and Bank street, and claimed by both of them, a jury in Judge Gordon's court found for the defendant. The suit was instituted in 1904, and its first trial resulted in a hung jury.

Court of Appeals Decisions.

David Harding vs. George Woolridge, etc.—Filed June 5, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Marion Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Hobson, reversing.

First—Lands—Order of Sale—Reversal of—Rule as to.—The rule is that the reversal of an order of sale does not affect the sale if that has been confirmed. The validity of the sale in this case was not passed on by this court on the former appeal. The judgment was merely held to be erroneous because process had not been served on the infants. (See 21, R. 265.)

Second—Pleading.—An amendment to a petition which merely corrects a description of land is not the assertion of a new cause of action and requires no summons upon it.

The M. C. Lilly Co. vs. Commonwealth of Kentucky.—Filed June 5, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Franklin Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Hobson, reversing.

Claims Against State—Resolution of General Assembly Authorizing Suit Upon.—The General Assembly by resolution authorized suit to be brought upon this claim. The military fund was not referred to by the resolution and any general funds of the State will be for its payment. Therefore, the Legislature having authorized the suit to be brought it is the duty of the lower court to pass upon the claim, and if just allow it.

W. S. Pryor for appellant; N. B. Hays, C. H. Morris for appellee.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. vs. Schmidt.—Filed May 5, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Union Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Hobson, reversing.

Life Insurance—Misstatements in Application—Instructions.—The evidence in this action being undisputed that a state of facts existed which was not disclosed in the application for insurance, and that the statements made in the application were untrue, and it further appearing that the insurance would not have been issued had the applicant stated the facts with reference to his health, there should have been a peremptory instruction to find for the insurance company.

E. R. Atkinson, Drury & Drury for appellant; H. D. Allen, P. B. Miller for appellee.

William Taylor vs. Commonwealth.—Filed May 5, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Jefferson Circuit Court, Crim. div. Opinion of the court by Judge Nunn, affirming.

Power of Court of Appeals to Reverse Judgments in Certain Cases.—This court is not authorized to reverse a judgment of conviction when there is any evidence to support the verdict, and the instructions in this case being correct, and some evidence to support the verdict it will be upheld.

W. L. Brown, W. H. Wright for appellant; N. B. Hays, C. H. Morris, Lindsay South for appellee.

Rus Talbot vs. I. J. Owen.—Filed May 31, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Daviess Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by John D. Carroll, Commissioner, reversing.

First—Slaves—Marriage of—Descent.—This is an action by appellant who claims to be the owner of an undivided interest in a lot. He is the son of Talbot and a woman who jointly took the title to the lot. They were negroes and had had a customary marriage, and appellant had a vested interest in the property as the heir of Talbot. He is entitled to the possession of his interest, and the property should be sold and the proceeds divided according to the interests of appellant and his mother.

E. B. Anderson, W. T. Owen for appellant.

Jackson vs. Jackson.—Filed May 31, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Caldwell Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Chief Justice Hobson, affirming.

First—Divorce—Rule as to Chancellor's Judgment.—This action by the wife for alimony was dismissed by the Chancellor, who seems to have concluded from all the facts that the separation of the parties was by mutual consent.

Second—Same—Rule as to Chancellor's Finding.—It is a rule of this court not to disturb the Chancellor's judgment, when on all the evidence the mind is left in doubt as to the truth of the matter in controversy.

J. P. Alexander for appellant; Hodge & Hodge for appellee.

THE CHARM OF A DAINTY BEDROOM is greatly enhanced by the installation of a "Standard" Porcelain Enameled One-piece Lavatory. Its gracefulness of design, its snowy lustrous whiteness, make it infinitely more sanitary and attractive than the old-time washstand. With a bedroom so equipped the occupant is to a great degree independent of the bathroom. The cost is moderate—the comfort value enormous.

We have a very complete line of these lavatories on exhibit in our showroom, which we would be glad to show you. Sales through the plumbing trade.
